

RUSSIAN FLEET WHICH ESCAPED FROM PORT ARTHUR PUTS INTO NEUTRAL PORTS ALONG CHINESE COAST==WARNED TO LEAVE

Three Warships Are at Tsing Chou, a German Port.

One Is Battleship Czarevitch, Which Is Badly Damaged.

Others Must Leave Harbor Within Twenty-Four Hours.

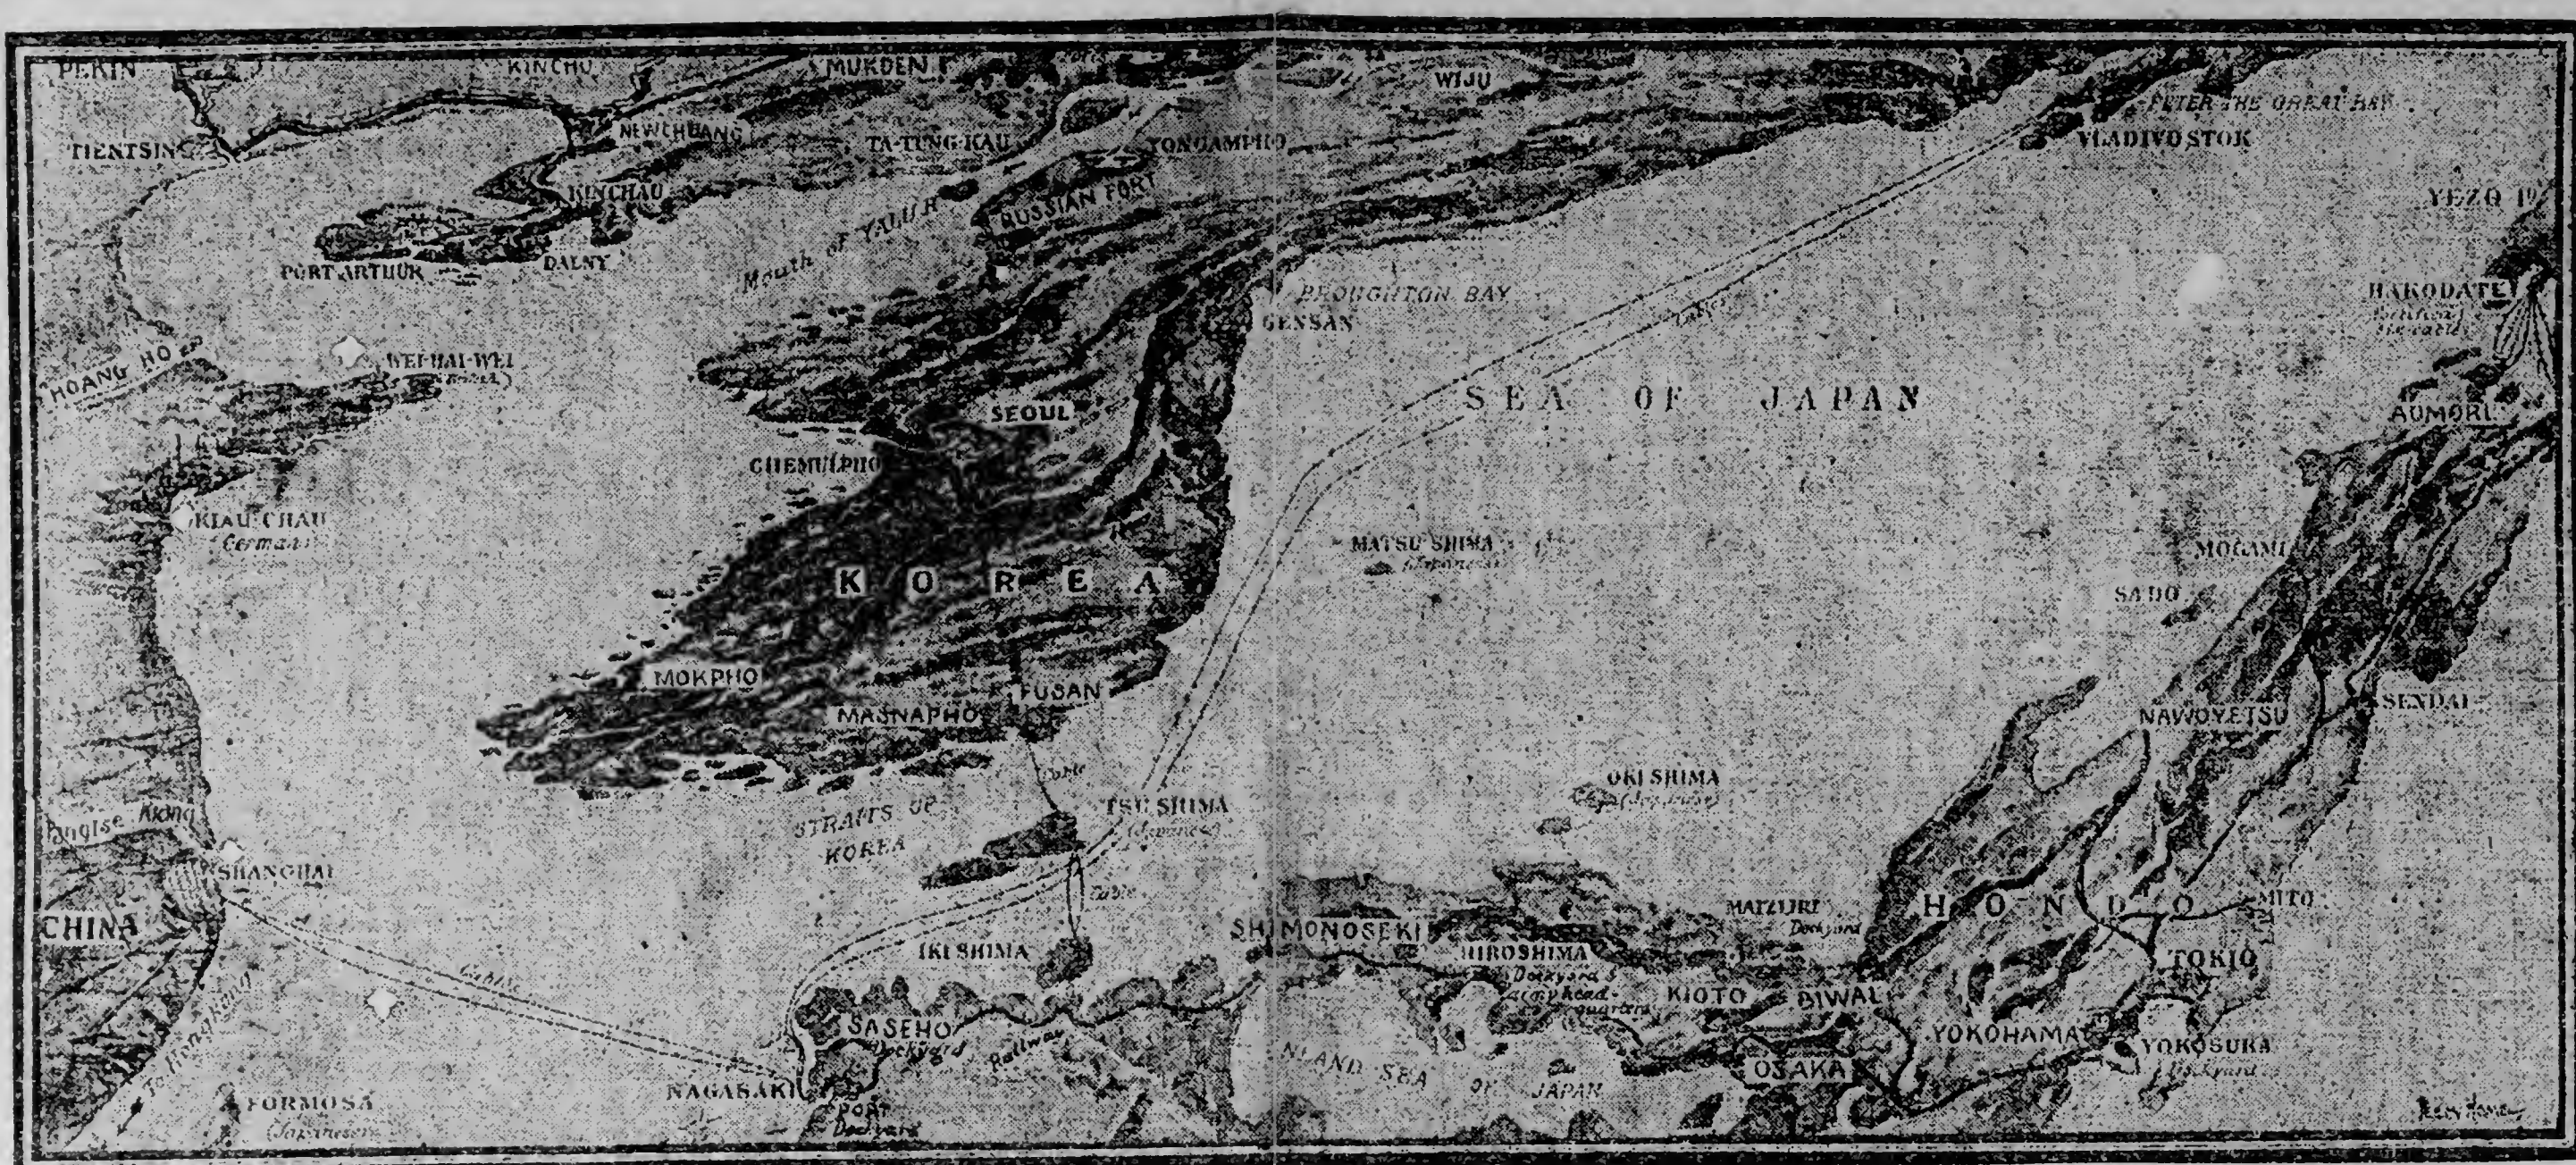

Dispatches from various points today indicate that the attempt of the Russian Port Arthur squadron to reach Vladivostok failed, and that the vessels have become widely scattered. One torpedo-boat destroyer put into Che Foo, where she was boarded and captured by the Japanese.

The battleship Czarevitch, the cruiser Novik and a torpedo boat have arrived at Tsing Chou, at the entrance of Kiao Chou bay, the German concession on the southern shore of the Shantung peninsula. According to the other dispatch the cruiser Askold is also at Tsing Chou, but advice to the German foreign office do not include her. Another Russian battleship and a torpedo-boat destroyer are reported as near Shanghai, and four battleships are off the Saddle islands, about 70 miles south of that port. Che Foo reports say that one Russian torpedo boat was captured off the Chinese coast, and Tokio hears that a number of vessels of the squadron have returned to Port Arthur.

The German foreign office has given instructions that the uninjured Russian war vessels at Tsing Chou must leave port within twenty-four hours.

The Japanese system of communication has heretofore been so perfect that there can be little doubt that the government is thoroughly informed of the position of the various vessels of the escaped fleet and will be able to either drive them into neutral ports or attack them with overwhelming force.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 12.—Everything else, from a military standpoint, seems to be forgotten in the general anxiety concerning the fate of the Port Arthur fleet. The future plans of the admiralty hang upon the preservation of the Reference to the above map will give a clear idea of the intended movements and the present positions of the Russian fleet. It is evident from the latest dispatches that quite a number, if not all the Russian ships that came out of Port Arthur, successfully evaded the fleet of Admiral Togo after a severe battle, and started south. The objective point of the ships was Vladivostok, the northern straits to the Russian port. It seems evident that from the disabling of several of the ships or the fear that the Japs were to the south of them, several of the Russian ships have put into neutral ports of the Shantung peninsula. A destroyer put into Che Foo, which is just to the west of Wei-Hai-Wei (not shown on the map), and was compelled to dismantle by the Chinese. Later she was captured by the Japanese and towed from the port. Three of the Russian ships are Tsing Chou, a German concession on Kiao Chou bay, and have been ordered to leave within twenty-four hours by the German authorities. Four Russian battleships are reported at the Saddle islands which are 70 miles southeast of Shanghai. A Russian destroyer is also reported at Shanghai. The Saddle islands are about 550 miles from Port Arthur. The direct route for these ships to Vladivostok would be through the Korean straits, but as it is reported that the straits have been mined by the Japs it may be that the Russians will not attempt the passage. It is also reported that part of the Russian fleet has gone back to Port Arthur.

bulk of the squadron, and it is not too much to say that the present is regarded as being the most critical moment of the war. The admiralty, till noon, declared that it was without official advice as to the whereabouts of the fleet and could not confirm the report that the protected cruiser Novik and another Russian warship (the battleship Czarevitch) had put into Tsingchou, at the entrance of Kiao Chou bay, the German concession on the Shantung peninsula. Nevertheless, as stated by the Associated Press last night, private dispatches seem to show that the fleet may have been communicating with Russia after passing the Shan Tung promontory, and hope is high that the fleet successfully broke through the Japanese ships and is now steaming for Vladivostok. The departure of the squadron in the face of the superior Japanese fleet is commended by all classes.

Berlin, Aug. 12.—The foreign office confirms the arrival last night at Tsingchou, at the entrance of Kiao Chou bay, the German concession on the Shantung peninsula, of the Russian battleship Czarevitch (not the protected cruiser Askold.) The protected cruiser Novik and an unnamed torpedo boat. The Czarevitch is in an unseaworthy condition, having been damaged in Wednesday's fight. The foreign office is sending instructions today to the German authorities at Tsingchou to the effect that the Novik and the torpedo boat must leave the harbor within the twenty-four hours prescribed by international law.

Che Foo, Aug. 12.—The report that two Russian cruisers and one torpedo boat destroyer had entered the port of Tsing Tzu, Kiao Chou bay, last night (Thursday) is not confirmed. The German cruisers Furst Bismarck and Thetis are preparing to leave Che Foo for that port. Two Russian torpedo boats are said to have been captured on the Chinese coast.

It is believed that the attempt of the Russian ships at Port Arthur to join the Vladivostok squadron has been thwarted.

Shanghai, Aug. 12.—A Russian torpedo boat destroyer arrived here today. It is reported that four Russian battleships are off the Saddle islands, about seventy miles southeast of this port. Three Russian cruisers are reported to have arrived at Tsingchou, at the entrance of Kiao Chou bay.

FLEET DISPERSED.
Japanese Scattered Russian Ships Far and Wide.
London, Aug. 12.—A dispatch from Tokio to the Japanese legation here says: According to reports received up to the present, the Russian squadron emerged from Port Arthur, was attacked by our fleet south of Yentao and dispersed. The Askold, Novik and another cruiser and a destroyer took refuge at Kia Chou. Another destroyer took refuge at Che Foo. On Aug. 11 five Russian battleships, a cruiser—probably the Diana—a hospital ship and several torpedo destroyers, seemed to regard Port Arthur. Our fleet is believed to be undamaged.

TOGO GUESSES WRONG.
Tokio, Aug. 12.—Admiral Togo reports that the Russian battleship Czarevitch was probably sunk on Aug. 10. An official dispatch from Berlin says the Czarevitch is at Tsingchou, a German concession in China.

FIFTY MILES OF BATTLE.
Engagement on Liao Yang Road Was Extensive.
General Kuroki's Headquarters in the field, near Two Wan, Aug. 1.—(Delayed in transmission.)—Yesterday's battle consisted of a double attack for the purpose of driving the Russians from their strong defenses commanding the Yangse pass on the Liao Yang road, through the first range of hills beyond Mo Tien pass and also to drive them from Yushu pass on the road to Mukden. The operations extended over a front more than 50 miles in length. Both attacks were successful in respect to carrying local points but the Japanese plans were not fulfilled for the reason that they contemplated partly surrounding the enemy, capturing with an infantry attack crossing the valley diagonally toward the southwest.

The division occupying the Japanese left was to attack from the south, flanking and taking the rear of the Russian positions. The division on the Japanese right together with a contingent from the center division was to attack Yushu pass. The infantry advance on Yangtussing began so late that the Japanese were unable to reach the highest Russian entrenchments before dark owing to the vigorous defenses. This was resumed early the next morning.

The main body of the Russians had retreated during the night leaving only a rear guard.

During the night of July 30, the Japanese worked repairing the road to enable the bringing up of guns. Scouting parties located and prepared positions for the guns. Seven batteries were sent forward. A majority of them took possession on a range of hills nearest the valley while the others reached the cover of the corn fields below. The left division advanced three brigades on different roads. Those engaged in an infantry attack all day. At 5 o'clock in the evening the Russians attempted a counter attack but they were repulsed sustaining a heavy loss. One Japanese brigade reached a position southwest of Yangtussing at 6 p. m. being practically in the Russian rear, but their attack was unsuccessful.

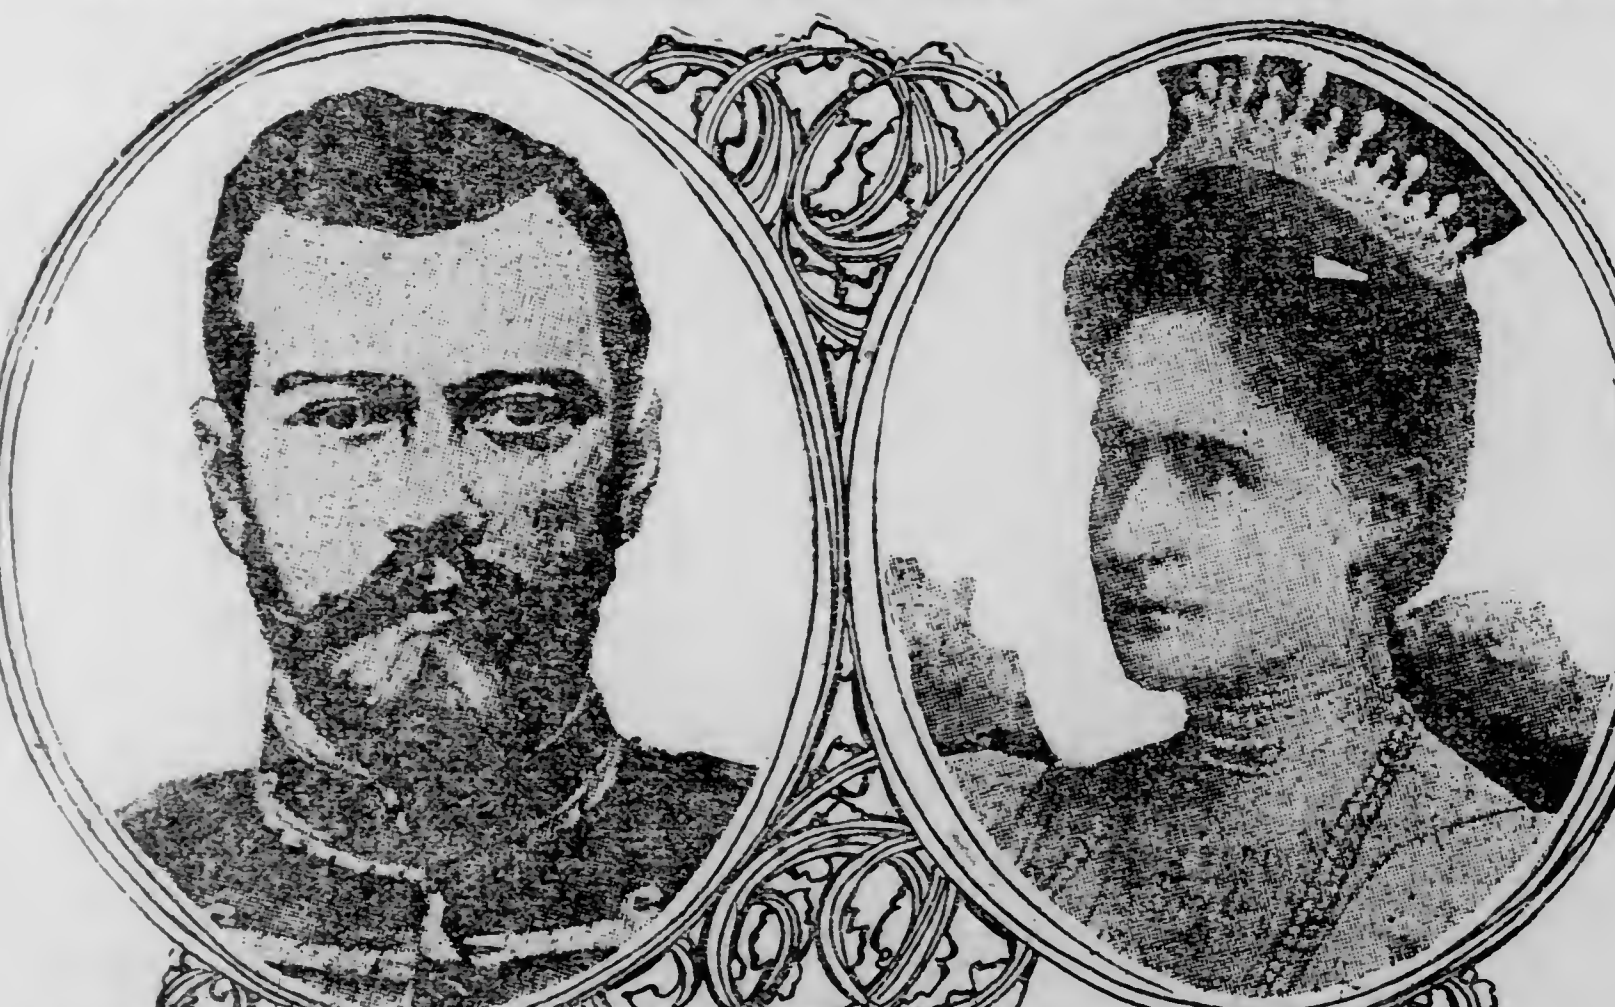

The center of the division marched from the northwest, took the village of Tientsin on the plain and a gun position there but it met a most stubborn resistance on a conical shaped hill north of the pass where the Russians were entrenched and where they made a successful stand with a small force. The fight at Yushu pass began at daylight. A detachment of the Japanese center division marched thither through Heulin. At 5 o'clock by general attack was made on the Russian right.

The Russians lost many and they raised three red cross flags. Under their cover they carried away their wounded. The Japanese ceasing their fire in the afternoon. The Japanese were driven from the first lines of their defenses and pursued to the second line. The fighting was renewed this morning, Aug. 1, and the Japanese carried the positions. The artillery battle was more evenly matched, and

The people throughout Russia have been praying for an heir to the throne and the famous great priest, Father John, of Cronstadt, has recently been visiting the Alexandra villa at intervals to join in the prayers for an heir to the throne of Russia, incidentally Father John, who is worshipped by the people and who has great influence

SHOOTING FOLLOWS AN ATTACK ON TRAIN

Strike Breakers Fire Into Crowd Who Attempt to Molest Them.

Chicago, Aug. 12.—Shooting followed an attack today on a Lake Shore & Michigan Southern train, bearing a large number of strike breakers from their homes to work at the stock yards. Windows were broken and a number of the occupants of the train had been struck by flying missiles, when one of the strike breakers opened fire into the attacking crowd with a revolver. That no one was struck was little short of miraculous. One of the bullets passed through the hat of a spectator, grazing his scalp. Had the course been half an inch lower the man would have been killed.

Retail meat dealers will not continue their efforts for a joint conference of packers and stock yard strikers. They will now seek to arrange with the union teamsters so their business will not be tied up. Today George Duddleston, a member of the retailers' committee that called on the packers, said: "I can see no reason why the retail meat dealers should make any further effort to bring about a settlement between the packers and the strikers. We devoted hours to arguments yesterday and it came to naught. I fear another meeting would be equally futile."

There is bitterness among the packing house teamsters because other teamsters are alleged to have failed to give desired support to make the teamsters tie up effective. It was reported that tomorrow the packers will resume wagon service from the yards. This will be the first time such work has been done in two weeks.

The police have prepared to give the packers extra police protection for the various. It is expected that a new plan of action will be decided on at tomorrow's session of the teamsters' joint council. Reports were current today that a vote would be taken to determine whether the packing house teamsters go back to work.

DEER RIVER HOTEL BURNED
Itasca Hotel Destroyed By Fire Starting From Chimney.
Deer River, Minn., Aug. 12.—(Special to the Herald.)—Fire starting from the chimney yesterday destroyed the Itasca hotel. Loss, $8000; insurance, $8000. E. Sullivan, the proprietor, will rebuild at once.

Lightning last night wrecked the residence of P. R. Brooks. It struck the beds of the five inmates but hurt not one. Mr. Brooks, Sr., says he threw a ball of fire out of his room with his hands.

Japs Action Believed to Be a Violation of International Law.

May Plunge China Into the War as Full Fledged Belligerent.

Che Foo, Aug. 12.—At 3:30 o'clock this morning the Japanese torpedo boat destroyers Asashio and Kasumi, which entered the harbor under cover of darkness last night, sent a boarding party against the Russian torpedo boat destroyer Ryeshiteini, which had previously been disabled by the Chinese. After a fierce fight the boarding party hoisted the Japanese flag on the Ryeshiteini and towed her out of the harbor in a northerly direction. Of her crew of forty-seven, seventeen have been accounted for. Capt. Sheshtakovski is reported killed. Seven swam ashore, landing near the American consulate. Some were picked up by sampans, and three, including a lieutenant, were rescued by a lightship. The Japanese claim that they sent in a girl to the Ryeshiteini under a flag of truce, a lieutenant and interpreter, who made a demand that the Russians come outside and fight. The Russian captain replied that his ship had been disabled, her engines disabled, and that the whole matter was in the hands of the Chinese. The Japanese were asked to investigate the disarmament. The Japanese interpreter claims that he overheard the Russian captain give a hurried order in low tone, the words not being distinguishable to the interpreter. Immediately following the Japanese seized the Japanese lieutenant and jumped overboard with him.

Meanwhile the Japanese destroyer had their searchlights turned on the Russian ship. From the deck of the lightship observers could see this act, which was followed by the shooting of rifles and sabre strokes and Russians jumping overboard. The fighting had lasted ten minutes, when an explosion followed. The explosion blew away the main bridge, but did no damage to the hull. The Russians by this time were mostly all overboard. The Japanese at once hoisted their flag. Presently a searchlight from the Chinese cruiser Hai Chi disclosed a Chinese cutter alongside the Asashio. It remained there only a minute, and then went alongside the Kasumi, where it stopped an equal length of time. The cutter then returned to the Hai Chi. The inaction of the Chinese fleet is unexplained so far. It is believed serious international complications will result from the incident. There are unconfirmed stories in circulation that the Japanese fired at the Russians when they were in the water, and that they refused to rescue any of them.

The disarmament of the Ryeshiteini was completed last night and her flag was hauled down, the crew singing the national anthem. Tears coursed down the cheeks of Capt. Sheshtakovski during the ceremony. It was evident all the preceding day that the necessity of abandoning his ship, which had served him so well, greatly affected the captain, who won considerable renown while at Port Arthur. It is thought that when he discerned the purpose of the Japanese he gave a hurried order to blow up the ship, intending to end his life and that of his assailants with the life of the ship. One of the reports in circulation states that the captain, who was severely wounded, was rescued, and is now being secretly by his friends. It is presumed that the cap-

ENORMOUS WORK

Court's Tour of Ranges
Naturalizing Citizens
Means Much Work.

Various Subterfuges Are Adopted to Get Papers Illegally.

Few people, unless they are acquainted with the methods of court procedure in the making of new citizens, can realize the immense amount of work entailed by the officers of the district court of this county when, every two years, the court makes a tour of the outside villages in the county and issues certificates of citizenship to several hundred persons who are entitled to receive them.

During the trip to the range towns and Floodwood about 624 persons were admitted to citizenship, including three women.

About 160 persons who made application for second papers were turned down, either because there was evidence that they were trying to get their papers through methods which, to say the least, were very irregular, or because the necessary time since the issuance of the first papers had not yet expired. In the latter case the court held strictly to the law, and there were instances where men who had but one to three days more to go until time was up were refused second papers. One man who had to wait another day or two before the court to an adjoining town the second day and then secured his papers. Others followed the court two days afterwards, with their witnesses.

Among some of the foreign born element a tendency to smuggle some of their friends into becoming citizens who were not entitled to second papers was found. Every attempt of this kind was so glaringly apparent that the court officers refused promptly to issue certificates to those attempting to get them through false representations. For instance, one man would appear with a portion of the first papers, or the declaration of intention to become citizens, that part where he made oath as to his place of birth and intention, while the lower portion, of the paper, the certificate of the clerk of district court or United States court, where the papers were issued would be missing. The applicant would have an explanation to give as to how the portion missing had become torn off by accident and loss. This application was invariably refused.

Shortly afterwards, perhaps, another man would turn up with the missing portion of the clerk's certificate and ask to be made a citizen.

He would claim that the first papers were issued him, but the upper part of the document was destroyed by a fire. This claim would be made when the paper itself showed evidence that a knife or some other sharp instrument had been used to complete the separation.

The method of procedure of the court to make a citizen was simple, but it meant a great deal of work. The applicant was first sworn by Clerk of Court Johnson, who sent him to Judge Dill. From the court the applicant went to Deputy Clerk Hamilton, who he was given the more lengthy oath of allegiance and turned over to Deputy Clerk T. G. Holloway, who issued the certificate already dated and requiring the applicant's signature and the fee of $1.

The oath of citizenship was repeated by Deputy Clerk Hamilton 624 times during the several days of the trip. It contains about 500 words so that during the interval Mr. Hamilton practically spoke 312,000 words. To a person not accustomed to public speaking, and to keep it up for several hours at a stretch at a very rapid rate, the strain on the voice was a hard one, but Mr. Hamilton stood it well, though at times he became somewhat hoarse. His only method of alleviation for hoarseness was the use of lemons occasionally.

Of the three women admitted to citizenship, on the trip, one of them, a Russian, was admitted on her husband's paper, the latter having died.

The first papers presented, while most of them were issued from district court of this county, came from nearly every state in the Union, from Maine to California and from Minnesota to Texas. While the phrasing of all were practically the same there was a great variety of different types of paper.

The statistics compiled by Deputy Clerk Hamilton of the work done by the court, show some points of interest as to the nationalities of those admitted to citizenship. It is claimed, of the proportionate nationalities making up the range population.

The nationalities were divided among the various places mentioned as follows:

Tower—Great Britain, 12; Sweden, 17; Denmark, 2; Norway, 8; Russia, 8 and Germany, 4.
Ely—Austria, 41; Russia, 46; Sweden, 6; Great Britain, 2; Germany, 3.

COURT'S NOVEL ARRANGEMENT

Wife Will Rule Three Days and Husband Four.

Chicago, Aug. 12.—Matthew Chapman cannot go home to his $20,000 Aurora residence three days in the week. Instead he will have to seek the seclusion of his club. Mrs. Chapman cannot go home, because Mrs. Chapman will be in possession of the house on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

Any other day in the week Mr. Chapman can come home, late or early, leave his pipe on the embroidered center table, light the lamp, and allow the cat to sleep on the sofa, and then go to bed. He wants to, without fear of wife interference, end. Mr. Chapman will be able to spend Sunday, Monday, Wednesday and Friday in Aurora.

Time division was arrived at by Judge Honore when he ordered that Mrs. Helen L. Chapman be allowed possession of the house three days in the week and Mr. Chapman possession four days. This was a joint claim by Mrs. Chapman, who for a month has been in a legal contest with her husband over the possession of the home in Aurora, until their divorce suit is ended.

The court order was said that Mr. Chapman must leave the house before the morning of the day in which Mrs. Chapman takes possession. If he over-stays he will have to take a hasty swallow breakfast or prepare

FIGHT FOR GOLD

Charles P. Dewey's Will Attacked and Bitter Contest Expected.

DRUNK ON HONEYMOON.

Groom Was Intoxicated the First Eight Days.

Troy, Mo., Aug. 12.—After only fifteen days of married life, Mrs. Marie Jamison filed suit in the circuit court here, asking for a divorce from her husband, Joseph Jamison. She alleged in her petition that they were married in St. Louis July 20, and lived together seven days. Immediately after the ceremony her husband got drunk and remained drunk during all of the honeymoon. She alleged and during all of this time was most abusive and insulting to her, and threatened to throw her out of the window into the street, and because she called on a lady friend one evening a few blocks from their boarding place, he charged her with unfaithfulness in language very much unbecoming a husband. She further says that on their return home to St. Louis, he refused to go with her to his reception, a brother of the groom in honor of their marriage, and when she desired her husband to go with her to this reception, he refused to go a step, and exercising the husband's ancient prerogative, refused also to permit her to go.

The defendant is a well-to-do farmer worth about $20,000.

MONTANA REPUBLICANS

HOLD CONVENTION SEPT. 7.

St. Paul, Aug. 12.—A special from Helena this Dispatch says: Charles Lindsay of the Republican state central committee, has issued the call for the state nominating convention, to be held at Billings, Sept. 7.

Chicago, Aug. 12.—From a fight for his life in a Kansas criminal court, Charles P. Dewey stepped into the probate court of Cook county to fight for the lion's share in the $1,000,000 estate of his father, the late Charles P. Dewey. After more than a week of argument and delay Judge Cutting admitted the will of Charles P. Dewey to probate. The fight which will follow in the Cook county courts is expected to be one of the most bitter legacy contests ever waged.

From the plains of Texas, the mountains of West Virginia, the ranches of Kansas, and the boulevards and suburbs of Chicago, the relatives will gather for the fray. Mrs. Gertrude M. Dewey, the widow, is in Manhattan, Kan., where separate maintenance proceedings were pending against Dewey at the time of his death. A daughter, Miss Emma Dewey, who was cut off with $5000, is in McKinney, Texas. She is the most vigorous contestant of the will.

Charles P. Dewey was on his deathbed in Wheeling, W. Va., when he signed the paper now in the files of the Cook county probate court, disposing of his large estate. The signature is illegible and barely legible. It is said by some that it alone is sufficient proof that he was not in his right mind at the time of his death. The argument before Judge Cutting it was asserted that he was under the influence of opiates. The document was signed June 7, 1904. He died June 10, 1904.

Charles T. Killen, who was merely a clerk, divided with Chauncey, the son, the larger portion of the estate. To the widow, daughter and other relatives fell a few comparatively trifling bequests.

The homestead at 3256 Lake Park avenue, a few shares of mining stock and $35,000 cash ought to satisfy the widow, daughter and the large majority of the relatives, according to the will in Cook county alone the personal estate of Dewey amounted to $400,000 and the realty to $150,000. In Kansas he owned miles of range land, thousands of cattle and horses, a hotel, accommodating 1000 guests, and other property.

The testament over which the contest will be waged consists of four finely written pages of legal foolscap. On the last page is the scrawl of the dying man. Following it are the names of the three witnesses—John L. Dickey, Jacob Schwinn and E. W. Alexander. Two were his physicians and the other an attorney.

Charles T. Killen, whose home is in Lakeside, filed the petition for the probate of the will July 1, through his attorneys, Matz, Fisher & Boyden. He and the son are named as executors. They immediately filed a bond of $1,000,000. The appraisers appointed by the court are: H. H. Sharenocky, F. M. Sullivan and N. J. Shannon. Mrs. Dewey, the widow, is to receive the share of the estate which would have been hers had he died without leaving a will. Small bequests are made to several nieces and nephews, and his sister, Mrs. L. Belle Kline, formerly his housekeeper, is awarded the Lake Park avenue house.

But a short time before his father died Chauncey Dewey was acquitted of the murder of three members of the Berry family in Kansas. His ranch of 50,000 acres in Cheyenne county is the last stand of the cattle kings against the encroachments of settlers on their feeding preserves.

It was in a fight between cowboys and settlers that the Berrys were killed. Chauncey Dewey controls 300,000 acres of feeding land besides his own ranch. The feud has not been quieted and promises to break out at any time.

Hamilton, Mont., Aug. 12.—Several large forest fires are in progress in various parts of Ravalli county, and much damage is being done. The forest rangers are hard at work trying to check the fires, but they have not been very successful as yet. Unless a heavy rain falls soon much damage will be done.

Two of Light Fingered Gentry Nabbed By Duluth Police.

Suspected of Working the Carnival Crowds at Superior.

Two alleged professional pickpockets, who are believed to be following the street carnival now being held in Superior, were picked up by Chief Trower and Capt. Resche of the local police department, about 11 o'clock this morning on Superior street.

At police headquarters the two men gave their names as Thomas Lyons and Joseph Diegan, but Lyons' right name is said to be Mike Lynch, known throughout the Northwest as "Mickey" Lynch, professional pickpocket and sneak thief. Both the men are known to the police by reputation, although they have never been arrested before. Lynch's picture is in the fugitive gallery at headquarters.

They were arrested for picking pockets at the state fair in Minneapolis last year. The men were discovered in front of a Superior street saloon holding an earnest conversation. Chief Trower noticed them and beckoned to Capt. Resche, who was patrolling the other side of the street. The two officers then walked up, and placed their hands on the men's shoulders.

"Hello, Mickey," said the captain. "When did you strike town?"

"Why, hello, Captain. I was just coming down to see you," said the facetious prisoner.

"All right," replied the officer, "we'll walk down there now. This is our attention at home."

At police headquarters one of the men was found to have 10 cents and the other a nickel. They were locked up in the city jail and will stand trial before the municipal court under the vagrancy ordinance.

The police will communicate with Minneapolis and secure the right name of Diegan, who is known to the police officials in that city. He is known to be a partner of Lynch, but his right name and record are not contained in the local gallery.

The two men are the first pickpockets arrested since the carnival commenced. Charges of this kind frequently follow such a show around the country and the police have been keeping a sharp lookout for them during the past week.

DINNER FOR JOHN BOOBAR
At Washington Prior to Leaving to Assist Tawney.

Washington, Aug. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—A number of friends of John J. Boobar, the present librarian of the house of representatives, tendered him a complimentary farewell dinner last night. Mr. Boobar leaves the city today for Chicago to assist Representative Tawney in the bureau having charge of the Republican speakers who will take the stump throughout the country during the coming campaign. Mr. Boobar has somewhat of a reputation himself as a stump speaker throughout Minnesota, from which state he came to Washington as private secretary to Hon. Page Morris.

ASSURANCES BY TURKEY
Of Favorable Reply to Demands of United States.

Constantinople, Aug. 12.—Nacum Pasha, under secretary of foreign affairs, called on Minister Leishman this morning at Therapia (a town on the Bosphorus, nine miles northeast of Constantinople). He reiterated the assurances of the government regarding a speedy and favorable reply to the demands touching the rights of American citizens in Turkey.

Subsequently Zeynep Pasha, secretary of the palace, and Minister of Mines Selim Pasha had a long interview with Minister Leishman for the purpose of determining upon the text of a reply which may prove acceptable to America.

Berlin, Aug. 12.—Official circles here think it probable that Turkey will ask for Germany's advice regarding the situation created by the American naval demonstration off Smyrna. An-

ON SECOND TOWER
Work Begins on the South Side of the Aerial Bridge.

One Third of Tower on North Side is Completed.

Work was commenced yesterday on the second tower for the new aerial ferry bridge across the ship canal.

The tower on the north pier of the canal is well under way. About one-third of it has been completed, and the remaining part consists of much lighter work.

One story of the tower is laid and two more remain to be added, but the upper stories are of much lighter construction than the base, and they can be erected in about the same time that was required to erect the first story.

Two of the big uprights for the lower story of the south tower have been erected and the first section will probably be complete by the end of the week.

Both towers will be finished before the work on the truss is commenced. False work will have to be erected at the edge of the piers before the work on the truss is commenced. The false work will be constructed of large fir timbers from Washington.

The progress made on the bridge since the work was actually commenced is a source of much gratification to residents of Park Point. While the work has not been rushed, it has steadily progressed and at a faster rate than was expected.

H. W. Copant, the engineer in charge of construction, states that the work on the first section of the tower is the most difficult, and that the greatest care must be taken with it.

A great deal depends on getting started right," he said. "After we once get our foundations properly laid, the work should make better progress."

Between 400 and 500 tons of the material is now on the ground. The total amount required for the bridge is about 600 tons. The company was required to deliver 400 tons before the

BID IS NOT LEGAL

So Says City Attorney of Northwestern Boiler Works Proposal.

Failure to Submit Plans Fatal to Regularity of Bid.

Owing to the opinion of the city attorney that the bid of the Northwestern Steam Boiler works is not legal because of the fact that no plans were submitted with it, the contract for the rebuilding of the bridge over Lester river will probably be let to A. Y. Bayne, of St. Paul, at the meeting of the board of public works Monday morning.

Four bids were submitted for the work. The Northwestern Steam Boiler Works of that city was the lowest bidder in the sum of $10,725. A. Y. Bayne submitted two bids for two different styles of bridge, both of which conformed to the specifications of the city engineer. One was to cost $11,000 and the other $10,800. The St. Paul Foundry company submitted a bid of $11,473.

The bid of the Northwestern Steam Boiler works, however, was not accompanied by the plans which were required under the advertisement. The board submitted the matter to City Attorney Bert Pesler, who gave it as his opinion that the bid could not be accepted under the conditions.

The matter was not taken up at the meeting of the board this morning on account of the fact that the city engineer has not yet passed upon the plans submitted, but he will be ready to report to the board next Monday morning, and if all the plans are accepted, the contract will doubtless be let to A. Y. Bayne of St. Paul, who is the second lowest bidder, and who will have the bid sent up to the council Monday night for approval.

It is thought that the bridge will be strengthened to bear the weight of loaded, double-truck cars.

DOINGS IN MICHIGAN
Molten Iron Spreads Fire and Alarm at Manistique.

Manistique—Accumulated gases in the tower of the Manistique Iron company's furnace caused an explosion of sufficient force to cause much alarm throughout the city. Bits of glowing charcoal and molten iron were hurled into the air and several houses were struck by the falling debris.

In each case the flames were promptly extinguished by the fire department. The buildings at the furnace are built wholly of metal and brick and consequently were not damaged.

Iron River—During a recent storm at Iron River, the residence of Frank Jacobson was struck by lightning and narrowly escaped being totally destroyed by fire. The family were sleeping in the house at the time, and the bolt struck the chimney and passed down in the house, striking the bed on which Mr. Jacobson was sleeping. He and one of his boys were in contact with the frame of the

TAWNEY SEES THE PRESIDENT
Consults With Executive Regarding Campaign In the West.

Washington, Aug. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Representative Tawney arrived in Washington this morning from New York and was among those who were early admitted to the presence of President Roosevelt.

Tawney is to have charge of the "Speakers' Bureau" at Chicago during the campaign and was naturally received at the executive's office with a very glad hand, and the general plan of campaign, so far as the speakers is concerned, was quite carefully gone over by the president and the statesman from Winona. Congressman Tawney leaves tonight for Chicago to formally open his bureau.

STRIKERS ATTACK NON-UNIONISTS IN NEW YORK.
New York, Aug. 12.—Demonstrations against the non-union men who are taking their places in the packing plants of Schwarzschild & Sulzberger and the United Dressing Beef company were renewed today by the strike sympathizers. A meat truck driven by a non-union man, and guarded by two policemen, was attacked by a mob at the corner of Fifty-second street and Second avenue. A stone hurled by one of the strikers crashed through the helmet of the policeman, and the driver's seat, and cut an ugly gash in his head. With the help of the driver the other officer dispersed the crowd and the team proceeded with the wounded policeman. No shots were fired.

RUSSIAN FLEEING WHICH ESCAPED FROM PT. ARTHUR

A more impressive spectacle than the one preceding the crossing of the Yalu. The two armies exchanged fire from the hill tops across the valley for twelve hours, with the exception of a two-hour's cessation at midday. It was impossible to see the result of the fire. Neither side succeeded in silencing any of the batteries of the other. It appeared to be a drawn game. The Russians used about thirty guns. Their principal position was on the highest hill southwest of Two Wan, facing the road from Mo Tien pass. For three hours in the morning the Japanese shells were hurrying about the hillside constantly, and puffs of white shrapnel smoke were hanging there over in clusters, with an occasional cloud of dust thrown up when a shell struck the earth. Another Russian battery was on the slope of a hill, one mile north of Two Wan. Another was on a low hill directly south of the base, covering the approaches to the village, across the fields from the south and east, the above batteries were the targets of a constant bombardment. When the last-mentioned was visited afterwards, more than fifty shell-holes were discovered in the ground, within a radius of 100 yards directly behind the guns. Three dead horses, killed when brought up to remove the battery, were also found. Until the attacking infantry appeared in the fields at 5 o'clock in the evening the country seemed deserted. All the Russians were under cover and the Japanese were concealed in the foot hills. The advance over the plain was largely covered by the Japanese. A Japanese regiment which entered Two Wan had its flag carried along by riders. The Japanese troops were close over on the hillside, without cover for the attackers, but the first of these trenches were carried by the steady advance, with comparatively small losses.

SON AND HEIR BORN TO THE RUSSIAN THRONE.

over the emperor, is said to have stated to his majesty before his first daughter was born that the emperor would have seven daughters before he would have a son and that the eighth child of the empress would be a son. This prophecy was firmly believed by the Russian people. The emperor and empress of Russia (formerly Princess Alix of Hesse) who were married Nov. 14, 1894, had previous to the birth of the child born today four daughters, Olga, born Nov. 3, 1895; Tatiana, born May 29, 1897; Marie, born June 14, 1899, and Anastasia, born June 5, 1901. The emperor and empress have for some time past, in anticipation of the event of today, been residing at Alexandra villa, at Peterhof, the summer palace of their majesties. The villa, so-called, is situated on one of the most beautiful parks of Russia, about one and a half hour's ride from St. Petersburg, on the Baltic railroad, which runs northeast from St. Petersburg to the shores of the Baltic, extending as far as Riga. In the park are several lakes, at the end of one of which is the "golden staircase" marble steps covered with real gold. The palace is not a large building, when compared with the palaces at St. Petersburg. In the park are several other palaces occupied by different grand dukes and their suites, and in the neighborhood are many country residences of the nobility and gentry. The queen of Greece, sister of the emperor, empress, a great favorite with the Russians and the other members of the imperial family assembled at Peterhof early last month and have been there ever since. Daily large crowds of people have also gathered at Peterhof for it seemed as if the whole nation was drawing near to the sovereign. The birth so greatly wished for, that of an heir to the Russian crown, occurred not in the great palace at Peterhof, but in the Alexandra villa, one of a group of four small palaces in a secluded corner of the magnificent Peterhof park. In one of these buildings the empress had been living for weeks. The other three are occupied by members of the imperial family gathered there in expectation of today's event including the empress's mother, his majesty's two sisters, the Grand Duchess Xenia and Olga, his brother, Grand Duke Michael, and other relatives. The Alexandra villa is a much more private spot than the grand palace. The warm brown-tinted buildings in the center of which stands a tall, square watch tower, are set in a thick forest of oaks, birches and lindens, hiding them from view on every side, except towards the Gulf of Finland, whose waters almost lap the foundation of the nearest shoreward building.

The announcement from Peterhof was immediately forwarded by a salute of 101 guns from the imperial yacht lying at anchor off the palace, but it was 3:45 p. m. when the guns of St. Peter and St. Paul fortress, opposite the winter palace here, conveyed the glad tidings to the people of the Russian capital. The effect was electrical. With the boom of the first gun the people in the streets, who had been momentarily expected the event for twenty-four hours, stopped to listen and count the guns. Only thirty-one are fired for a gun. When the thirty-second boom and the people were aware that at last an heir to the throne was born, there were scenes of rejoicing everywhere and before the salute was finished the city had bloomed out with flags and bunting and the salute in the harbor was dressed. Then the bells of the churches began to ring wildly.

In the meantime the announcement had been telegraphed to the most remote corners of the empire. In all the towns and cities the glad tidings were spread with the clang of bells and the boom of cannons. Thanksgiving services followed in all the churches. At the chapel of Alexandra villa the emperor and the imperial family attended the announcement.

The formal announcement of the birth will be made by the metropolitans of St. Petersburg, Moscow and Kiev at solemn masses tomorrow. At the various ministries this afternoon the officials were convoked to hear the announcement. The hearts of the Russian people are likely to be more deeply touched by the birth of the heir to the throne than by a dozen victories or defeats in the far East, and the superstitions of the Russian character will give an augury of a better time. St. Seraphim, who was canonized last summer by the emperor at Sorok, has now become a favorite patron saint, as the birth of the heir is attributed chiefly to his interposition.

The emperor will signalize the event by some gracious act, like the remission of acreage taxes and amnesty, and for the next two weeks, until the christening, there will be a holiday and public fetes of all kinds. There is already a revival of the talk that with the succession to the throne assured, the emperor will follow the example of the house of Romanoff and go to the front. The heir's name will be Alexis Nikolaevich and if he reigns he probably will assume the title of Alexis II. The last Alexis was emperor of Moscow, in 1645.

From this spot the public had been excluded for some days past, while a mile down the coast children shouted and romped beneath the deserted windows of the Peterhof palace and crowds of visitors gathered each afternoon to watch the marvelous fountains second only in all Europe, to those of Versailles.

The birth of the heir to the throne was attended with all the ceremonial ordained by imperial tradition in accordance with the Russian law there were present besides the emperor, Baron Fredericks, the master of ceremonies and Prince Dolgorouki, the grand marshal of the court. Dr. Rott, the emperor's family physician was the accoucheur and Dr. Edvard was the surgeon in attendance. Dr. Rott personally announced the birth of the heir to the awaiting imperial family. A formal announcement will be published in the Official Messenger. An imperial salute of 101 guns was subsequently

CAPTURE OF RUSSIAN TORPEDO BOAT DESTROYER BY THE JAPANESE

St. Petersburg, Aug. 12.—The action of the Japanese torpedo boat destroyers in attacking and towing out the defenseless Russian torpedo boat destroyer Ryshteyn at the Poo is regarded in diplomatic circles as being a very grave matter for Japan. As soon as the facts are officially established no doubt exists that Russia will promptly call the attention of the powers to this breach of the neutrality of China.

Aside from the possible questionable right of an unprovoked warship to seek a sanctuary in a neutral port when not forced to do so by stress of weather or lack of coal and provisions, all the diplomats agree as to the absolute illegality of belligerent ships entering neutral ports and there committing hostile acts. The case, so far as the facts are known, is considered much more flagrant than that at Chemulpo, where all the foreign commanders, except the commander of the American warship there, protested against the seizure of the Japanese to enter and fight the Russian cruisers Varag and Korietz in a neutral harbor.

MAY INVOLVE CHINA.

Capture of Russian Destroyer a Serious Affair.

Washington, Aug. 12.—The report of the capture by the Japanese of a Russian torpedo boat destroyer in the harbor of Chefoo, as conveyed to Washington by the consular cables, has caused a day was received with the deepest interest and also concern, for it was realized that there were in this incident the germs of serious international trouble. Mr. Fowler spoke of the affair "as cutting out" an important point from the press dispatches, which at first reading appeared to indicate that the seizure of the Russian boat was in at least some degree caused by the action of the captain of the craft in attacking the Japanese boarder. It may be that upon this point will turn the decision as to whether or not there has been a violation of Chinese neutrality by the Japanese.

If the expedition was a genuine cutting out one, then there is no question in the minds of the officials here that the Japanese have committed an offense against international law by violating Chinese neutrality, and in addition have broken the agreement they entered into at the beginning of the war, at the instance of the United States government, to limit the field of warlike operations to Manchuria and Korea and their waters. Should that prove to be the case, the results probably will be grave and vexatious. Under the tenets of international law the captured vessel must be returned to the custody of the Chinese government and an apology rendered for the offense against Chinese neutrality. But if Russian lives have been lost, as reported in the press dispatches, a greater complication will follow for Russia may in turn hold China responsible for the punishment of the Japanese who caused the death of her sailors, when under the shelter of the Chinese port authorities. Altogether the situation is full of danger and the main apprehension here is that it may be the incident that will break down the agreement of the powers to plunge China into the war, as a full fledged belligerent and ally of Japan. The consequences of such an act on China's part upon existing alliances between Japan and Great Britain and between Russia and France, can only be conjectured and the prospect is so alarming that it is not doubted the state department will do its utmost along with the rest of the powers to effect such a settlement of this incident as shall preserve the agreement as to China in full force.

London, Aug. 12.—The British officials and foreign diplomats regard the action of the Japanese in cutting out the Russian torpedo boat destroyer, Ryshteyn, at Chefoo, as raising a serious question of importance to all nations.

The foreign office received this morning, a dispatch from the British consul at Chefoo, confirming the capture of the Ryshteyn and her removal by her captors from the harbor. The consul added that the facts were immediately reported to the Chinese governor and the foreign diplomats at Peking. The former evinced considerable concern, not so much at the fact that the attack was made on the destroyer as at the precedent established by Japan, which Russia may follow in case of emergency, thereby extending the area of hostilities which Secretary Hay sought to circumscribe.

NO VISITORS AT ROSEMOUNT. Rosamont, Aug. 12.—There were no visitors at Rosemount this morning, and Judge Parker took a longer horseback ride than usual. He was accompanied by Mr. Parker.

OFFICIALS TO WORK

For Election of Roosevelt By Orders of Cor-telyou.

Plans to Utilize Great Clerk System as a Machine.

Washington, Aug. 12.—Chairman Geo. B. Cor-telyou, of the Republican National committee is using every available department of the government, to aid in the election of President Roosevelt.

He has already signified his intention of using for political purposes: The great army of federal appointees. The 17,000 rural free delivery letter carriers, a great majority of whom are Republicans. The 5,000 first, second, third and fourth class postmasters and their office employees. The office force of the pension bureau in granting pensions. The department of agriculture. Every department clerk who can be spared from his desk during the campaign. The nine members of the president's cabinet, who must make speeches. Never before has a campaign manager been called into consultation as to policies by a president at a cabinet meeting. Senator Hanna never attended the cabinet meetings of President McKinley.

Pension Commissioner Ware is to be the "wicked partner" of Chairman Cor-telyou. As the election draws nearer through red tape and official caprice for years will have their applications rushed through. Secretary of Agriculture Wilson, too, is expected to help out. All the old publications, such as farmers' bulletins and specially prepared reports on certain crops will be sent broadcast. The rural free delivery system is expected to do a big share in the work of electing President Roosevelt. The representatives in congress in Indiana, Wisconsin, Illinois, West Virginia and other states have been requested to get from all loyal Republican rural carriers lists of just how the votes will be cast and to be furnished to state and national committees by the representatives.

Every federal officialholder will be sent out to his state to work for the party, and many of the minor clerks in the government departments are refraining from taking the thirty days' annual leave granted each year in order that they may be free to work during the month preceding the election.

WEST DULUTH

Invitations to 150 men prominent in Minnesota political circles, requesting their presence at the annual banquet of the West Duluth Republican club, to be held on the evening of Aug. 25, are today being mailed. The invitations go to all parts of the state, most of them being sent to the Twin Cities and smaller towns immediately in the Duluth territory.

It is expected that a large number of outsiders will be present, in response to the invitations, particularly men from St. Paul, Minneapolis and Duluth. The principal speaker will be Congressman Boutelle, of Illinois, a man standing close to the party leaders, and of note in political circles of the nation. The presence of Congressman J. Adam Beale, Hon. Joseph B. Cotton and Robert C. Dunn, Republican candidate for governor, all of whom will speak, adds to the interest and importance of the occasion. Preliminary arrangements for the banquet are now complete, and little more can be done until the day of the banquet. When this time arrives the Schell & Wade hall, where the event will occur, will be handsomely decorated for the occasion. The plans are for a more elaborate decoration of the interior of the hall than has ever before been attempted.

LEG IS BROKEN. Another accident, this time resulting in a broken leg, occurred at the blast furnace this morning. Otto Rude, a regular employe at the plant, was the unfortunate victim. While at work about a car one of the heavy doors fell upon his leg, striking it just above the ankle and causing a severe fracture. Mr. Rude was taken to the Red Cross hospital, where he is reported to be resting easily this afternoon.

WEST DULUTH BRIEFS. Owing to a broken shaft the Alger-Smith mill shut down this morning. Repairs will be made today so that the plant will be ready to resume operations by tomorrow morning. The internment services over the remains of Mrs. Jennie Gibbs occurred this afternoon at 3 o'clock at Onondaga cemetery.

J. B. Gibson, who returned from the range yesterday, says that business is rather quiet in the range towns just now. Arthur Brady was in the city from Hibbing yesterday.

Dr. J. H. Fern, formerly of Chicago, has opened an office over Nygreen's drug store, and will begin general practice today. Harvey Bishop, who has been playing ball this summer with the Western league, is expected home tonight. Charles Wright, of Sixty-third avenue west and Gosnold street, is expected to return to his home in West Duluth tomorrow from Sioux City, Ia. George Gavett left for Hibbing today.

Max Mark returned to his home at St. Paul last night after visiting for a few days with friends in West Duluth.

The dance given by the Macabees at Schell & Wade's hall last night was a decided success. The attendance was larger than at any like affair held in the hall this year.

D. Fulton, of Ada, Minn., is visiting at the home of H. H. Phelps. Fifty-seventh avenue west and Highland street. Miss Laura Phelps, of Fifty-seventh avenue west left today for Ada, Minn., where she will visit with relatives until the public schools open in the fall. Mrs. Wesley Pollock, of Fifty-sixth avenue and Highland street, left for Hibbing yesterday.

SUPERIOR CARNIVAL

Mundy Shows Continue to Draw and Please Great Crowds.

If there is any man, woman or child in Duluth, Superior or the surrounding country, who does not know that this is carnival week at Superior, it would be a pretty difficult job to locate that individual.

Judging from the appearance of the Tower avenue "Pike" last night, every resident of Superior and as many more from out of town were on hand to share in the fun; and the spirit of the hour seemed to have gained complete control over every individual.

As a matter of figures, there were more than 10,000 paid admissions at the various Mundy Shows last night and no one will ever be able to tell just how many of the irrepressible "small boy" clamor over the fence or under the tents without being discovered.

Hundreds of people from within a radius of several hundred miles of Superior who came to town for the Jubilee Opening Monday changed their minds when train time rolled around Tuesday morning and determined to remain over until they had "done" the carnival to their hearts' content.

The Great Mundy Shows are the finest as regards quality, quantity, moral tone and good measure for the money spent, that this community has ever seen.

As to quality, those of the public who may feel skeptical, can rest assured that each and every one of the Mundy Shows is all that the various spicers claim for them, no matter to which tent the footsteps lead.

From the quantity point of view, the Great Mundy Shows consist of more individual attractions, a greater number of features and infinitely more "free acts" than anybody ever dreamed of.

Morally, the carnival is clean. The shows are wholesome, the performers without exception seek to bear that cleverness of demeanor which causes each spectator to feel as though they were a good deal nearer and dearer to him than is usually the case at either carnival, circus or theatrical production.

The executive staff that Col. Mundy has gathered about him is also one of remarkable personnel, each member of the business department being eminently a representative of the banking and mercantile walks of life.

Col. Mundy himself is a man of millions. His winter quarters at Houston, Tex., are more like those of some prodigally rich East Indian rajah, than of a showman. His annual tour extends over a period of forty weeks each year, leaving twelve weeks for rest, recuperation and reorganization of his shows the following season.

The Great Mundy shows this year have come all the way from San Antonio, Tex., where they furnished amusement features at the Flower Festival, or La Fiesta, under the auspices of the Daughters of the Republic, a woman of surprising aristocratic tastes and of that beautiful Southern city. From Superior the Mundy shows will visit Ashland, Wis., for one week and thence the route of the shows will be toward the Southland, stopping for one week at each one, reaching Chicago on the way back to Houston, Tex., where they are contracted to appear late in November at the gorgeous Cotton Festival.

Diavolo, who in private life is Arthur C. Holden, successfully recited his fearful riot through the loop twice yesterday, afternoon and evening, and the thousands of delighted and astonished people who witnessed the feat, cheered him as though he might have been some uncrowned king in a war. Diavolo's dare devil nature is best exemplified by his utterance of frivolous remarks as he dashes off his feet, leaving his audience on his journey toward the loop. Tomorrow will be the closing day and a great crowd will be on hand.

It is a tonic for the entire bowel system and helps each particular member of this system to work easily and naturally. You simply take a teaspoonful of this positive, internal remedy three times a day before each meal. It is pleasant to the taste and absolutely free from opium, cocaine or other narcotics. It is not a palliative or temporary remedy; it produces a positive, radical and lasting cure.

To cure any case of blind, bleeding, itching or internal piles, no matter how long or aggravated it may be. Out of over 10,000 cases there are only three on record where a positive cure has not been secured. ANNUAL PICNIC.

Knights of Pythias Will Make Merry.

The Knights of Pythias will hold their annual picnic next Wednesday at Fond du Lac. The members of the order are determined to make the picnic a "soft shirt affair" and a vigilance committee composed of W. Butchart, F. W. Kugler, B. G. Seng and S. L. Pierce, has been appointed to attend to this phase of the outing. All members of the order who appear on the dock next Wednesday morning, wearing stiff collars and white shirts will be unceremoniously "ducked" to take the starch out of their linen. The Duluth members of the order have challenged the Superior members to a game of baseball, and the story battle will be fought out on the grounds at Fond du Lac. The general committee in charge of the picnic consists of J. L. Cronwell, S. W. Hill, J. H. Davis and George Cruickshanks.

THE HEAD TAX

Further Explanation of Present Action and Cause of It.

Passengers on North Shore Boats Not Subjected to Delay.

The head tax of $2 that is exacted by the government from aliens as much a subject of discussion and controversy as ever, and it must be admitted that it is not very well understood. Capt. McDougall, in an interview in The Herald a few nights ago, asserted that it seemed to be directed at the Lake Superior lines, for it was not enforced on trains crossing the boundary line, nor at the ferries and crossings at lower lake points. From government authorities The Herald has learned much that will be of information to most people and will be an explanation of the situation. Capt. McDougall's statement that it is not enforced on trains crossing the boundary line, that is, that it is not enforced on boats now being enforced went into effect July 1 of this year, and are now being observed rigidly. It is the boundary between the United States and Canada. It is asserted that the head tax is maintained at Winnipeg and every train is inspected at Grenada. It is also asserted that all ferries and boats at the lower lake crossings are inspected rigidly, and that only a few have been held up to be held up at Niagara.

The collection of a $2 head tax from aliens is not a new thing with the government, though new at this point. It has for years been collected at the coast ports, its introduction along the Canadian line into this country. It is estimated that there are in Canada today not less than 10,000 people of just this kind trying to slip across into this country. Montreal has been crying out for relief from this dumping lot of alien paupers who are to wait their opportunity to get into this country. The enforcement of the head tax has been held up to be extended to the boundary.

The idea of the government is not so much to get the $2 as it is to weed out the objectionable people. The law, however, matters how long he may have been a resident of this country and he is subjected to the examination.

The question also existing, that the government inspector upon finding an alien, demands the two dollars tax. It is all there is to it. This is a mistake. Each case must go before a board and be passed upon by it. This board consists of the collector of customs, the local collector or any three of his deputies may constitute the board, and before these men the inspector takes each of his cases and they are considered and settled. If there is any suspicion as to their regularity, they must furnish proof. They are also examined by the marine surgeon to determine their physical condition, if that is questionable.

A number of instances have occurred which seemed to be unusual, particularly where a young woman, resident here for many years, had to pay the tax upon her return from a visit. On the other hand many instances have come up that illustrate the law. Recently two young prostitutes were received from entering the country. The other day a man was found on one of the boats who had not a single cent and had to get out from Monday to Wednesday. He was a pauper and was given a ticket to Duluth to get him out of the hands of some Canadian towns. Every suspicious case is thoroughly investigated.

The assertion that people of all kinds are held on the Lake Superior boats at Duluth awaiting the investigation of the inspectors is entirely untrue. The inspectors of the White line and Booth companies to be wrong. When passengers are manifested on a boat at Canadian ports they are questioned as to whether they come within the law and he makes it a point to determine upon the way to Duluth all cases that should come before the inspector. As a result when the boat reaches Duluth but very few people are detained for examination by the inspector. Yesterday the steamer Easton came in to port with 125 passengers on board. Only about two were detained, the remainder

STRENUOUS CAREER

Of Mrs. Lamplugh Who Is Figure In Packers' Strike. Seventy Years Old and Always In Some Excitement.

Cleveland, Tenn., Aug. 12.—John Heag was run over by two railroad trains and lives to tell the tale. His legs are gone, but he is otherwise sound and will recover from the shock of the amputation. "I was on an excursion train running between Chattanooga and Knoxville," he says. "A mile north of Cleveland I left the day coach to go ahead into the smoke and fell between the cars. I clutched wildly at the hand railings, but to no avail, and my body dropped across the rail with my feet on the outside of the tracks. As the wheels passed over my legs at the knees, I suppose a brake beam hit me on the head, for I became unconscious. One hour later No. 11, the fast mail on the Southern, due in Chattanooga from Knoxville at 10:15, but running sixty minutes late, which had passed the excursion train at Riceville, came around the curve at forty miles an hour. "In the meantime I had regained consciousness, but weak from loss of blood and without my legs, I had been unable to crawl off the track. Lying there, helpless, I saw the train approaching. But knowing that I would be a cripple for life even if I lived, I cared nothing and made no struggle. The engineer on the incoming train saw the body of the man lying on the track, but not knowing that it had already been run over, he reversed the lever and put on the air brakes with a suddenness that almost threw the passengers from their seats. Heag and his severed legs were brought to Cleveland in the baggage car and taken out here, where medical attention was immediately given.

The cheapest, quickest and easiest way to convey useful information to the citizens of any community is by the use of the columns of a daily circulated newspaper, like The Evening Herald.

CAMERA IN SCHOOL

Missouri Teacher's Idea In Which Pupils Are Interested. The Normal Studies Are Followed With Greater Animation.

Macon, Mo., Aug. 12.—Prof. J. Green Mackenzie, the young teacher in charge of the rural school at Millard, just north of here, uses a camera as an important accessory in his work. The object of the camera is to intensify the interest of the pupils. A class is assigned to decorate a window by training vines around it and arranging ferns. Another class is put to work at developing a flower bed on the front lawn. Others draw maps of continents, islands and seas or pictures of historical and public places. The photographs of the best of the finished work are taken by the teacher. They are mounted on heavy cardboard and are displayed in frames in country stores, postoffices and public places. Then each class executing a specially meritorious piece of work gets several pictures for distribution among friends. The pupils know that the photographs of their work must be above the ordinary. It is not a matter of chance, but a matter of necessity to see the way they shape of from 5 to 8 inches in the corner. Since then there have been no dunces in Prof. Mackenzie's school. Prof. Mackenzie's idea of the first of each month to show parents the relative standing of their children. When a pupil had advanced far enough in Prof. Mackenzie's school to spell words by word, the teacher sent him out to weed the garden that he might acquire a practical knowledge of the subject. The teacher has improved on Dickens' character of the old fashioned pedagogue by taking the whole school into the woods and there instructing his pupils. Nature studies and manual training fostered by the camera are an innovation in the district schools of Missouri. It is doubtful if any of the common schools of the big cities have so complete a system as that followed by the Millard instructor.

His school room is a miniature exhibition hall. There are specimens of all the natural productions of the vicinity, samples of the people's handicraft in mechanism and the result of experiments in horticulture. The success of the idea is indicated by the crowded school. "A schoolmaster once asked me if our school wasn't a little noisy," said Prof. Mackenzie. "I presume there would call it so, but isn't a railroad train or a sawmill something of a disturber, as well? As long as something worth while is being done, the noise can be very easily endured."

Millard is a hamlet of less than 200 inhabitants. Prof. Mackenzie is not yet 30. Of course, the regular branches in reading, mathematics, history, etc., are not neglected. "Experience teaches," said this pedagogue, "that the normal studies are followed with greater animation because of the diversion of nature studies and practical craftsmanship."

WASHINGTON'S FALSE TEETH

Of Ivory May Be Seen In Baltimore Museum.

Baltimore, Aug. 12.—It is a matter of history that George Washington was the proud possessor of the first set of false teeth made in this country, but it is not generally known that these identical teeth, which were carved from a solid piece of ivory, are now exhibited at a Baltimore dental college. In the "Encyclopedia Britannica" is found the following reference: "It has always been a subject of curious speculation to some minds how much of the calm and benign expression

IN WOMAN'S SPHERE

Social, Musical and Art Circles.

That the interest of the women of the city should be shown in a greater degree in the county fair, which is held annually in Duluth, has always been urged. At this year's fair, which is held next week, a number of interesting prizes for articles entirely within woman's sphere have been offered and if more interest were taken by a number of individuals in this one department, a more attractive and instructive fair would result. Many of the women of the city are proud of their accomplishments in horticulture and twenty-four first and the same number of second prizes are offered for meritorious displays of garden flowers which may be grown around Duluth. The first prizes are ten cents and the second 20 cents.

The housewives will be more interested in the kitchen products, prizes, and the same amounts are offered for thirty different canned fruits, preserves and pickles. Prizes are also offered for breads and cakes. For embroidered goods, drawn work, crocheted or knit goods, good prizes are offered. In the fine arts a number of large prizes are offered for work in oil, water color, pastel, crayon, pencil or charcoal and china painting.

This closes the list that would appeal particularly to women in general and if a deeper interest were taken in this department, it would do much to add to the general attractiveness of the fair.

SHOULD BE TRAINED.

Daughter Should Take Part in Domestic Councils.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 12.—Whether wealth is to be or not to be her portion, the daughter of the house should be early taught to take part in domestic councils. The business of welcoming and looking after guests, a task peculiarly fitted for the exercise of her gracious powers, is largely allotted to her. She helps her mother reduce the burden of notes, letters, applications for help and money that each day's mail brings to the breakfast table. She writes and answers invitations, gives hints as to the disposition of the daily mail, remembers dishes, pays like and the boys like and have called for, and receives claimants on her mother's time and attention. When she is acting in the maternal name her youth and buoyancy throw off a hundred trifling annoyances of the household that, through years of iteration have begun to weigh heavily on the older housekeeper. With the younger children she establishes the lovely ties of vice-queen, carrying out the mandates of the maternal sovereign and making herself a delightful comrade of nursery and school room.

To her father and grown brothers the rightly trained girl becomes a well-spring of sympathy. To her they carry confidences and worries which it does not seem expedient to convey to the generally overburdened mother and housekeeper. Her camaraderie creates a green spot in the workaday lives. She finds a natural field of activity in the arrangement of flowers, the overlooking of house plants and the disposition of furniture, books, pictures and bric-a-brac. She understands the connecting of different dishes and the theory of cooking, and when the household is short of domestic service she takes the responsible part of manager. She has her own allowance of pocket money and is taught the use of a bank account and check book. All of this and much more does the girl of culture learn and she is the child of parents wise in their generation, who realize that in training her to be unselfish and helpful to her happiness and the comfort of those who come within her helpful influence.

THE EVENING STORY.

THE CHEF

By Frank H. Sweet.

(Copyright, 1904, by Daily Star Pub. Co.)

"Did you get out, John?"

Mrs. Botford spoke eagerly, almost hysterically. Her husband drew off his slippers slowly.

"Why, yes, I brought one up, Julia, of course. I sent her round to the kitchen entrance."

"Can she cook?"

"She is neat and very nice looking," Mr. Botford temporized defensively.

"She says she can do every kind of housework from up to down, and she seems to be strong and willing."

"But can she cook—fancy dishes, I mean?"

Mr. Botford looked embarrassed.

"Well, you see, she was brought up on a farm," he explained, "and hasn't had much chance at such things. She says, however, that she had quite a reputation at home for plain whole-some cooking, and she is willing to learn. I told her what you wanted."

"Oh, John," she ejaculated. "It's 11 o'clock now, and Cousin Edward's fiancee is coming at 2 to stay until Sunday, and she and Edward and some of her people will be here tomorrow for dinner, and you know I have never seen the girl nor any of them. We must have things nice. The girl's worth a clear million in her own right. Oh, John, why need our cook get sick at such a time, and Mrs. Botford was becoming incoherent, and seemed to recognize the fact herself, for she stopped suddenly. John noticed completely.

"I am," he said. "But what else could I do? There's a corner on servants, especially cooks, at this season. The only suggestion of one besides Sarah was a ten dollars a day chef, who, of course, you don't want a chef for two days."

Mrs. Botford sprang to her feet, her face suddenly radiant.

"He can do the work, and your cook the plain food, and a chef will be so-so chic, and you know Miss Lenox has been used to everything. He—a chef is he, isn't he, John?"

"Why, yes, I suppose so. That has always been my impression, though. I don't suppose there is any law against a girl filling the position. The manager did not state in his case, only that a chef could be had till Monday."

"Well, it's him, of course. Now hurry to the telephone, please, before some one else gets him."

She waited until her husband returned from the telephone, nodding.

"Says the chef will be up at 1 o'clock sharp, John. Now I'll go down town and order the things."

At a sharp Mrs. Botford was at the window, expectant, anxious. But exactly as the clock struck a cab rolled up to the door and a girl alighted. Mrs. Botford's countenance fell a little, but arose as the girl with a quick glance around, opened the small gate and went toward the side entrance. It was the chef, though but a girl. And the fact of her coming in a cab and being well dressed was significant of the ten dollars a day.

Mrs. Botford did not wait for the girl to enter the house, but hurried to the side entrance. The occasion was a fine clump of late chrysanthemums that were smiling daintily into the very teeth of winter. Mrs. Botford's eyes were smiling daintily into the very teeth of winter. Mrs. Botford's eyes were smiling daintily into the very teeth of winter.

She loved flowers, and a girl who could bend over them with that look on her face, and that came for her, was not an artist. As the girl looked up, Mrs. Botford almost caught her in her arms.

"Oh, my dear," she cried, without giving the chef an opportunity to speak, "you must know I told you to go to the kitchen, and I will take you right into the kitchen, and Sarah will show you where everything is, and so glad, I shall not make a suggestion, for I see you are perfectly capable and can do best in your own way. Only do make it just as—comprehensive as you can. Miss Lenox is accustomed to everything, and—and I want to make sure, so much, and to please Edward."

She had been hurrying the chef through the hall toward the kitchen, but now, half crying, but wholly joyful and almost consternation, the chef suddenly bent forward, pressing a light kiss upon her forehead.

"If you are as nice to Miss Lenox as you are to me, she will be very glad to see you. I will like you. Now you may leave me in charge. I will do the best I can."

Mrs. Botford returned to the drawing room, rubbing her forehead thoughtfully.

"What's the matter, Julia?" her husband asked. "That's where the chef kissed me. I never had a girl kiss me so soon before. But I don't care, if only she diffuses her artist soul through the house."

"No," he said. "That's where the chef kissed me. I never had a girl kiss me so soon before. But I don't care, if only she diffuses her artist soul through the house."

"No," he said. "That's where the chef kissed me. I never had a girl kiss me so soon before. But I don't care, if only she diffuses her artist soul through the house."

JAPS LOSE CRUISER

Kasuga Sunk at Port Arthur With All on Board.

Russia Makes Protest to Powers on Japanese Actions.

London, Aug. 12.—A dispatch to Reuters' Telegram company from St. Petersburg says that the Japanese armored cruiser Kasuga (formerly the Argentine warship Rivadavia), was sunk with all on board during the engagement off Port Arthur on Wednesday last.

RUSSIA MAKES PROTEST.
St. Petersburg, Aug. 12.—The Associated Press is able to announce that Russia has already formally protested to Japan, through France, against the action of the Japanese torpedoed destroyers in attacking the Russian torpedo boat destroyer Ryshchikoff at Chefoo and towing her away from that port, and that the protest has been communicated to the powers.

While the admiralty declares it has received no further news of the Port Arthur squadron of the sea light which has dashed the hopes of the Russians that it seems that the vessel was only a question of the extent of the Russian sea disaster.

CHINESE CHAGRINED

Over the "Cutting Out" of Russian Destroyer.

Chefoo, Aug. 12.—Capt. Shestakovsky, of the Ryshchikoff, who was wounded in the leg by a bullet, and twenty of his men were saved by boats from the Chinese cruiser Hai Yung.

Interviews with Admiral Sah and Capt. Ching, who is in command of the Hai Yung, indicate that the Chinese naval authorities were more anxious than was at first supposed, when the first Japanese torpedo boat departed to the northward, the second Japanese destroyer steered a course past the flagship and the cruiser Hai Chi. The latter cleared for action and signalled to the destroyer to stop. This was done. Admiral Sah informed the commander of the Japanese destroyer that the Ryshchikoff must be returned, as neutrality had been flagrantly violated. To this the commander of the second destroyer replied that he would overtake the first destroyer and return to Chefoo. Admiral Sah accepted the word of honor of the Japanese commander and allowed him to depart. The Chinese admiral is deeply chagrined at this occurrence and is all at sea as a result. He has turned the command of his squadron over to Capt. Ching.

EMPEROR HAS MESSAGE.
St. Petersburg, Aug. 12, 11:06 p. m.—The emperor has just received a long telegram from Kiao Chou which is now being deciphered. The latest news that four of the Russian battleships are off Shanghai is received with great satisfaction at the admiralty, as indicating that the bulk of the fleet has escaped. The telegram to the emperor probably contains an official account of the sea fight.

REPORT FROM KUROPATKIN.
St. Petersburg, Aug. 12.—The emperor has received the following dispatch from Gen. Kuropatkin, dated Aug. 11:

"A forward movement of a small detachment of Japanese against the south front of the Manchurian army was observed today.

SHIPS AT SHANGHAI.
Washington, Aug. 12.—Consul General Goodnow cabled the state department today from Shanghai that a Russian torpedo boat destroyer had just arrived there and that four Russian cruisers were expected tomorrow. It is understood here that if these vessels intend to remain more than twenty-four hours at Shanghai they must dismantle their armaments and remain on the coast.

MUST LEAVE PORT.

Instructions to Capt. Trupel, governor of Kiao Chou, which is in the jurisdiction of the navy department, although explicit in that the Novik and the torpedo boat must leave "Sung Chou" within the twenty-four-hour limit, do not, it is understood, provide for the possible refusal of the Russian vessels to leave that port. The Carevitch, being unseaworthy, must naturally remain in the harbor.

The foreign office probably will take no further action until Admiral Von Pritzwitz arrives at Kiao Chou and reports on the situation.

STRIKERS RIOTOUS

To Gain Positions at Commissary Department.

Chicago, Aug. 12.—The opening of a commissary station for the meat strikers today drew so large a crowd that the union officials found themselves unable to cope with the situation. Crowding and pushing to attain advantageous positions in the waiting line resulted in a riotous scene.

The riotous scene was caused by the impatient and hungry throng. When this danger became apparent and the labor officials found themselves helpless, a committee of three was sent to the Carey street police station to request a police detail of two men to preserve order and prevent women and children from being trampled upon. The request was denied, it being declared there were no available officers to send out.

Golf Games.

In the single club tournament, eight-hole holes, match play, at the North Links, the following will play against each other, having known by the results of the first round: G. C. Stone vs. H. H. Myers; F. Leach vs. D. G. Hartley vs. F. H. Parsons; H. F. Williamson vs. W. G. Hegard; H. F. Crosby vs. D. G. Cutler, Sr.; A. W. Hartman vs. Collins.

FIRE AT FARGO CAUSES

A LOSS OF $20,000.

St. Paul, Aug. 12.—A special to the Dispatch from Fargo, N. D., says: A recent fire at Fargo, N. D., caused a loss of $20,000 in money taken. The vault and safe were blown to pieces.

A Lucky Purchase.

PARKER'S TELEGRAM.

How It Is Estimated By John Sharp Williams.

The telegram was, I thought, unnecessary and premature, but then I was on the ground, and he was not. John Sharp Williams in Collier's Weekly. I knew what people were thinking and intending, and what knowledge was guiding their action, and he did not. From his standpoint it was a candid, manly, brave, and even necessary, thing to do. Before the delegates left St. Louis, from our standpoint it was useless, and even detrimental. It was a paper criticism, or a laudable and chivalric, but somewhere overstrained, sense of duty about the possibility of being placed in a false position before the delegates and before the country. We saw at once, however, that with the action in his mind he ought to have done it. He thought it possible even that he had been nominated under a misapprehension, and to direct that the convention be made acquainted with the misapprehension and the complete so that they might understand anything that the misapprehension had induced.

MOSQUITO WARFARE.

Effectiveness of Drainage of Their Extermination.

The present widespread interest in the extermination of the mosquito by improved methods of attack makes of timely importance the account by Professor J. B. Smith in the Hookworm Magazine of the progress made in the scientific warfare on the pest.

In the city of Elizabeth a campaign against the mosquito was started, says Professor Smith, and in 1903 the first work was done on the salt marshes where, in 1902, I had located the principal source of supply for that city. The result was that in a territory where millions of mosquitoes developed in 1902, practically none developed in 1903. The effective character of the methods adopted was proved, and this was demonstrated to the Newark board of health, which, combining with the state work, resulted in the eradication of one of the worst sections of the meadow from the pest.

Within a limited space, the best illustration of that was seen last year in the New Jersey resort where a small pond, with an area of 184 square feet, produced in one brood over 1,000,000 mosquitoes! This will seem almost incredible to those who have not seen the great numbers of larvae in the water, and the estimate was carefully made after hours of work, in which every part of the pond was sampled, and the larvae in each sample counted. There were 100 similar ponds close by, and the combined output was quite sufficient to give the place a full supply.

There is scarcely a cellar in a region where mosquitoes are found at all, that does not have its winter population of the New Jersey resort, where a small pond, with an area of 184 square feet, produced in one brood over 1,000,000 mosquitoes! This will seem almost incredible to those who have not seen the great numbers of larvae in the water, and the estimate was carefully made after hours of work, in which every part of the pond was sampled, and the larvae in each sample counted. There were 100 similar ponds close by, and the combined output was quite sufficient to give the place a full supply.

The house mosquito is the species that requires attention from every good citizen because of the wide range of its breeding places. It means, for its control, that every man shall keep his backyard free from stagnant water that a rain barrel or cistern is a necessity, and that water-closets are in use there shall be traps between the house and the sewer, and a screen over any opening to the outer air.

In the campaign against the mosquito one of the most interesting phases of the investigation in New Jersey is the determination of the fact that many of the mosquitoes are the result of the salt marshes, and that the salt marshes are not troublesome. Those ponds or pools that are covered with green scum are not an issue, because filled with the fine green threads of sproggya, harbor no wigglers, and no breeding ever goes on in permanent bodies of water that have fish of any kind other than bottom feeders; provided, however, that the bottom of the pond is not covered by a layer of mud or silt, and is sufficiently clean to allow the fish to get to the edges.

Holland, which is cut up by sluggish canals in every direction and offers apparently ideal breeding places for mosquitoes, is practically free from the pest; first, because the numerous canals drain the land perfectly, and second, because the canals are not often used for the purpose of carrying vegetable growth. This growth is favored by the farmers, because in late summer, when it tends to choke the way, it is dragged out to make an excellent fertilizer.

WHEAT HAS SLUMP

Bull Sentiment Wanes and Liquidation Carries Price Down.

Foreign Markets Are All Higher—Flax Has a Decline.

Duluth Board of Trade, Aug. 12.—The edge was off the bull feeling for the time being, at least, today and while the opening was firm the market had a sharp slump before the close which was at a considerable loss from yesterday. Crop damage reports were still coming but were inclined to be taken with a grain of salt, the feeling being stronger that the worst has been heard and that improvement will be the order now. Foreign markets were all higher, London showing an advance of 1/8d. London wheat, Berlin 4 1/2, and Buenos Aires 1 1/2. The movement of wheat to Duluth continued to be slow, the market being a little higher, the price of choice soft winter wheat at the market and at country points is becoming more apparent, as a large quantity of grain is being light weight. The quality of hard winter wheat is comparatively much better than the soft.

Cash receipts at Duluth were 23,381 bushels last year and 23,381 bushels this year, 116 last year, making a total for the Northwest of 112,421,111 last year. Chicago received 80,000 bushels last year. Primary receipts of wheat were 75,000 bushels, against 75,000 bushels last year. Receipts of wheat at Duluth were 23,381 bushels, last year 23,381 bushels, and 23,381 bushels this year. The market for wheat at Duluth is estimated to be 100,000 bushels, last year 100,000 bushels, and 100,000 bushels this year. The market for wheat at Duluth is estimated to be 100,000 bushels, last year 100,000 bushels, and 100,000 bushels this year.

Flax was dull and lower. October was up 1/2c to 1 1/2c early in the morning, but fell to 1 1/2c, then to 1 1/4c, and finally to 1 1/2c. The market for flax at Duluth is estimated to be 100,000 bushels, last year 100,000 bushels, and 100,000 bushels this year. market. The general public is in wheat at its usual cotton a year ago, imbedded in the idea of a short crop will make high prices and there is no telling how high prices may be over the September. One of the incidents of the wheat trade was heavy buying of May and selling of September by brokers usually representing Armour. The same brokers were buying September and selling May a week ago when the May was 1c to 2c premium. In spite of heavy changing the other day, the May closed only 3/4c over the September.

Minnesota State Fair of 1904 Likely to Break All Records

Will Open On August 29 and Close On September 3.

Half-fare Rates On Railroads—$50,000 In
Purses.

The dates of the Minnesota State Fair of this year will be August 29-September 3. This means, of course, that the fair will open on the last Monday in August and close on the first Saturday in September, giving a full week in which visitors may examine the exhibits and enjoy the amusements at the great show. And the Minnesota State Fair has indeed become a "great show." From a comparatively insignificant place among the state fairs of the country, it has grown to be more than twice as large as any other, and is acknowledged freely to be the leader in this sort of thing, as well as being one of the most effective forces in the development and progress of Minnesota and the Northwest.

Perhaps the most important feature of the fair will be the national livestock exhibition which it is believed will this year surpass all previous displays of pure bred cattle at this sort of fair. Several years ago, the management of the Minnesota state fair interested some of the great national breeders' associations in making exhibits and since then they have been successful in developing an annual display of pure bred cattle not equalled among the state fairs of the country.

This year the American Shorthorn breeders' association, American Hereford breeders' association and the American Aberdeen Angus breeders' association, join with the Minnesota state fair in giving special premiums which in the aggregate will amount to over $10,000. This, it should be remembered, is in addition to the very complete and liberal list of premiums given by the fair to all other breeds of cattle. The officers of the great associations and of the fair have agreed to have exhibitors which indicate that the display this year will be the largest ever made on the Minnesota fair grounds, and that the auction sale of Shorthorns and Herefords, which has been made a feature of the display, will be one of the best of the series.

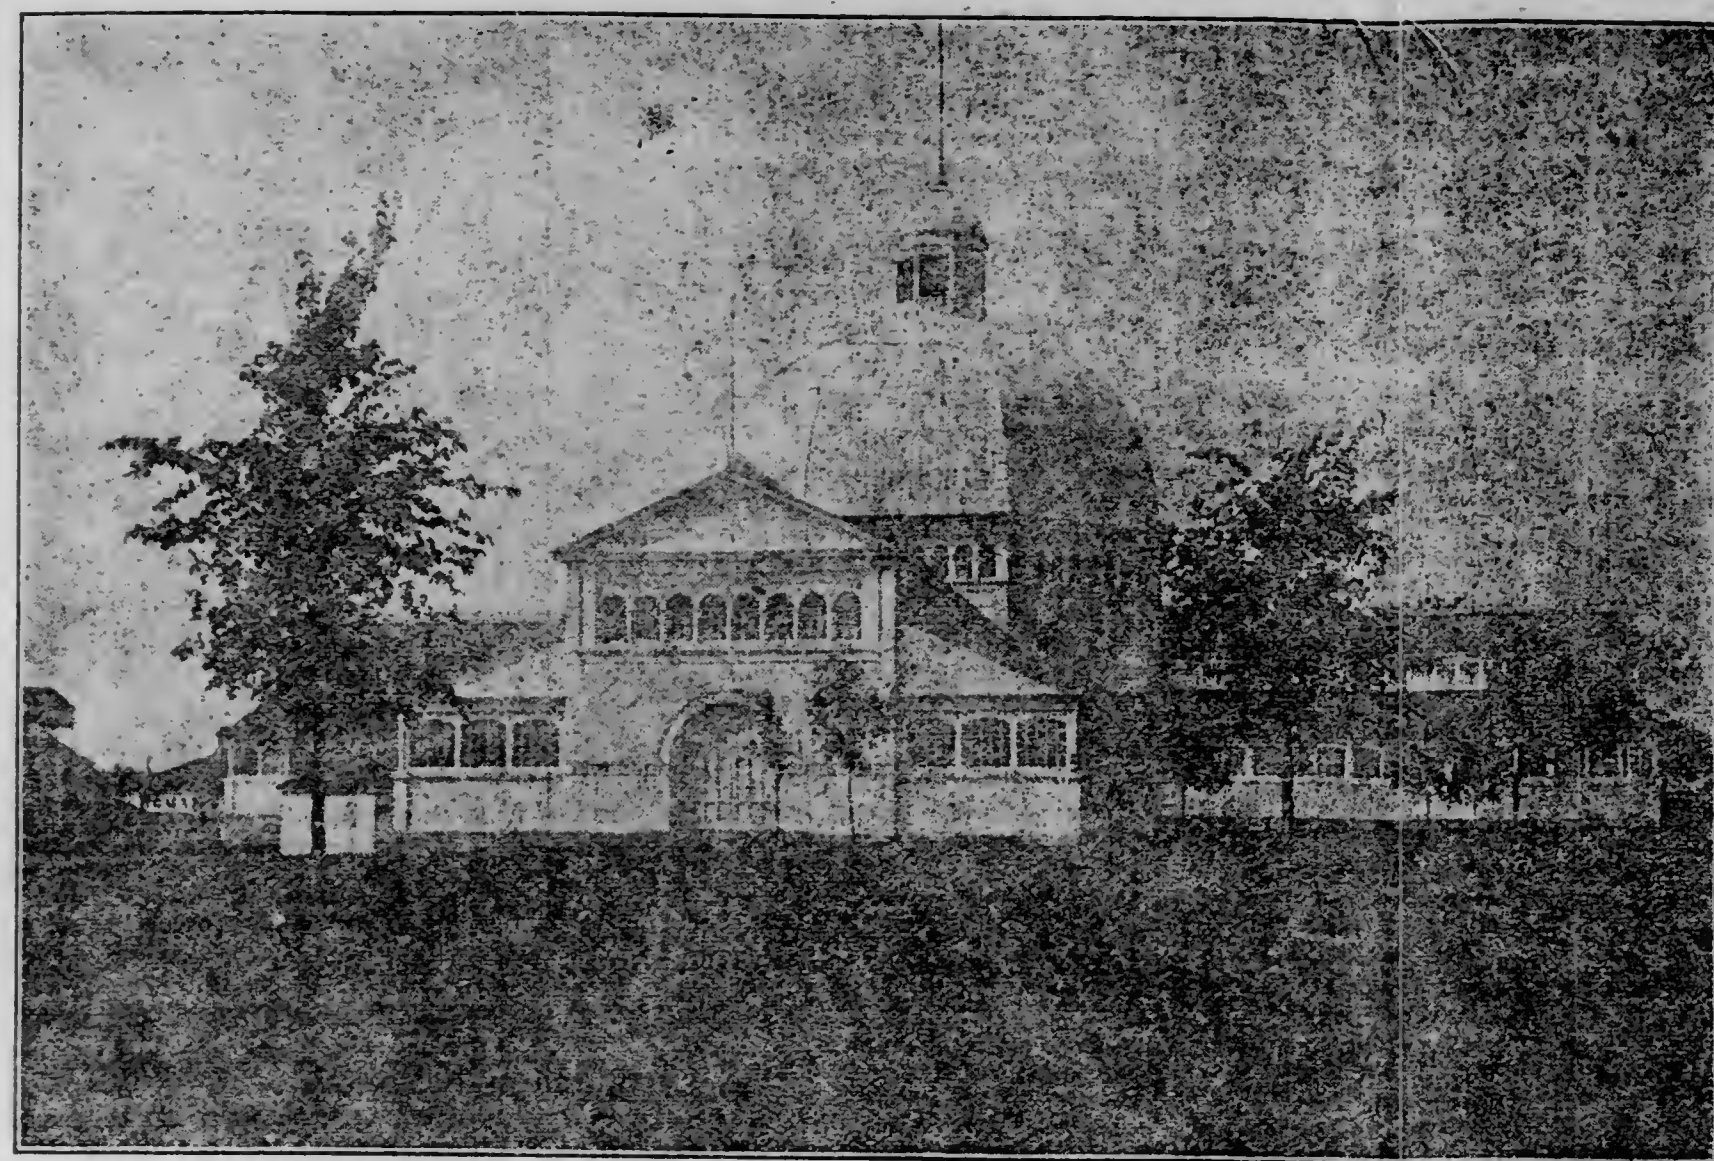

At the Minnesota fair, the cattle are judged in a great circus tent, so arranged that the thousands of people can see the cattle in the ring, and the auction takes place under similar conditions. Cattle bought at the fair are transported to the farm at nominal rates.

Another big attraction this year will be the new Manufacturers' building, now being completed at a cost of $30,000. Some similar buildings have been erected during the summer, and practically every structure on the fair grounds has been substantially renovated and freshly roofed. The new Manufacturers' building is the result of an agitation on the part of the Northwestern Manufacturers' Association and the board of managers of the state fair, which, lasting for several years, ended with an appropriation of $30,000 by the state legislature at its last session.

The Manufacturers' building is, perhaps, the handsomest on the grounds and the first to be of thoroughly permanent and absolutely fire-proof construction. In size it is 120x150 feet. Above the stone foundation, pressed brick walls rise to a cornice about 25 feet from the ground, both wall and cornice having only a sufficient ornamentation to relieve the plain surfaces, while the main facade receives its principal adornment through a beautiful entrance, adorned with stone pillars. This stone as well as the brick and all other materials, as far as possible, are Minnesota products. The large number of windows admit light to the interior, which is designed along the substantial lines of the exterior walls. The floor is of concrete and the roof is supported by steel framework and trusses. Galvanized iron is the roof covering.

The popular evening entertainments will be continued, and one of the finest great pyrotechnical productions will be the center-piece. In the afternoon there will be racing for purses ranging from $100 to $500, and a great number of special attractions will be provided.

The Minnesota fair has broken 20 many records in recent years, the information that the race entry list for the coming fair has again established a new list will be no surprise. But it is a surprising fact that the gain this year over 1903 is much larger than that of 1903 over 1902. Entries closed July 1, and when Secretary E. W. Randall completed his compilation he was able to announce no less than 339 entries for the fair races. This is seventy-two more than last year, and 100 more than in 1902. The total, 339 entries, is quite beyond all precedent in racing history. The great $500 purses attract the largest number, of course. For the 2:13 pace for the St. Paul day $500 purse there are forty-seven entries than the same race attracted last year. The $500 trot this year brings out thirty-three entries. Other big lists are the 2:24 pace with thirty-six nominations, the 2:13 pace with thirty, and the 2:25 trot with thirty-five. Right up-to-date and abreast with the times, the Minnesota state fair has discarded the "Midway" and will come out this year with a full-fledged "Pike." It is to be the genuine article, too, and any man who goes over the "Pike" at the next state fair will have seen everything worth while that might be seen at the Louisiana Purchase exposition in the similar department. In fact, many of the most attractive features of the "Pike" at St. Louis will be reproduced at the big Minnesota show. The "Pike" will be in the early part of the week. The management guarantees that exhibits will be in complete order by 1 o'clock Monday morning, the president of the fair this year is C. N. Cosgrove, of Le Sueur, while E. W. Randall continues as secretary.

The fair will be held on the Minnesota state fair grounds, midway between Minneapolis and St. Paul. dog show, and other good attractions. All will be under the direct supervision of the board of managers of the Minnesota fair. One of the best things announced by the management is the construction of street railway terminals at the grounds, which assures visitors pleasant transport over the electric line to the city. Half fare rates have been made on all railroads beginning with Saturday, Aug. 27, and as numerous crowds are sure to attend, visitors will do well to arrange to be at the fair in the early part of the week. The management guarantees that exhibits will be in complete order by 1 o'clock Monday morning, the president of the fair this year is C. N. Cosgrove, of Le Sueur, while E. W. Wizard Schaefer Is Now a Joke

At Least Foreigners Think It
Is to Laugh When He Challenges for World's Title.

Whether Jake Schaefer, "wizard" of the cue, until a few weeks ago universally considered the greatest billiard player who ever punched the ivory, has broken down permanently is a question that is seriously agitating his many friends in this city. Schaefer sailed from Paris last week and is due in New York in a few days. Before he left Paris Schaefer challenged a player in the world in the following terms: "I do hereby challenge any player in the world (Viennese preferred) to play two matches, one at 15-inch ball line, 200 points (each side 50 points per night); one at cushion caroms, 500 points (two nights, 500 points per night); each match for $50 to $200 a side, to be played in Paris, December, 1904, on tables to be mutually agreed. New York, the second match on a table fitted with any cushion named by the winner of the first match." Following the issuance of this challenge appeared the ensuing article in a New York paper.

The challenge issued by Jacob Schaefer, the billiardist, in Paris, the eve of sailing for America to spend several weeks, has excited more interest in the sport among local players, who predict that he will receive no acceptance, and that his physical condition must have undergone a remarkably rapid change, since it was only a week ago that it was said that he had nearly broken down in a game with Cure, and had practically retired from match play. Schaefer's efforts to draw commercialism into the game is regretted as tending toward its ruin.

Having forfeited his championship to George Sutton, who repeatedly tried to draw Schaefer into a match game, and having refused all other challengers for several years, Schaefer, after Vignaux had defeated Sutton for the recognized world's championship trophies at both one and two shots in an 18-inch ball-line, matched with Louis Cure, a second-rate French player, whom he defeated and divided gate receipts. In this match a new-fangled cushion was used, to which, it is alleged, Schaefer, for a consideration, has given his name.

In matters of this nature, as in similar affairs in the world of sport, the public has very little interest, except that in billiards, possibly more than in any other pastime, equipment is of more vital importance in results. Cue sticks may vary in many particulars to meet personal requirements, but the table, cushions and balls have been of standard make for a century. Many players know of no other, except as experiment. The extremely sensitive and delicate stroke required in billiards finds its component in the cushion, and consequently all players in the big match games for many decades have adopted this standard, which is found in every billiard room in the world. Any change from this table and cushions would practically mean the learning of a new game, and is too ridiculous for consideration.

Billiardists who see this quotation will believe to a man that the great player is being made the victim of persecution. That he is still in form, as was shown; and that he believes himself still at his best, his challenge evidences. Sutton, who claims Schaefer's title, obtained it by default, when Schaefer was twenty minutes late in arriving for his forfeit money. Schaefer is a victim, not the introducer, of commercialism in the game. Schaefer is not an old man yet, and will still show some of the alleged champions of Europe that they are as toys in his deft hands.

Your "want" is not important to anyone but yourself—until it has been put into type.

DRAFTING PERIOD. Pretty Tangle Is Coming In Baseball Circle.

Next Monday is the time set for the beginning of the drafting period in baseball, and on that day the major league club owners will file their claims with the secretary of the national commission for such minor league players as their scouts have recommended to them. There will be no mad rush of telegrams to Cincinnati, because the stars of the minor leagues already have been chased or have strings to them reaching back to last spring or last year, says the Chicago Tribune. Nearly all of the big league clubs have released players to a minor team with the option of selecting any player in the minor club before the regular drafting season opens. The minor leagues have loaned players to each other in spite of their own agreement to the contrary. Consequently there will be a tangle of players who have been released and claims that were ever seen about a week after the drafts are announced and the rival claimants begin to assert themselves. Being a forbidden practice, there may be some effort on the part of the minors to slip out of the tangle made in the spring. This they can readily do, because the major league clubs own the option of selecting any player in the minor club before the regular drafting season opens. The minor leagues have loaned players to each other in spite of their own agreement to the contrary. Consequently there will be a tangle of players who have been released and claims that were ever seen about a week after the drafts are announced and the rival claimants begin to assert themselves. Being a forbidden practice, there may be some effort on the part of the minors to slip out of the tangle made in the spring. This they can readily do, because the major league clubs own the option of selecting any player in the minor club before the regular drafting season opens. The congressional situation is harder for the Democrats to get a favorable footing in than most of the other offices, and there are very few men who feel willing to undertake the task of going after a congressional seat in a district so strongly Republican as the Eighth, especially in a presidential year. Telegraphy schools advertising that they are connected with railroads advertise an untruth. No railroad in the United States can afford to be connected with any school of Telegraphy. At the New Era an experienced railroad man is employed to give his entire attention to this department, teaching Commercial, Brokerage and Railroad Telegraphy. The number of students in this department is limited. Keep this fact in mind, and make arrangements to enroll September 6th.

It is said that a Broadway jeweler had in his possession a lot of jewels that resembled those belonging to Mrs. Goele so closely that she might easily have mistaken them for her own. It is reported also that the jeweler, who is an accommodating sort of man, had advanced sums of money to a young man well known in society, and that the young man had left the jewels with him as security.

An Up to Date Sea Bath

A PLAIN RUBBER CAP

No Water Can Reach Her Hair

An Attractive Bow Is Quite The Smartest Head Ornament

Fitting The Rubber Cap On First Before The Triangle Of Silk Goes On

A NEW LINEN BELT

BY MISS MANHATTAN.

New York, August.—When midday dips down to her morning dip in the surf one might be persuaded that she was going instead to a ball or the theater; that is, if one saw only the sea nymph's head, for it seems to be the fashion to wear elaborate coiffures and have them ornamented in a fashion far more suitable to a ballroom function than a sea bath. Women have not renched the point of wearing flowers, yet a wreath of seaweed or moss would not be inappropriate, so long as the edict is in favor of fanciful effects. Great broad bows of ribbons on the Alsatian order are considered very chic and are worn with a rubber cap or not, just as one likes. If the hair is dressed high then the bow is placed forward, and if a low coiffure is preferred, the bow can be drawn through the knot, so that the loops stand out behind the ears and impart a very square effect.

Black taffeta ribbon is more commonly seen in this particular style of ornamented heads than any other material from what one would expect for such sport. Pompadours are dressed high and at least two more combs thrust in across the head. To some the notion seems utterly ridiculous, for salt water has a bad effect on pure shell, but the clever young woman provides herself with several sets of imitation shell and then feels that she can wear and spoil as many as she likes without any qualms of conscience or strain to her purse-strings.

In connection with the head covering for the bathing hour it may not be out of place to say a few words about an excellent little accessory that will prove very convenient to the woman who carries her bathing suit and towels to the beach with her every morning. This is a bag arrangement that is neat, compact, and unharmed by water. Rubber cloth is used for the inner bag and some substantial material of a dark and serviceable color makes the outside case. The inner and outer are made entirely separate, but both fastened on the same running tape. This makes it easy to clean and dry, and also to put on a new case when an old one becomes stained or soiled. Washable cotton cord or tape makes a good drawing string, and the bag is commodious enough to accommodate a bathing suit, two bath towels, comb, brush and cap. The smartest bags of this kind have the owner's initials or monograms embroidered on one side in mercerized cotton floss. Dark blue linen embroidered in white or a lighter shade of blue is pretty and neat, while natural colored linen will take any shade of floss with good effect.

At the hotel hops it is noticed that very fancy and dainty slippers are being worn by the up-to-date damsel. Invariably these match the gown and are either of suede or satin. The slippers are cut extremely low and the slightly pointed toe is ornamented with a rosette of tulle or maitine delicately spangled or with a twist of ribbon and pretty flowers of a small variety. The day of the plain dancing slipper is passed and even when a pair is cut with a simple strap over the instep this, as well as the entire edge of the slipper, is embroidered or spangled. Some feet are so plump that they cannot stand much ornamentation in the way of footwear, so for these the plain strapped style is liked, but there must be an elaborate use of trimming. On the other hand a very thin foot and ankle are improved by the use of large decorations, so typical Alsatian bows of gauze, tulle, or satin ribbons are put on with a very broad square effect so that the foot gains considerable in the appearance of width. These bows are handsome when spangled or treated in some decorative manner and the work of beautifying them is a pleasant occupation for a debutante during the quiet hour on the cottage or hotel piazza.

Read work had revived in a single direction and this is in the making of cardcases which are easily and quickly turned out, simply put together and wonderfully pretty when completed. For country driving there is nothing more popular in the shape of a wrap than one of the new white linen, crash, plique or cloth coats built on mannish lines. You will see such garments at any of the fashionable resorts and they serve such an excellent purpose besides looking so smart, that their demand is steadily on the increase. These coats slip on over a linen or more delicate summer frock, and the looseness of the cut keeps them from crushing whatever is underneath.

In cut they are more mannish than any feminine garments that have been worn for sometime. Trim lapels finish the neck, and the sleeves are the regulation coat variety, but made large enough to go over a full-dress sleeve without the least difficulty. Some of these garments are strapped and others are heavily stitched, but the main object is to have them look as tailorlike as possible. Linen crash in white is liked because the open mesh makes it very cool and light, but occasionally heavier linens, plaques and even cloths are seen. Many of the young whips who affect mannish coats go hatless, but this has grown to be an accepted summer custom even among the most fashionable. Flat pearl buttons of good size are used to fasten the coats.

Washable belts are an essential feature of the summer costume since so much white is worn. One wearing will wrinkle the average linen costume so that it has to go to the pressers or laundry, and this means that the young woman who insists upon always looking as fresh as possible must have a goodly supply of belts of all sizes and varieties. One of the newest is a severe style made of mediumweight white linen and cut about two inches and a half in depth in the front, while it broadens out to at least six inches in the back. There is a square gilt buckle a little deeper than it is wide to fasten in front, and running up the back of the belt is a battlemented stitching, with three large, round gilt buttons sewed vertically, one in each attached tab. Another washable belt is cut circular, so that it fits the waist without the usual crushed effect. This, too, is a trifle wider in the back than the front, and has a pretty gilt buckle. The first white linen belt described would be very smart if done in white glace leather, with the buckle and buttons arranged in the same fashion. In order to keep the belt as wide as possible so as to emphasize the tapering effect toward the front, there is sometimes a bone or bit of celluloid stiffening put up and down under the buttons to keep it straight.

The very newest leather belt is extremely broad, more on the corselet effect, but curved and fitted so that it clings into the figure without unnecessary wrinkles. Contrary to the general style, which calls for greater width in the back, this belt tapers from a depth of 10 inches in front to about four or five in the back. Instead of using a buckle that reaches from top to bottom of this broad belt, the accessory is so arranged that it crosses in the back surplice fashion, and then the narrowing ends are brought toward the front, where they are confined under a very narrow and beautifully ornamented buckle. Steel is effective with white, and even cut jet is sometimes seen, though there is nothing prettier than gilt or highly polished brass.

Of course it requires a very thin and pliable leather to make such a belt look trim, for the double thickness would be entirely too much for the possessor of any but an extremely thin waist. In colors the belts are dyed to exactly match the material of the dress, and it is difficult to tell whether the belt is a part of the gown or not, so well does the leather conform to the lines of the figure.

Milanesie suede and suede lisle, the material from which summer gloves are made, is being utilized now for very latest novelties in automobile garments. The main points about the fabric are coolness and its ability to shed dust. It is almost like gauze, but with more body, yet no one ever before thought of its adaptability to this sort of traveling costume. The coats are made in severe lines and are entirely unornamented except for huge pearl buttons of fancy or smoky tint, depending on the color of the suede lisle. There is just enough "body" to the material to make it possible to build a good fitting coat without lining, and if it is pressed occasionally there is very little bag to it, though the wearer does sit most of the time.

Whether it is an attempt to carry still further the fad for all white or only just a passing novelty, I cannot say, but ivory combs for the hair are by all odds the smartest ornaments at the present time. When three of these white combs are placed in the hair, two to keep back the side locks, and one put in up and down according to the latest notion, a feminine head looks well protected indeed. The color of the hair does not count at all. Blondes and brunettes favor them equally, though in light hair the white is a little less startling. The most expensive of these ornaments are studded with tiny brilliants, that show very little in the daylight, but are wonderfully effective at night. As the fad has increased, of course, more decorative combs have appeared, and the white makes an admirable background for the majority of the new jewel treatments. Colored stones are sometimes used to rim a set of white combs, and with a very pretty result, too, but on the whole the all white is more stunning. Coral or turquoise introduced sparingly may be passed upon with favor, but even these should not be too generously displayed.

A pretty and useful gift is a set of lingerie ribbon runners. These are very often made to order by a silversmith, and again they can be purchased ready to present to a woman friend. The full complement consists of five flat silver bodkins to hold the five popular widths of ribbon used in lingerie. The loop through which the ribbon slips should be exactly the width of the ribbon, so that it will go in perfectly flat and thus run in and out of beading. There is a space to have the recipient's monogram engraved on each bodkin, and the five can be arranged in a little silk case, preferably heart-shaped. A good deal of fancy work is being done by those women who like to spend several hours each day on a summer hotel piazza, and who prefer to keep their fingers busy at some little trifle. Stocks and turn-overs are the popular fancy work indulgence, though there are a lot of dainty needle books, jewel cases, hairpin boxes and money holks manufactured out of pretty ribbons. These always come in handy when one is traveling.

The designing of evening gowns has become more than a mere profession, and some claim it has arrived at the dignity of an art. One that achieved a great success in Paris recently was created from the palest of sky-blue liberty satin. The skirt was cut so as to leave the front perfectly smooth and ungathered, which gave a panel effect. Just halfway between the knees and the hem of the skirt a sharp flouncing effect was made by cutting additional fullness at this point and pleating, except, as mentioned above, in the front width, which was kept entirely smooth. A flounce of the satin was gathered at this point, and above that an additional flounce of Mechlin lace was placed. Three roses were caught in a group at intervals of six inches above the flouncing.

The bodice is cut pointed and draped with folds of the material, which also follow the pointed curvature of the under body. The bodice closes diagonally in front from right to left downward, and a wreath of the roses used on the flouncing of the skirt can be made to designate the bodice line. The shoulder straps should be cut from velvet the same color as the roses, and the satin slippers should match the gown, but should be of velvet and not of silk in material and matching the shoulder straps and the rose trimmings.

Evening Gown In Liberty Satin.

The designing of evening gowns has become more than a mere profession, and some claim it has arrived at the dignity of an art. One that achieved a great success in Paris recently was created from the palest of sky-blue liberty satin. The skirt was cut so as to leave the front perfectly smooth and ungathered, which gave a panel effect. Just halfway between the knees and the hem of the skirt a sharp flouncing effect was made by cutting additional fullness at this point and pleating, except, as mentioned above, in the front width, which was kept entirely smooth. A flounce of the satin was gathered at this point, and above that an additional flounce of Mechlin lace was placed. Three roses were caught in a group at intervals of six inches above the flouncing.

The bodice is cut pointed and draped with folds of the material, which also follow the pointed curvature of the under body. The bodice closes diagonally in front from right to left downward, and a wreath of the roses used on the flouncing of the skirt can be made to designate the bodice line. The shoulder straps should be cut from velvet the same color as the roses, and the satin slippers should match the gown, but should be of velvet and not of silk in material and matching the shoulder straps and the rose trimmings.

run in and out of beading. There is a space to have the recipient's monogram engraved on each bodkin, and the five can be arranged in a little silk case, preferably heart-shaped. A good deal of fancy work is being done by those women who like to spend several hours each day on a summer hotel piazza, and who prefer to keep their fingers busy at some little trifle. Stocks and turn-overs are the popular fancy work indulgence, though there are a lot of dainty needle books, jewel cases, hairpin boxes and money holks manufactured out of pretty ribbons. These always come in handy when one is traveling.

Marriage And Good Looks.

Of course the manly woman with a head full of brains and money-making thoughts has a great future before her, but after all so per cent. of women must look forward to marriage as the goal of life's ambition and the only chance for lifelong happiness. So that this little article is written for the woman who marries. To this vast majority of the women of today the matter of beauty is the prime thought of life. A woman with beauty has a divine right to happiness, and usually gets her full share of the good things of this world. But, alas! too many pretty women seem to imagine after beauty has gained a husband that it has served its purpose and may be neglected with impunity.

Girls who before their marriage were thought very pretty, bright and attractive in a few years become dowdy and frouzy matrons, whose good looks appear to have taken wings. This is sometimes due to poor health or poverty, but usually it is due to the fact that the pretty fiancée has ceased to take the pains to be attractively dressed and no longer makes the effort to look bright and talk charmingly as before marriage. And this is a mistake that has been responsible for more divorces than the drink evil or the mother-in-law problem. For when the wife goes about the house down at the heel, with uncared-for hair and untended general appearance, the average husband, after a few remarks that tend to quarrels, keeps his mouth shut and opens his eyes to the fact that his bride is no longer beautiful. And so it is not infrequent that he sees some other woman still taking care to look attractive, neat and vivacious.

The resulting unhappiness may or may not land the couple in the divorce courts, but at all events a possibly happy and contented home has been lost through the failure of the wife to comprehend that a man's love must be kept by preserving the same traits that held the lover in such rosy and welcome chains of love and admiration. Let the happily married woman reflect, and if she has been permitting herself to assume the airs of a married woman whose looks "don't matter," let her realize the grave dangers she is running. As a matter of selfish interest every married woman should care for her looks and strive to retain the vivacity of her unmarried days. Otherwise she throws away her strongest card in the game of life and will some day awaken to a bitter regret.

The Long Coat And Skirt Suits.

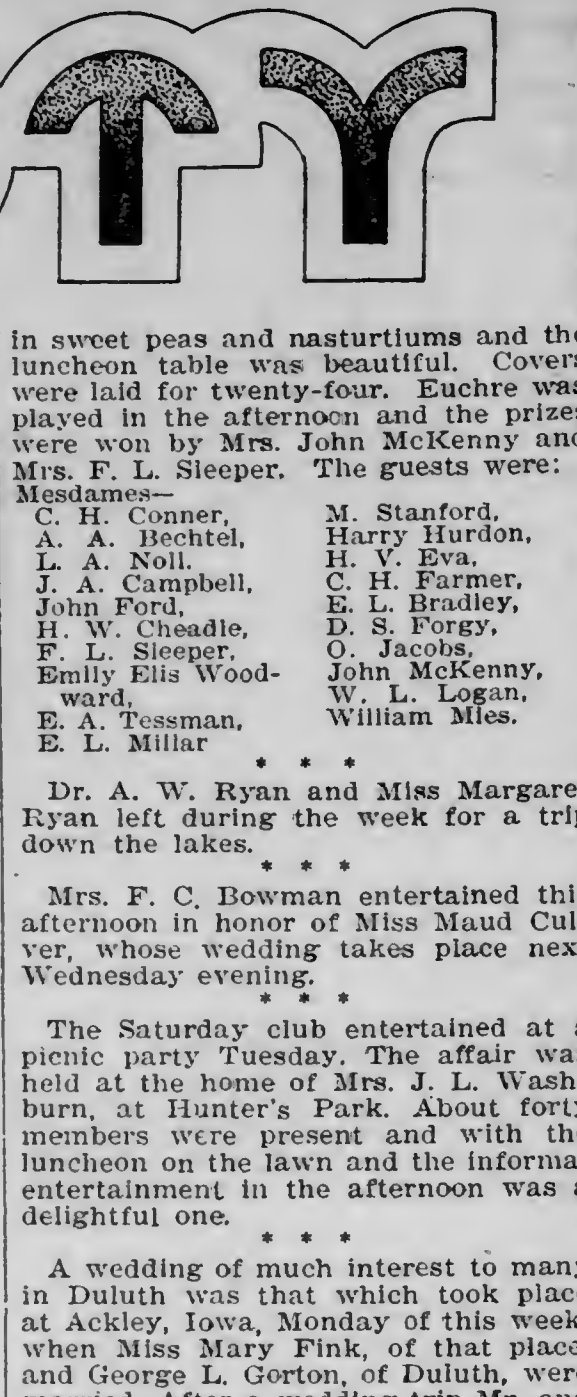

The loose fitting jackets coming just below the knees, with skirts of same material, have come to the front within the past few weeks with a rush. This is due to the fact that society demands that all summer costumes be made of the lightest possible materials, and this edict, coupled with the unusually cool season, has made it imperative that jackets be worn at nearly all open-air affairs, especially when the hours have been at all late.

Taffetas and mousseline silks have become the acknowledged materials from which to build the long coat and skirt suits. The coat is really double-breasted, although no buttons show on the garment, which in order to show the beauty of the blouse beneath, is properly worn open at the waist. The long coat is made with a deep collar and wide turned back lapels. The sleeves are wide with a four-inch cuff and slightly bished. The whole garment is made almost as plainly as a man's overcoat. No pockets should appear, however, and the lining should be of the coat material.

The skirt is not flounced as is the case in almost every small costume shown this summer, but frilled. It is in five pieces, with cross-way frills sewed on. The skirt should not be lined, but a drop skirt of colored silk may be worn if desired. The habit of daintily lifting the skirt should be avoided now, as it is regarded as extremely bad form. The habit should be indulged nowadays only in cases of the direst necessity. The demand now is for a trailing skirt that has no break or rumples in its lines. When it is not desired to have a skirt trail the round length, reaching to the ankle, is the proper wear.

EMBROIDERED BLOUSE LENGTHS IN BATISTE.

The factories are now catering to the made-at-home trade by producing embroidered blouse lengths in batiste and linen at bargain prices. These blouse lengths can be easily made into very fetching garments, and will rival in many instances the frightfully expensive blouses of batiste and linen which are made by the dressmakers for the feminine world, which does not stop to count the cost. In these special jackets the front should be cut all in one, with an extra allowance of width at either side. The side-pieces do not figure at all, and the back-piece sets close. The necessary piece under the arms is gotten from the extra width of the front piece. A good skirt for such a blouse would have five pieces—a front piece, two sides, and the back should be cut in two pieces and seamed from the back-closing plait down the middle. Make your top extra full, which will give the pleated effect now all the rage at the seaside and mountain resorts.

Philander Bee's Unlucky Memory

Monster Pickerel Stole Anchor Chain

Chester, N. Y., Aug. 13.—"Well," said the chronicler of things at the tavern with the air of a man who has an unpleasant duty to perform and is bound to perform it, "Philander Bee is bound to perform it, and the first thing we discover is that he's a bit of a fool." "There's others," said Shady, the landlord, glancing over at a state that had sundry white marks on it, "and they haven't been to Minnesota and back either." The Pickwick chronicler cracked, and a couple of fingers pretty loud, and shaking his head deprecatingly toward the landlord, said:

"Forgetfulness may be only seemingly, and as it were, Memory may hold its seat down good and strong, and it may be light and hard to get a clutch on it as human mind." "The landlord didn't say so to that; and the man from over toward Pickwick, remembering his duty and seeing his path-placed plain before him, went on to perform it."

"Yes," said he, "Philander is back, and the first thing we discover is that he's a bit of a fool." Things Judge Parker's Visitors See at Esopus Esopus, N. Y., Aug. 13.—Last Wednesday was the most important day in the history of the county since the British burned Kingston and the proudest day since the county's favorite regiment came home from the War of the Rebellion. For Alton B. Parker, chief justice and farmer, was formally notified that he is the candidate of the Democratic party for president of the United States.

BEMIDJI BASEBALL TEAM OF 1904.

CARL, Shortstop. EMERSON, Pitcher. ROY, Catcher. RALSTON, Mascot. WITT, Pitcher and Captain. BRAYTON, Second Base.

Bemidji, Minn., Aug. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Bemidji baseball team, as now organized, is the pride of every resident of this place, and has been the cause of much excitement and interest. The team has made this season, more especially during the past six weeks. When the team was first organized in the spring, it contained as members all local players, a large proportion of whom were possessed of but small ability. It was thought at that time that arrangements would be made with the Crookston Northern league team to play several of its scheduled league games here, but the price was too steep for the local fans, and the scheme was abandoned. Then it was that a few of the faithful of the team, who had slightly the better of it and with putting in a strong semi-professional team. The first six games played resulted in four victories and two defeats, and demonstrated that a stronger team was necessary. These six games resulted as follows:

Bemidji 10, Akeley 0.
Bemidji 12, Grand Rapids 1.
Bemidji 5, Brainerd 2.
Bemidji 0, Brainerd 7.
Bemidji 4, Fosston 6.
Bemidji 15, Englevale 2.
After these games, the team was strengthened, and began playing very strong ball. Harvey Witt had in the meantime been forced from the Crookston Northern League team, and he took his regular turn in the box for the locals. He made good from the first game, and now is enjoying the reputation of being the cleverest slapper in this part of the state. Bonga, Carl, Emerson and Roy, Indians from the Plandreau, S. D. team, joined the locals at this time, and their playing has added strength to the club until it is acknowledged the peer of any semi-professional baseball organization in northern Minnesota. Since July 1st, when the reorganization took place, the team has played as follows:

Bemidji 22, Cass Lake 1.
Bemidji 22, Walker 3.
Bemidji 6, Sauk Center 2.
Bemidji 6, Sauk Center 4.
Bemidji 4, Akeley 3.
Bemidji 1, Sauk Center 4.
Bemidji 2, Sioux Indians 1.
Bemidji 1, Melrose 0 (12 innings).
Bemidji 2, Fosston 6.
Games played since reorganization, 11; Games won 9, lost 2. Average scores per game, 7.1-11; average scored by opponents, 6.1-11; total number of games played, 17; won 15, lost 2; percentage .765. In both games that the Fosston team won, the Bemidji team was short of its regular players. Such was also the case in the game won by Bemidji 2, Dig Duluth 1.

only ones who could hit the Duluth pitcher. The interest in the return game is running high. The Big Duluth team will go to Ashland this afternoon for a game with the team from that city. The Young Eagles were defeated by the Crescents yesterday on the latter's grounds by a score of 6 to 3. The first game of the game was the pitching of Melrose by the Crescents, Ryan, Melk and Hubbell.

AMATEUR NINES

Championship to Be Settled Two Weeks From Sunday.

Big Duluths and Fashions, Duluth Fastest Teams, to Meet.

The amateur baseball championship of Northern Minnesota will be decided two weeks from tomorrow when the Duluth Fashions and the Big Duluth team will come together for the first time this year at Athletic park.

Both of the teams have been playing fast ball this year and have won a majority of their games with the various amateur and semi-professional teams in this part of the country. Neither team will have a clear title to the championship, Bemidji, Clouquet, Hibbing and Two Harbors all have some claim to the title, but the records of the two Duluth teams are probably as good as any in this part of the state.

The rivalry between the two local nines has been very keen this year, and the game will be a fierce one. The Duluth policemen are elated over an alleged victory over the Duluth team. On Thursday the cops were practicing on the grounds at Thirty-second and avenue west. The game between the Duluth and Crookston nines was called off on account of rain, but the Copper mine into the grounds and played a couple of innings with the league nine. They played a victory by the score of 7 to 3. The final game between the Duluth and Superior policemen will be played shortly. The date has not yet been decided upon as the teams are waiting for the close of the Northern league season. The grounds for the contest. The Duluth policemen are playing the cigarmakers today.

Bennett, Lovell and Thompson will leave this afternoon for Bemidji to play the Bessemer team against Hurley. In a game played last Sunday Hurley defeated the Bessemer team by a narrow margin of one run. Lovell was pitching for the Bessemer and Lowe for the Hurley. The two men were in fine form. Lowe allowing six hits and Lovell four. The Duluth men playing on the two teams were her pedigree traces 11 crosses only.

PROSPECT WEALTH IS SEEN POOR

Duluth May Not Have On Every Hand at the Professional Team Saratoga Race Meeting. Next Year.

The Present Management To Be a Session For Has Had Enough of It. the Rich Man's Stables.

The Northern League season has come to a close, and after tomorrow's game professional baseball will be done until next year.

The Duluth team won the pennant for 1904, was practically certain after the middle of June. The White Stockings simply made a runaway race of it, and finished the season with a percentage of over .700. The percentage could just as well have been .800, or even .900, if the fast team of the early part of the season had been maintained.

The season has been an intense disappointment to the management of the different clubs. It started out in a most promising manner. All of the clubs had exceptionally fast teams in the field, and the crowds during the early part of the season were large. The teams were putting up fully as fast an article of ball as was played in the American association. But as Duluth gradually drew away from the bunch the interest died out.

There was a good contest for second place in the race, but when it was seen so early in the season that none of the other clubs had any chance for the pennant, the interest died out. Had the Duluth team been cut down during the latter part of June, and the extra players distributed among the other clubs, the Northern league might still be flourishing and a warm light in prospect for first place.

The only redeeming feature of the last month's play has been the steady rise of the Winnipeg team. It has come up from the bottom position to second place, and the Canadian city has been the only one in the league to support its team in a manner that came anywhere near paying expenses.

Prospects for next year are far from being bright at the present time. The crack Duluth team, the best that ever represented this city, is scattered to the four winds of heaven. Some of the men are in Michigan, others in Iowa, others in Montana, others in Minneapolis, and some in their homes in different parts of the country. The men simply cannot be put back together when they saw the Duluth team going to pieces, the only ones that were sold being Quillian and Randall.

The Duluth management still has a hold on Gearing, Nordin, Wilkes and Shepard, but the other big attractions have been let go. The big attractions have been let go. The big attractions have been let go. The big attractions have been let go.

But if Duluth has a team in the Northern league next year, it will be backed by a different management. The Copper country circuit has always appealed to me as a better one than the Northern league circuit, and I am sure that the present circuit is that the team is compelled to play long home series on comparatively long jumps. When we leave home we have to swing around the circuit before returning and then have to stay for perhaps fifteen or twenty games. The Copper country circuit would be far more compact, with much shorter railroad trips. We would also have the benefit of boat competition and could get better rates. Some of those towns down there are so close together that there are only a few cents street car fare necessary to make the trip. They have a four-club circuit down there now with Calumet, Lake Linden, Dollar Bay and Houghton-Hancock.

HIBBING BALL TEAM Will Make Trip to the Copper Country.

Hibbing, Minn., Aug. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The base ball season for the local team has been one of an almost unbroken series of victories over all comers. The boys have thus far played fourteen games and of this number have won thirteen. They have not yet lost a game, and at present they are having some difficulty in securing a game with our neighbors, and the boys have decided to seek farther company. To this end Secretary Dwyer has been in correspondence with some of the fast teams at Calumet, Calumet and other points on the copper range, arranging for a series of games to be played in the latter part of the month, and expects to start out with his aggregation the latter part of the month, and expects to start out with his aggregation the latter part of the month, and expects to start out with his aggregation the latter part of the month.

The record of the games played thus far is as follows:

West Duluth 11, Hibbing 11.

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Aug. 12.—With two weeks of the meeting here run off, it is easy to see that it is to be a session for the rich man's stables. The lesser lights will, of course, pick up a purse now and then, but the important fixtures, and the program is full of them, are practically mortgaged to the millionaires. The same can be said of the betting ring, the club house, in fact, even in the city proper, on every side we see evidences of great wealth.

The meeting is the stamping ground of the powers of the turf. It really looks as if they had gathered here with the idea of lending their support to the meeting, and of showing in every way their interest in the sport. After the races they gather in the infield and watch the jumpers schooling. In the morning, oftentimes at daylight, they are at the training track at "Horse Haven" with a party of ladies watching the gallops of their own and other horses. They wander down into the paddock between races to see the equine stars get the final attentions for the struggles they are about to make. Everywhere wealth is in evidence—in fact, summed up, no meeting ever held here or elsewhere has brought the same lavish display of opulence.

In the boxes every day can be found James R. Keene, Stephen Sanford, Herman Duryea, John Sanford, Fred Gehl, John W. Gates, Louis Bell, P. Lorillard, William H. Handale, E. Hitchcock, W. B. Leeds, W. S. Fanshawe, August Belmont, J. E. Seagram, S. S. Brown, R. T. Wilson, Jr., E. E. Wier, B. F. Clyde, Clarence Mackay and a dozen more whose checks for six figures would be honored anywhere. What is more, they are here to take an active part in the meeting.

In other years many of these big stables have been sent here solely for the purpose of resting up for the fall meetings on the Metropolitan circuit, but this time it is with a desire to be in the swim and the result is a very pace. Another thing that has helped to draw the crowd is the closing of Canfield's clubhouse. Some of the smaller gambling-houses are running at a loss, and it is at Canfield's that the big fry held forth, and they cannot be induced to go elsewhere for the month, and with some turns, in the way of carriages and automobiles and, to quote one of the natives: "The dress parade of the upper ten of the turf world."

As for the racing it has been of the very highest grade, with every promise of the same story for the remainder of the meeting. Hardly a day passes but what some new star is added to the list, and the 2-year-olds, the older dividers and the jumpers, too. Never before have so many of merit been brought to the track, and in the middle of the season, and the rank and file appreciate it, for it means fresh material for the hot that has been in the spring grows faded.

Thus far speculation has not been up to the limits of former years, and is not by any means mean a scarcity of commissions in the betting quarters; the big betters are busy, but their bets have not as yet got to be sensational. John W. Gates, John Drake, Joe Yeager, John Sanford, W. B. Leeds, have made some big plays, but the totals of their speculation are not as heavy as had been expected. Some attribute this to the scarcity of money in the financial world, but the chances are that they are waiting for a little better line on the merit of the horses before letting loose.

The bright particular star of the past week was Syzygy, the son of Melton, from the stable of James R. Keene. This colt has thus far made an exhibition of the fields that he has met and it really looks as if he would go through the season with an unbroken list of victories—that is, of course, provided he holds his present form. The trainers who have watched his running carefully say that there is no telling how fast he can run. In his work he shows fast marks under heavyweights and with his rider tug-ging at him the entire distance. In his races he smoothes his competitors in the first furlong and then gallops the rest of the journey.

It may be that later on some one will develop that will be able to make him do his best. If one does show, all records up to the distance to be run will surely be smashed, for this colt is certainly the best thoroughbred we have seen in years if not for all time. Before he won the Flash stakes, Mr. Keene was offered $100,000 for the colt, but declined it, and one can understand why he did. No one loves a good horse better than Mr. Keene, and as he thinks the youngster the peer of Domino, Comodoro or any of the other cracks that he has owned he naturally wants to see him run in the white with many thousands the other made.

Another reason is if the colt holds his present speed he can win the certain that the boys will give a good account of themselves.

The record of the games played thus far is as follows:

The First Time Tim Was Drowned

"John Henry, you have been in swimming again."

"No, ma; honest, I ain't."

"Don't talk to me. I know you have. Dried your hair in the sun, it stands out all over your head, where you have been running your fingers through it to hurry matters. Besides, I can see it in your eyes. Don't dare dispute it, John Henry."

John Henry didn't. But he wondered how his mother could see such things in his eyes. She was a more wonderful woman than he had given her credit for.

only go turn back the hand of time one hour! Oh, if he had only obeyed his mother!

John Henry wondered what he should do—whether he should tell about the accident or say nothing. He wondered whether they could hold him responsible for Tim's death under the law. Just then his mother called him. It seemed he couldn't dare face her, but he thought of the result of his disobedience before, and dragged himself toward the house. To his consternation his mother called even before he was near:

"John Henry, what is the matter?"

"I've seen smart boys before!"

ing. He didn't know that he had put his shirt on wrong side out, and that this was the circumstantial evidence that had convicted him of his disobedience.

"Some of these days, you and that Anderson boy will run off and go in swimming and one of you will be drowned."

"Oh, pshaw, ma; both of us can swim ever so good. There ain't a bit of danger."

"I've seen smart boys before, and I've seen what happened to them, too. You remember my words, and don't ever run away and go in swimming again."

John Henry intended to obey his mother, much as it went against the grain. But there is something so seductive in clear waters under the shade of great trees, "far from the madding crowd," that a boy can't be expected to always resist the persuasion of it. The him of the insects that comes from the forest seems to draw one on as the Siren's song drew the mariners of old. At the bend of the creek, where the great elm paddled its bare roots in the water, and John Henry remembered how soft and cool the waters felt as he bent them away with his hand, and how they broke into myriad waves, a shimmer of shine and shade. The afternoon was so warm.

In due time, John Henry found himself in swimming with Tim Anderson. He tried to ease his conscience by reflecting that it was a shame to deprive himself of such innocent pleasure. The boys swam and dived and shouted for joy. They practiced all the swimming arts they knew. They had a mock battle in the water, striking it in such a way as to send a cooling spray over each other. At last they stopped to rest near the roots of the big elm. Tim mounted the largest root for a dive.

"See how long I can stay under," he said. "If I never come up, good-by."

With these words he lunged himself into the stream and disappeared. John Henry waited and waited, but he did not come up. Five minutes, ten minutes, still no sign of him. His own breast seemed to collapse, and his breath came hard. He called, "Tim!" but his voice had a strange sound and frightened him. "Tim was dead, he was sure; dead in that pool lying so placid about him. John Henry was thoroughly scared. He splashed to the bank and dressed himself more quickly than he had ever done before. What if Tim's spirit should come back to reproach him? He picked up his remaining clothing and ran, dressing as he ran. He ran till he was out of breath, till his heart thumped in his breast and something seemed to come up in his throat and choke him. Completely exhausted, he dropped under an apple tree in the orchard and lay gazing up into the blue sky, at the white clouds and the leaves that grayed between them. It was so still. And Tim was dead. He should never see his friend again on earth. And only one hour before he was so full of life and so joyous. Oh, if he could

"What made John Henry think you were?"

"Cause I dived and swam back of an old log and hid till he got scared and run home."

"Ain't you ashamed of yourself to frighten that child like you have done? Never mind, I am going to tell your mother all about it and we'll see if you boys run off and go in swimming any more."

With this she entered the house. Tim went out to the stable, climbed in the mow and reflected. He didn't know that the mothers were laughing over the adventure; but they decided it gave them an opportunity to keep the boys apart for awhile and break the habit of running off and going in swimming. The mothers planned fully what they would do. When she returned to her home Mrs. Brown went up to John Henry's room and said:

"John Henry, are you in bed?"

"Yesum."

"Dress and come down right away. Tim Anderson isn't drowned. But he didn't get out through your help, you brave boy, you good swimmer, you! I wonder how long it will be till you will be running off to go in swimming again."

"I'll never go in swimming again, mother."

"Sure."

How The Rose Talked To Daisy.

BY MAUD WALKER.

Little Daisy enjoyed going each morning to the flower garden to gather blossoms and ferns to fill the vases and jardinières about the house. And her mamma had complimented her so much on the artistic arrangement of her bouquets that she had grown to love the work and to feel a great interest and pride in it.

On the morning of the little story opens Daisy's mamma said to her: "Now, dearie, we are to have company for luncheon today, and you may pick the most beautiful roses and buds you can find for the table. And for the parlor chandelier, select what you think prettiest for that; I shall leave the matter to your taste. Only bear in mind that the parlor vases are tall and require long-stemmed flowers."

The Daisy, provided with a pair of garden shears and a basket, ran into the rear yard, where the great flower beds were filled with many kinds of beautiful blossoms, and began to look critically about for a selection. But, finding it hard to decide at once on flowers for the parlor mantle, she went to the great ter in form and color, they have the same sense of feeling. The human family boasts of many different types—the Chinese, the African, the European, the American and many others. All suffer the same physical pain. Just so it is with the flower family.

"That settles it," emphatically declared Daisy. "I'll not cut off a single head, I've got to think out some other way to fix mamma's table pretty!" And she arose, taking her shears and empty basket to the house. As she entered the back door of the hall she saw the housemaid dusting the dining-room chairs. "Almost done, Sally?" she inquired. "Yes, Miss Daisy, 'bout finished. Then you're to have the room, for your mamma says you shall fix the table with flowers to suit yourself."

"Where's mamma?" asked Daisy, putting the basket in the hall closet under the stairs.

"She's on the front porch chattering with ole Miss Waddle, who's putting out hints for some of you folks' flowers to fix up her girl's birthday with to-morrow. She's got her nerve. And, tossing her head, Sally left the room."

"Well, we'll see about that," said Daisy to herself with a determined gesture. "Thou shalt not kill! Now, don't say what thou shalt not kill, for it spooks people have enough sense to know it means everything what feels. And flowers feel, I guess."

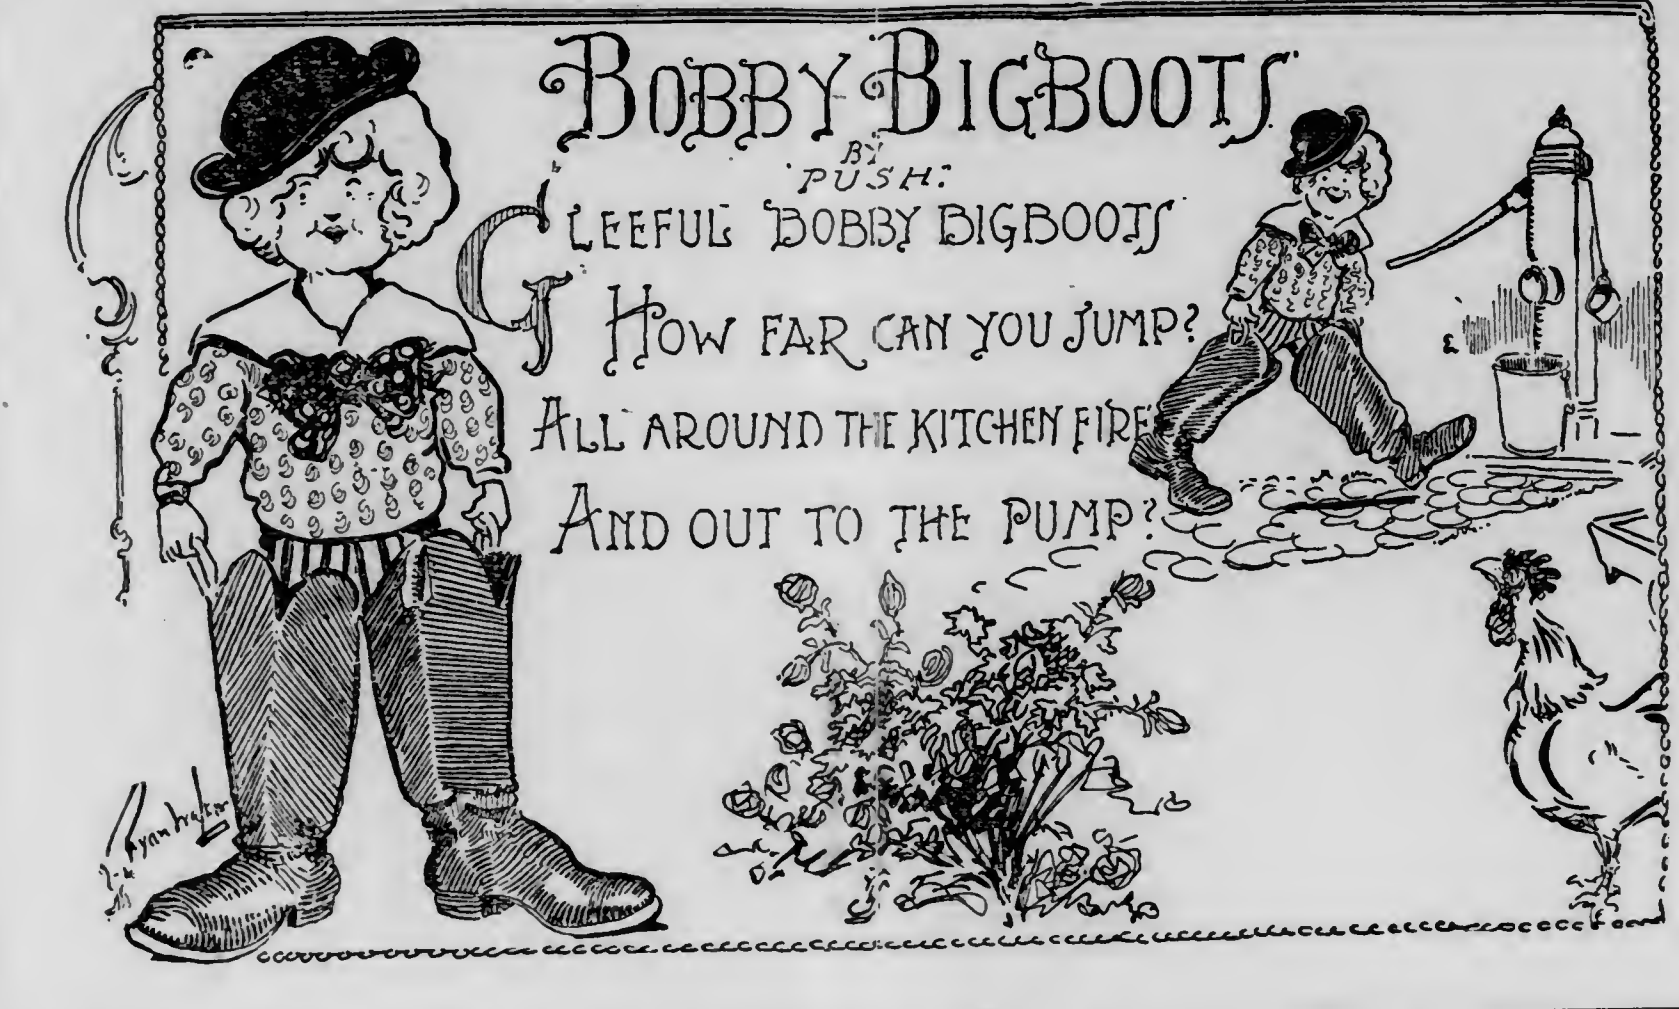

Then Daisy walked round and round the polished table, viewed the beautiful lace centerpiece on which stood the sparkling cut-glass rose bowl, and shook her head in a puzzled way. Then a happy thought came to her. She fairly flew up stairs to her room, and when she came down her arms were full of flowers. But such flowers! They

So they went together to the dining-room. "Oh, how lovely! But where did you get the white roses, dear? We haven't any in our garden." And as Daisy's mamma spoke she went to the table and bent over the bowl of roses. As she did so a peculiar expression came into her eyes, and she touched the flowers with her fingers. "Why, Daisy, these are your paper flowers! What does this mean? As my little daughter's work they are beautiful, but—I hardly think they will answer for table decoration. We would better have the natural flowers, don't you think?"

Then Daisy sat down on a chair at the head of the table and in all seriousness looked up into her mother's face. "Thou shalt not kill!" she quoted in an impressive voice. And then followed the story of the rose and the queer conduct of the lark.

Very gently Daisy's mamma reasoned with her, explaining that it was her childish imagination that had given voice to the rose; but Daisy shook her head and declared that she had not imagined it at all; that the incident had occurred just as she had related it. And as for the flowers, why, they were just as pretty as the real ones and would last ever and ever so much longer, not needing water and only a little perfume.

"Well," said her mamma, "I'm glad my little Daisy has such a true, tender heart; and if she will relate the story of the lark and the rose to our com-three days and he is not to come over here. Do you hear that?"

"Yesum."

"Well, will you heed it?"

"Yesum."

"They did heed it, and both boys were so impressed in the meantime that, though they didn't see the humor of it, they really became more obedient in the future."

A Most Remarkable Tree.

Do you children know that the most marvelous tree in the world—that is, the one producing the greatest number of useful things—is the coconut palm? And it reaches its greatest perfection on clump of rose bushes by the gate, set her basket down and opened the long thicket to get at the flowers. At that moment a lark in a locust tree near by began to sing the most beautiful song Daisy had ever heard come from a bird's throat. She stood all ears, listening to all they really became more obedient in the future.

"Where are you coming from?" Daisy asked, leaning over and peeping through the rosebushes.

"I am the rose speaking," came the answer, exciting Daisy's curiosity greatly. "I am the large pink one, that is nodding toward you. Don't you see me bowing?" Daisy looked with wide, startled eyes, and sure enough, the great pink rose, which a minute before she had been about to sever from its stem, was bowing to her.

"Oh, goodness! how very, very funny that you should speak," exclaimed Daisy. "I never knew that flowers had voices."

"Yes," replied the rose, "but our voices are so low and weak that although we cry out our loudest, man do not hear us. But the birds and the bees talk with us every day. That lark who sang to you just now was preparing your ears to catch my voice. Ever since I burst into bloom I have sung to me daily, and many a morning while you are asleep we have friendly chats. Like us poor flowers, the birds have many grievances against our common enemy, man. Oh, I am so glad I am not a bad man, to shoot the pretty birds," declared Daisy, warmly.

"But you kill us without mercy," responded the rose in a very sad tone. "You come here every day and ruthlessly cut our heads off. Now, of course, we don't sing to you like our feathered friends, but in silence we give to you our fragrance and our beauty. We cover portions of the earth which would otherwise be unattractive. We paint the landscape with bright touches of color and fill the air with sweet perfume. All we ask is to be allowed to bloom on unmolested during our short span of life, and to enjoy the pure air, the refreshing dew, the glorious sunshine, the cleansing rain, the company of birds, the comradeship of bees and butterflies and to have the admiration of the human family; then, when we have exhausted our worldly good, to drop our heads, and with the first stray breeze fall in a shower of petals to the earth, which will take us close into its bosom."

Daisy listened, spellbound. As the voice came from the heart of the nodding rose she thought she could see the were of gay tissue paper and had an abundance of bright green leaves, and all had been made by Daisy's own fingers. She had learned the first lessons in paper-flower culture at the kindergarten, and, loving the work, she had continued it under the instruction of a dear old lady who made her living teaching the art. From a large assortment she selected a quantity of pink and white roses and put them in a bowl, bending the wire stems in a graceful and natural manner. "Just as natural as life," she exclaimed, standing back to admire the effect. "Yes, they're naturaller than life, 'cause they don't wilt. Now, I just bet mamma won't notice they're paper, 'less she smells that they haven't any perfume. But I'll fix that." And away she ran to her room again, returning with a perfume atomizer which was filled with "White Rose." Of this she used freely, spraying the flowers till the sweet odor floated throughout the room. Then she arranged her great bouquets of sweet peas, for Daisy had proved to be an expert in the manufacture of sweet peas, and took them to the parlor, filling the tall vases on the mantel. "Stunnn!" she whispered. "More like sweet peas than sweet peas are like each other."

As Daisy was coming out of the parlor her mamma came along the hall and looked in. "Oh, how fresh and cool the pany today and explain why we have substituted paper roses for real ones, I shall agree to leave the table decoration just as it is."

"All right, mamma, and I shall explain about the sweet peas in the parlor, too."

"What?" asked mamma, in surprise, "are they paper, also?"

"Sure; for don't you s'pose the sweet peas feel, the same as Chinamen and Africans and Americans and a whole lot of other kinds?" asked Daisy. "They certainly do, for the rose said so. And being the queen of flowers, she surely ought to know what she is talking about."

Then Daisy's mamma kissed her, laughing, and hurried to the front door to welcome the company just arrived.

me? Will you ever do that again?"

"No, mother, I never will. As long as I live I never will."

Mother knew very well that when promises are made so readily and plainly something is the matter with the boy at the end of the promise. So she asked him pointedly:

"John Henry, what is the matter? Something dreadful has happened. Tell me what it is at once."

"Boo, hoo! Tim Anderson is drowned. Boo, hoo!"

Mrs. Brown waited for no more. She spoke authoritatively:

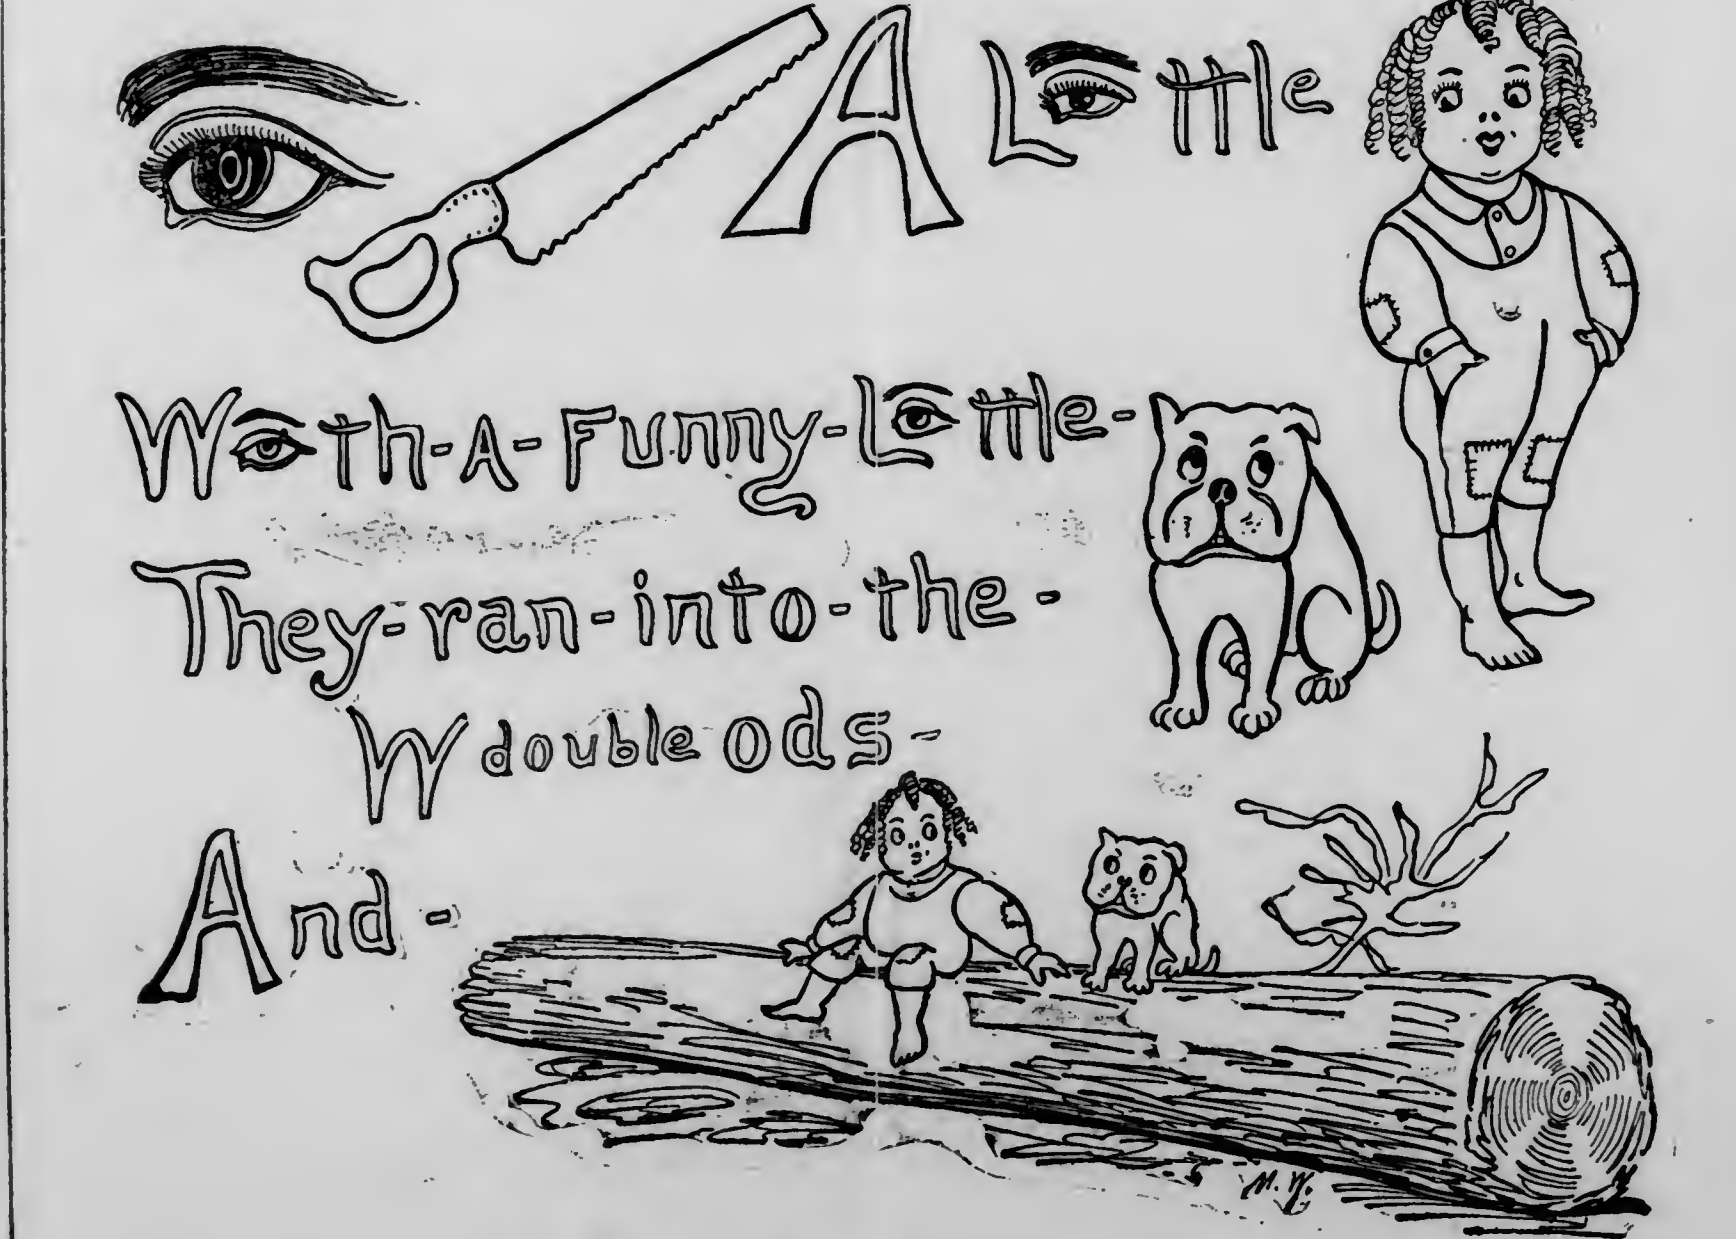

John Henry, go up to your room and hide. You had better go to bed, I guess. I will see what can be done.

For once John Henry obeyed. He wondered if there was really any danger of him being lynched. As a precaution he locked the door and put a chair against it to prop it shut.

While he was barricading his room and dutifully going to bed, Mrs. Brown ran over to Anderson's to inform them of the accident. What was her surprise to meet Tim at the gate, just returning from the creek.

GENERAL ATTACK BY LAND AND SEA HAS BEEN BEGUN ON PORT ARTHUR BY JAPANESE FORCES

Severe Fighting Has Been Going on For Several Days and Japs Are Within Three Miles of Fortress.

Admiral Kamimura Engages the Vladivostok Squadron, Sinks Cruiser Rurik and Damages Others.

German Government Orders Russian Ships at Tsing Tau to Disarm and Remain There in Port.

Che Foo, Aug. 15.—That a general land and naval attack was made upon Port Arthur today is indicated by information from various sources.

The statement that the naval attack was made at 4 o'clock in the morning, comes from an authoritative, but not a diplomatic quarter.

Junks which arrived here today say the Japanese recently occupied the Liau Ti hills and Sushu Yen, which is two or three miles north of the fortress.

Five warships and seven torpedo boats destroyed, according to the junks, returned on the night of Aug. 10.

Berlin, Aug. 15.—A dispatch to the Lokal Anzeiger from Tokyo today confirms the report that heavy fighting occurred at Port Arthur during the past few days. The Japanese captured three Russian batteries and secured positions close to the inner fortifications. Both sides lost heavily. The Japanese have commenced a bombardment from Lang Mountain on the harbor and inner defenses.

Washington, Aug. 15.—The state department has received advice from Che Foo to the effect that it is reported there that a general naval battle at Port Arthur was begun at dawn today.

tacked by the Japanese, who had approached with two torpedo boats and a cruiser, and who sent a party under an officer as though to enter into parleys.

"Not having arms to resist, I ordered the making of preparation to blow up my ship. When the Japanese began to hoist their flag I insisted the Japanese officer by striking him and throwing him into the water. I then ordered my crew to throw the enemy into the sea. Our resistance, however, proved unavailing and the Japanese took possession of the boat.

"Explosions occurred in the engine room and in the fore part of the vessel, but the Ryschitski did not sink, and was taken from port by the Japanese. I hope they will not be able to take her to one of their own ports. My officers and crew have been saved with the exception of an engineer and a stoker. Four others are slightly wounded. Naval Ensign Petzloff, who resisted the hoisting of the Japanese flag, received a blow in the chest with the butt end of a musket. I received a wound in the right thigh from a bullet, which has not yet been extracted.

Japanese are ever showing a desire to close the circle from the north, simultaneously moving from the west and east towards Yangtze, Mukden and Taiping. Under the present circumstances it is believed here that this task is beyond their strength, at least until the fall. Port Arthur releases a large number of troops.

THE JAPS REPULSED
In Assault on Port Arthur on Aug. 11.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 15.—The war office today received a message from Port Arthur, in which Gen. Stoessel, under date of Aug. 11, reports a successful repulse of a general assault on the Russian outer positions during the night following the departure of the Russian fleet. He does not mention a naval engagement or refer to the return of the warships.

The foreign office has received a telegram from Gen. M. Pavloff, the former Russian minister at Seoul, Korea, from Shanghai, reporting the presence there of Capt. Reitzenstein's flagship, the Askold, and a torpedo boat destroyer, both severely damaged and in need of repairs. He does not mention the other Russian vessels reported to be off Shanghai.

The admiralty has received a telegram from Capt. Matonovitch of the Czarevitch, now at Tsing Tau, saying he is recovering and that he received a Russian prize, who came on behalf of the German navy to salute their flag. The telegram fails to clear up the whereabouts of the three warships reported to be ceiling at the Singtau.

RUSSIA DEMANDS
Return of Destroyer From Chinese Government.

Washington, Aug. 15.—Mr. Conger, the American minister at Peking, has cabled to the state department, under this date, as follows:

The Russian minister has sent to the Chinese government a strong note, demanding a full explanation of the Ryschitski affair, charging the Chinese with cowardice or treason, and demanding a full explanation of the restoration of the destroyer and severe punishment of the commander. The Chinese government has demanded from the Japanese the restoration of the destroyer.

CAPTAIN UPHELD
For Slapping the Face of Japanese Commander.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 15.—The newspapers today devote slight editorial space to the naval engagement off the coast of the island of the Ryschitski, Aug. 10, and generally express the belief that the remainder of the Port Arthur squadron has broken through the Japanese fleet. The editorialists mostly deal with the Ryschitski incident. M. Souvorin, editor of the Novoye Vremya, vehemently declares that Capt. Shestakovsky, by slapping the face of the Japanese commander, administered the only punishment suitable for such an outrageous act.

"All the papers make sarcastic allusions to the bankruptcy of international law," and the Russ. Novoye Vremya, and Novoye Russkoye Slovo, reproduce an article from a Berlin paper based on the perils of the work of maritime law, pointing out that the Japanese were not justified in attacking the Ryschitski, regardless of the fact that she was armed or unarmed.

The same authority invokes support for the contention that the Russian warships did not violate international law in seeking shelter in neutral ports. The Knight Commander's captain is expected to arrive at St. Petersburg shortly.

JAPS ORGANIZE BANDITS.
Mukden, Aug. 15.—The Chinese bandit leaders, Kishunah, Tulsan, and Poling, each with 1000 followers, are now in the Siming district, moving up the Liao river valley, with the object of attacking the railway. Each of the bands, which are organized by the Japanese, is accompanied by 10 Japanese, with mountain guns.

ACTIVITY IN THE BALTIC.
St. Petersburg, Aug. 15.—There is considerable activity aboard the ships of the Baltic fleet. A large amount of sailors' baggage is being taken to the new battleship Oreil. Orders have been issued that all torpedo boats and destroyers of the second division shall be called to full capacity. The boats are to await further orders in the small roadstead at Cronstadt. Shore liberty on all vessels has been curtailed after sunset.

SURVIVORS REACH SASEBO.
Washington, Aug. 15.—The American consul at Sasebo reports to the state department that 600 of the survivors of the big Russian cruiser Rurik, of the Vladivostok squadron, sunk by Admiral Kamimura, have arrived at Sasebo. Sasebo is the island used by Japan as a naval base.

One Man Was Killed and Another Cannot Live.

Sixteen Others in Elevator Received Very Painful Injuries.

Elevator Operator and Superintendent Were Promptly Arrested.

New York, Aug. 15.—One man was killed, another so badly hurt that he will die, and sixteen others received painful injuries in an elevator accident in the ten-story building at 270 Mercer street today. The accident was caused by heavy counterweights breaking from their fastenings and falling from the top of the shaft onto a freight elevator on the ground floor, in which were about a score of people. Most of those injured received severe scalp wounds. The elevator operator and the superintendent of the building were arrested.

ADMIRALTY DENIES That Great Britain Has Annexed Bird Islands.

London, Aug. 15.—The admiralty formally denied this afternoon, the report from Kingston, Jamaica, saying that a party from the British cruiser Tribune, recently landed at Aves, or Bird island, 127 miles west of the island of Dominica, West Indies, and annexed it as a British possession. The report is believed to have grown out of the fact that the Tribune sent a landing party ashore for target practice. The admiralty added that the island is of no value and there is no intention of acquiring it. In compliance with a request of the governor of Trinidad, the admiralty has instructed the Tribune to proceed immediately to Venezuela waters to protect British subjects and interests.

FIRE AT CARBERRY
Sunday Morning Does Damage of $40,000.

Winnipeg, Aug. 15.—Carberry, a flourishing town ninety miles west of here, on the main line of the Canadian Pacific, was visited by fire Sunday morning which did damage of $40,000. Among the total losses were Harry Gilmore, merchant; T. D. Stickle, owner of the destroyed block; Richardson, jeweler; Misses Jones and Dundas. Slightly damaged were S. Haslam, Joseph Hayter, S. Dickie, W. P. Hall, Western hotel, Odd Fellows and Foresters regalia and books. Insurance, $28,000.

BUT LITTLE INTEREST
Taken In Registration For Fort Totten Lands.

St. Paul, Aug. 15.—Specials to the Dispatch from Devils Lake and Grand Forks, N. D., where registration is in progress for Ft. Totten reservation lands, the drawing for which will begin at Devils Lake, Aug. 24, show that but little interest is taken in the registration as compared with the Rosebud opening at Bonesteel, S. D.

During six days only 4290 persons registered at Grand Forks. Indications point toward a larger registration this week.

A Devils Lake special says today's registration will probably reach 500.

A BRITISH CRUISER
DROPS INTO MOROCCO.

Tangier, Morocco, Aug. 15.—The British cruiser Minerva arrived here today in connection with the case of Hamid Javali, the British subject arrested by order of the sultan.

It was announced in a dispatch from Tangier, Aug. 12, that Hamid Javali, private secretary to Memed, the Moroccan minister of war, and a British subject, had been arrested and imprisoned and his goods had been confiscated. The British legation strongly protested to the Moroccan government, but the protest was entirely ignored.

U. S. EUROPEAN SQUADRON
DEPARTS FROM SMYRNA.

Washington, Aug. 15.—Rear Admiral Jewell, commander of the American European squadron, today cabled to the navy department, announcing the departure of his command, comprising the Olympia, Baltimore and Cleveland from Smyrna for Gibraltar. This action is taken on the instruction from Minister Leishman at Constantinople, that the fleet's presence is no longer necessary at Smyrna.

CIVIL WAR VETERANS ASSEMBLE IN BOSTON

Opening of Twenty-Eighth Encampment of G. A. R.

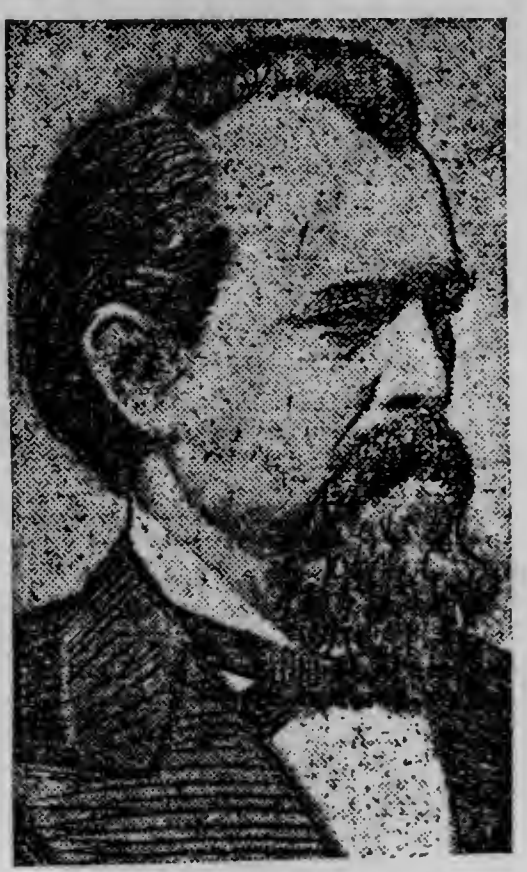

Allied Organizations Hold Conventions at Same Time.

Boston, Aug. 15.—For the thirty-eighth time since the civil war, the surviving veterans who fought in the union army, assembled today in annual encampment, gathering in Boston. The encampment of the veterans as well as of the subsidiary organizations, including the National Women's Relief Corps, the National Daughters of Veterans, the National Sons of Veterans and other organizations was formally opened today.

Massachusetts Sons of Veterans, stationed at the railroad terminals received the incoming delegations and escorted them to hotels or headquarters. The American flag was seen everywhere and red, white and blue bunting, the seal and badge of the G. A. R. and the words "Fraternity, Charity and Loyalty" the motto of the order, were shown from the fronts of the business houses, hotels, theaters, newspaper offices and residences from one end of the city to the other. Notable in all the display was the city's greeting to the veterans as spoken by the flowers in the public gardens, where beautiful designs had been made to reproduce the stars and stripes and the various insignia of the veteran organizations.

There were fifteen events scheduled for today, principal of which was the parade of the union ex-pensioners of war, Massachusetts grand brigade, and marines from the warships in Boston harbor and others. Of this parade, the city of the G. A. R. was to come on Tuesday with business sessions later in the week and with banquets and receptions interspersed.

Commander-in-Chief John C. Black, of the G. A. R. today assumed active command of the great encampment. A conservative estimate of the people in the city on account of the encampment places the number at 100,000. The parade formed in the Back Bay, on streets adjacent to Commonwealth avenue and Arlington street, passing through the principal downtown streets.

At the state house, the column was reviewed by Governor John L. Bates, with members of his staff. From a stand in front of the state house, several thousand people saw the marching men as also did thousands from stands erected on Boston commons and other parts of the city. At the city hall, Mayor Patrick A. Collins and the city council reviewed the soldiers and the veterans while the procession passed in review before Chief Marshal Read at the corner of Beacon and Charles streets.

NEW BRUNSWICK IS RIPE FOR TREATY

But Tired of Playing Role of America's Rejected Suitor.

Home Industries Hurt By Dumping of American Products.

(BY JOHN H. RAFFERTY.)
St. John, N. B., Aug. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—At St. John, N. B., the chief city of the largest maritime province of Canada, the consensus of opinion is to the effect that the reiterated high tariff policies of the United States have, for the present at least, put an end to the once active hopes of New Brunswick for reciprocity with the United States. Next to the adoption of methods of the United States "government party," as they call it here, the greatest hostile influence against reciprocity or trade unionism between the two nations has come from the manufacturing trusts of the United States.

The almost prohibitive effects of the existing tariff arrangements between the United States and Canada are well known. But it is not so well known in the United States that for the last five years Canada has been made the dumping ground, so to speak, of the surplus products of the giant manufacturing corporations of the former country. Pooled agreements on selling prices between Canadian factories could manufacture similar products in their own country.

American "Dumpers" Cause Hostility.

A Rumor That Peace Proposals Are Being Considered.

Chicago, Aug. 15.—Strike leaders and the big packing firms denied forcibly today that any efforts had been made by either side to bring about another conference looking to peace in the stock yards. President Donnelly of the butcher workmen said:

"I have read the stories that we secretly met representatives of the packers within the last two days, and that we intended to hold another meeting, possibly today. But the stories are absolutely untrue. Neither we nor any persons representing us have seen any representatives of the packers. I have no reason to believe the packers have sought to see us. Any conference that is held must comprehend all the interests affected and must be held with representatives of the allied trades. Any agreement that might be reached would have to be ratified by the allied trades. Any agreement made will have to take care of all the labor interests involved."

The packers were just as positive, and their expressions indicated that they considered general negotiations fully as useless now as they did a week ago.

Despite the positive denials by both packers and strike leaders that peace plans were under consideration, a suspicion that important proposals are under consideration was caused by the early meeting today of the Allied Trades' conference board. There were guards at every door and no one but a member of the board was permitted to approach. President Donnelly refused to indicate the subject, under consideration.

President Donnelly and George F. Golden, of the teamsters, have reached an open clash. For many days there have been indications of a lack of kindly feeling between the two leaders. Matters came to an acute stage today. Donnelly declaring that Golden had no right to go to the mail carriers and get a big contribution.

"The teamsters have plenty of money. They don't need any contributions," said Donnelly. "But when we went to the mail carriers we found Golden had been there ahead of us. I am going to find out just how far this is."

"I don't care whether Donnelly objects or not," said Mr. Golden. "I have a fund of $100,000 and I am going to get funds for my men. We have volunteered to aid the butchers, and I think it is government hostility to object to our helping ourselves. The postoffice employees invited a committee from our organization to see them, and that is how it came about."

Golden's organization has received $200 from the truck drivers and $1500 from the ice wagon drivers. From smaller contributions have been received from various organizations.

President Donnelly today started out nearly 100 solicitors to obtain strike funds from stock yards business men.

General Building Lockout
Would Render That Number Idle.

New York, Aug. 15.—Today began the third and possibly the decisive week in the controversy which threatens to put a stop to building operations in this city for months to come. It is declared by the leaders of both sides that everything points to a fight to a finish between the labor unions and the Building Trades Employers' association over the question of the open shop.

There are now about 30,000 men out of work, including skilled mechanics and laborers, as the result of the present difficulty.

There are about 60,000 skilled workmen in the building trades in this city who would be thrown out of work by a general strike or lockout. In addition to these, it is estimated that 40,000 helpers and laborers and 15,000 employees of material men would be thrown out of work, thus making a total of 120,000. Their loss in wages would amount in round figures to $10,000,000 a month, in addition to which the capital of the 1000 members of the building trades employers' association and the millions of dollars invested in property undergoing improvement would be tied up.

The employers declare they are determined that the arbitration agreement adopted a year ago shall be respected, with the open shop policy as the alternative.

GAMES YESTERDAY.

Duluth, 5; Crookston, 5.

The Northern League season dragged itself to a close yesterday afternoon when the Duluth team defeated Crookston by a score of 5 to 2. The game was a pretty contest until the eighth, when Sam Menzies, a local amateur, was in the box for Duluth and held the visitors safe throughout the game, allowing but three hits and two runs in the nine innings.

Symons proved a mystery to the Duluth men for seven innings, and at the beginning of the eighth he looked like a shut-out. But Schaefer drew a pass, and Menzies singled, and Menzies then scored. Menzies then scored with a smashing two-bagger, and Menzies broke up the game by coming up to bat and slugging the ball over the left field fence for a home run. Five earned runs were the net result of the inning.

Calumet & Sonora Mining Company,

Of Mexico.

Duluth, Hibbing and Other Range Town People Interested in Rich Copper Mine.

The indications are that the stockholders who are fortunate enough to secure development stock in the Calumet & Sonora copper property, in Mexico, have struck a good thing. Three shafts have been sunk on the property, and high-grade ore has been found in each, the analysis showing from four to fifty per cent copper. Development work has been going on for the past nine months, and for the first time in the history of the Calumet & Sonora mine, the famous Greene Consolidated mines, in Louisiana, three million pounds of copper each month. The formation of the deposits so far as shown in the Calumet & Sonora is identical to the same as the Greene Consolidated, and everything promises a big mine for the owners. A full complement of mining machinery was recently purchased and is now being installed on the property, and as soon as the new machinery is in operation it is expected the company will begin paying dividends. There is a corner of the mine within a short distance from the mine, where one can be treated.

Assess from Calumet & Sonora recently made, show values in copper ore from $10 to $125 a ton. When it is remembered that this ore can be mined for less than the value of the property, it is a gratifying fact to know that large quantities of such ore are owned and ready to be mined by the stockholders.

white is the latest combination in the lace fan, and Chantilly in the tones is used with excellent effect.

With the small, in particular, a chain is considered a necessity these days, and it may be as simple or as ornate as the taste and pocket of the wearer dictate. The head chain, which dangled and glittered around the neck of every other woman in the street throughout the last year, has been displaced this summer by the link chain set with minute gem-like stones.

Not only that, but the gems are real, for there are limitations so clever and satisfactory that not alone are they worn by the girl with the slim purse and a passion for being up-to-date, but also by her more fortunate sister who does not believe in spending too much cash on fads.

Other trifles to be mentioned are a couple of chains of Parisian origin that indicate the popular fancy in this direction, tiny brilliants and black stones resembling pearls being the gems used, in platinum and silver settings.

In the line of new ornaments may be mentioned, also, the stock pin of oxidized silver, with designs of roses in copper. The collection of another serviceable little trinket is as a powder box, holding a tiny puff comfortably, and equipped with a mirror set in the cover.

For these and a few years ago nearly every girl wore dangling from her belt disappeared as the vogue of the handkerchief increased, and the trinkets are now kept out of sight. This little shell belongs to the chateleine group, and it fits in the smallest of wrist bags and is a very useful possession.

Thy name is legion might well be said of the handkerchief group, for these anchors for modern headgear are of all kinds and descriptions. The most recent and popular are the mortar board and rough rider styles shown for general wear and the large safety and horn pins which are the sign of the automobilist. These pins come in silver, gilt and copper and are displayed in the more familiar display of gem set and plain pins with which the girl of the period is quite familiar.

The Chump. He'd tarried late; her father's voice came to him like a shock: "Hark ye, young man! Are you aware it's almost twelve o'clock?"

"Yes, sir. But—that is—you see—she's now an hour or so from getting home, and I— I really couldn't go."

"And are you chump enough to get your hat in such mishap? Hereafter hang it in the hall! Don't keep it in your room!"

HS FINAL REPORT

W. F. Markus Responds to Criticisms of Free Employment Bureau.

Average Cost of Placing Men at Work Is 44 Cents.

W. F. Markus, ex-secretary of the free employment bureau, has submitted a report of all business transacted during his four years of service, to the council, and will be read at the meeting this evening.

In his report he advocates strongly, that the bureau be maintained, and gives his reasons for recommending his position as secretary, claiming that he did so in the hope that it would remove some of the opposition to the bureau.

He accounts for the poor showing made during the past three months by the fact that there was but a small demand for labor, and that the bureau was not able to secure the necessary funds to maintain its operations.

To the President and Common Council of the City of Duluth: Gentlemen—Having resigned my position I desire to report to you the business transacted by this department since November 1, 1901, to August 1, 1904, inclusive.

The bureau has been in operation for four years and has been successful in placing many men at work. The cost of maintaining the bureau for the year ended June 30, 1904, was $1,000.00, being an average cost of 44 cents for each position filled.

RAILROAD NEWS

Roads in Good Shape to Care For Wheat Movement.

Great Northern Expected to Rebuild at Brookston Next Fall.

The Northwestern railway companies with lines into the wheat belt are said to be pretty well prepared this season for the wheat shipping business which is expected to begin within the next month or six weeks. Some of the roads have been making quite an effort since last fall to increase their rolling stock with a view of having better facilities and to offset any prospective car shortage and the results have been of such a nature that the freight men predict plenty of cars for this fall's business to the head of the lakes and to the Twin Cities.

The Milwaukee road has been turning out new cars at the rate of 13 per day for almost a year past and the Northern Pacific road is known to have increased its rolling stock in the wheat belt by at least 1500 cars. Other lines are supposed to have done about as well in new cars to the head of the lakes.

Commenting on the situation, one of the local freight men said that the western roads are today better equipped for freight business than the Eastern roads, and that their rolling stock is newer and in better condition generally than in the East, where some of the cars have been run so long as to have become almost obsolete so far as their usefulness is concerned.

The Western roads have old cars, too, but they have been increasing their rolling stock faster than their cars have gone out of commission, through continued and hard usage and they are in pretty good shape to handle their business this year.

From present indications the railroad men cannot foresee how there can be any serious car shortage when the wheat movement begins.

Roads east of Chicago, and to the Southeast, are now and have been for several weeks limiting the radius of operation of their own cars for fear they will get up into the Northwest and get shunted off into the wheat country where they might remain until well on into the fall, but the Northwestern railroad men claim there is little danger of this practice being followed out this year for the various roads will have enough of their own cars without impressing those of the Eastern roads into the service.

Coal shipments out of Duluth and Superior are picking up right along and it is expected that the coal movement inland, from this distributing point, will be good from now on into and through the winter months.

As soon as the wheat begins to come this way the cars carrying coal out into the prairie country will return laden with grain so that the railroad companies will be in a position to realize what they most desire, an earning from their rolling stock both ways, without any loss from haulage of empty cars.

REBUILD NEXT FALL.

Great Northern to Do That at Brookston.

It is understood from semi-official sources that the Great Northern Railway company will rebuild its pump-housestation, water tank and coal sheds at Brookston, or Stony Brook, as it is sometimes called, this coming fall and winter, and that temporary repairs will be made pending the erection of more substantial buildings later on and before the ore-shipping season opens up next season.

The buildings referred to burned down last night last, entailing a loss of about $15,000 or $16,000 and one life, that of the night pumpman, who carried a lighted lantern into the pump-house, where the air was laden with fumes from gasoline. Besides the coal sheds, pumping station and tank, the company lost five cars and the small residence of one of its operators at that point.

The company has been deeply unfortunate at Brookston, having lost its first station there by fire some time ago. In the past three years, particularly since the cut-off was built from Brookston to Hibbing, Brookston has come to the point as a junction point and improvements have been made there every year, more being contemplated in the near future. With about two miles of yard room for the ore trains and the empties, Brookston is not likely to be abandoned by the company and it is said that the rebuilding will be on a larger and more substantial scale in view of the fact that a townsite has been platted and the reservation thereabout is to be open for timber sale and settlement this coming fall.

One of the contemplated improvements likely to be established at Brookston is a section house and a small roundhouse with the capacity of one or two engines.

Railroad Personals.

C. C. Carpenter, the Northwestern passenger agent of the Santa Fe road, arrived in the city this morning to visit the local ticket offices and to distribute some Santa Fe literature.

NO FOUNDATION FOR CHARGES
State Board of Charities Reports on Elgin Asylum.

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 16.—The state board of charities today filed with Governor Yates a report upon the charges by the Elgin Trades council against the management of the Elgin insane hospital and on the charge of brutality and murder preferred by Wm. H. Potts and Rev. Walter A. Evans, former patients.

Respecting the charges made by Mr. Evans and Mr. Potts, the board finds that they have no foundation. Concerning the case of the Elgin Trades council the report says:

We find that these charges emanate from a spirit of revenge among a number of discharged employees who had formed a union in the institution and incurred a hatred for those who would not join their union. We believe that such an organization in a state institution cannot but be detrimental to good service and subversive of discipline and that it is the cause of ill-feeling and animosity among attendants. We must conclude that any such organization of any of the public institutions of the state should be discouraged.

AN ULTIMATUM

Delivered By Trainmen to the Canadian Pacific Road.

St. Paul, Aug. 16.—A special to the Dispatch from Winnipeg, says: The employees of the Canadian Pacific railroad have delivered an ultimatum to the officials of the road in the matter of an increase of wages for railroad car-men and machinists and it is said that the ultimatum is not complied with before the time limit set in the demand expires, there will be a strike. This ultimatum followed several conferences during the past few months.

The men anticipate a sympathetic strike in other departments of the road if they do go out.

The sunken portion of the pavement is still fenced off to prevent any danger of accident.

MYSTERIOUS POISONING
Chemist of Iowa University Dies After Drinking Coffee.

St. Paul, Aug. 16.—A special to the Dispatch from Iowa City, Iowa, says: Something of a sensation was created here today by the announcement of Dr. E. W. Rockwood, the state university chemist, who died suddenly Friday, that he died shortly after drinking a quantity of coffee and his last words gasped as death corner. Sies on learning of this statement who met with the coroner's jury today and later gave out the statement that traces of poison had been found.

How the poison got into the coffee is a mystery as Mrs. Carpenter, the widow, claims she and her son drank coffee before and after she had supplied her husband.

LOST THE MAN

Seattle Detectives Let Ike Horsell Get Away From Them.

Traveled to Cleveland to Get Him—Skipped at Minot.

After traveling across the continent to capture a prisoner for whom the police of the country had been searching for six months, the two Seattle detectives, who passed through this city last week with the man in charge, allowed him to escape them at Minot, N. D., and he is again at large.

The man, whose name is Ike Horsell, is charged with having fired four shots at his wife in the streets of Seattle last winter. The bullets all took effect and the woman has not yet recovered from their effects. The man fled the city after the affair and for six months the police all over the country have been searching for him. He was finally located in Cleveland, and the two Seattle detectives were dispatched to take him in custody and escort him back to Seattle to stand trial.

The two detectives and their prisoner came up the lakes last week on the steamer North West, and the man was lodged in the local police headquarters for two hours, awaiting the departure of the train for St. Paul. At St. Paul the three men boarded the Northern Pacific train for Seattle, and the local police supposed that the man was now standing trial.

This morning, however, a printed circular was received from the Seattle police containing the information that Horsell had escaped from the officers at Minot, N. D., and was again at large. A reward of $100 is offered for information that will lead to his arrest. He is a man of about 40 years of age, five feet eleven inches in height and weighing about 175 pounds. He has dark brown hair, and a long, regular scar just under his chin. He made a clean break of it in some manner and the Seattle authorities have no clue to his whereabouts.

The local police are making bets as to the probable fate met by the two custodians of the prisoner when they returned from their trip of between 5000 and 6000 miles, empty-handed, after getting their prisoner within a day's journey of home.

REACHES THE THIRD ROUND

Ralph Davis Defeats Powell Grady In Tennis Tournament.

Ralph Davis and Powell Grady came together at noon today in the second round of the open tournament now in progress on the Edenian courts.

The game was a close battle throughout. Davis showed up in rather poor form in the first set and Grady outplayed him from the start. Grady was playing good tennis and the first set fell to him by the score of 6-4.

In the second set Davis took a decided brace, and commenced with a good net game. Time and again he would volley Grady's long drives from his position at the net, and finally forced one of the prettiest contests seen on the courts this year he won the second set by the close margin of 8-6. Grady appeared disheartened after losing the long, close set when he apparently had the match well in hand, and in the third and deciding set he went to pieces badly. Davis had the set well in hand from the start, and clearly outplayed his opponent. Grady appeared to lose confidence in himself and his drives were either wide of the court or within reach of his opponent at the net. Davis took the last set by the score of 6-1, winning the match and going into the third round of the tournament.

This was the only match played on the courts this morning, and the others were not due to commence until 3 o'clock this afternoon.

Our Gold Dollar the Standard

The gold dollar of the United States is the monetary standard of Canada, British Honduras and Columbia, and Mexico, it is anticipated, will attain the same standard at an early date. The standard among all proprietary medicines is the celebrated Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. It has been the leader of its class in curing all stomach, liver and bowel disorders, and that it is so well known so much to the exclusion of all other remedies. When the appetite is poor, sleep restless, blood impure, tongue coated, breath bad and the nerves strung a few doses of the bitters will soon set things right again. Then it also cures indigestion, dyspepsia, constipation, cramps, diarrhoea or catarrh. We urge you to try it at once.

BRUTE IS CAUGHT

Police Land Burly Negro Who Has Been Insulting Women.

Young Women on Park Point Subjects of His Insults.

William Haskell, a burly negro, was arrested by Detective Irving this afternoon on Park Point, on the charge of insulting two young girls, and attempting to hand them notes containing indecent proposals.

Many complaints have come in to the police department during the last two or three days from young women on Park Point who have been insulted by an unknown negro. The residents of that district have become incensed over the matter and it would have gone hard with the negro had he been caught. The police have been watching for him and this afternoon Detective Irving succeeded in placing him under arrest.

He will be given a hearing tomorrow morning in the municipal court behind closed doors in order to save the young ladies the embarrassment of testifying in open court against the prisoner. The two complaining witnesses are the daughters of a well-known resident of that section of the city. They claim that the negro insulted them and tried to hand them notes containing indecent proposals.

Proclamation!

In view of the fact that our county fair, under capable management, is fast growing in importance and interest each year, it has been thought best by the management and a number of the business men to have what may be called a Duluth day, and the management has designated Thursday, August 18th, as such a day.

A number of the large retail firms have expressed their willingness to close their stores Thursday afternoon and give everybody a chance to attend the fair. I therefore suggest and urge that as many others as possible do likewise.

The management has promised to have an especially interesting program for that afternoon, and the liberal patronage of the public would encourage them in developing our county fair into something more than the ordinary, so that it may be attractive to the visitor and a source of pride to the city and county.

M. B. CULLUM, Mayor.

CITY BRIEFS.

Launches for rent. Patterson, 3th av. W. The first division of the naval reserves held its regular weekly drill at the Armory last evening. In addition to the drill a competitive examination for petty officers was held. There are two vacancies, acting chief boatswain's mate and acting second-class gunner. Four candidates were examined last evening and several more will be examined next week.

One of the most enjoyable affairs in Christian Endeavor circles will be held this evening at the home of Miss Chambers, No. 324 Fourth avenue west, when Miss Marie Chambers will entertain the young people of the different societies in this union and their friends at a lawn party.

Owing to the inability of some of the members to go at this time the Y. M. C. A. World's fair party, which was to have started for St. Louis in a special car tomorrow, will not leave Duluth before Monday. It is possible that even a longer delay will be necessary. Four more people are still needed to complete the party.

The case of Josephine George F. Barnard, William Welsh and Ella M. Barnard, arising out of trouble over a real estate transfer, has been transferred from the Morrison county district court to the United States circuit court.

The handsome silver loving cup to be presented by the Kelley Hardware company as a prize in the rotation pool tournament at the Commercial club, has been placed on exhibition in the billiard hall. The tournament will probably begin Monday this week, the cup to go to the winner of two rounds. The cup stands about 12 inches high and is made of silver.

The Commercial club card rooms are being very much improved with red leather walls and new tables, with leather cushioned seats.

One of the armatures at the Superior electric plant burned out last evening, and as a consequence all places in the business part of town, using electricity, were without any power till nearly noon, when the machine was repaired. The electric plant burned out last evening as they depend upon electricity for their power.

The funeral of Fred Simpson will be held tomorrow from the undertaking rooms of Forest Hill cemetery.

TIP OVER CAUSES DAMAGE.

The dray was just starting up the hill from Michigan avenue on First avenue East when it turned over. The dray was loaded with 100 pound grindstones were loaded on one side and overbalanced the dray. The driver escaped unhurt. The horses were slightly cut, but not seriously. There were three large heating stoves on the load and two of these were badly damaged. Several grindstones were broken, and some merchandise damaged, in addition to the damages to the dray. The loss was estimated at about $100.

WILL MEET THEM

West End People To Confer With Street Railway Officials.

Will Urge Building of Line Up Piedmont Avenue.

The citizens' committee of the West End, appointed at a mass meeting of residents of that section of the city to take steps towards getting an extension of the street car line up Piedmont avenue, from Nineteenth avenue west and Third street to the Miller creek bridge, will meet with the local officials of the Duluth-Superior traction company tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, in the offices of Luther Mendelham, First National Bank building.

On the committee are twelve property owners and Alderman R. D. Haven, of the Sixth and Seventh wards, will also be present at the conference, to assist in putting the people's side of the matter before the traction company. The committee will present petitions, signed by over 300 men, asking for the desired improvement, and will also submit other papers and arguments showing the need of the extension. The company officials will be asked to state whether or not the extension will be built, and at what time the improvement may be completed.

The West Enders are very earnest in their endeavor to get the extension, as has been demonstrated recently in two rousing mass meetings held in the affected district. It is claimed that between 1500 and 2000 people would be benefited by the additional piece of track, and that the improvement would be a paying proposition from the company's standpoint. It would also increase property values along Piedmont avenue and be the means of more rapidly settling up the district.

The grade, it is said, is at no point along the proposed route of the track more than 12 per cent, which would easily admit of the operating of electric cars. This 12 per cent grade extends for about 100 feet.

THE MAYOR PROCLAIMS

Urges General Observance of Thursday In Fair's Interest.

Mayor Cullum today issued a proclamation designating Thursday as Duluth day at the county fair. His honor says that some of the merchants have signified their intention of closing Thursday afternoon and giving their employees a chance to see the fair. He endorses this move and hopes that it will be general. He further states that the fair is one that the management has tried in every way to make a success of and that it is for the interest of the citizens to do all in their power to make it successful.

Candidates FOR SHERIFF.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the Republican nomination for sheriff of St. Louis county. Have lived in the county for the past twelve years and have never been a candidate for any office whatever. If nominated and elected, will devote all my time to the office and serve the county to the best of my ability. JACK MILES.

THE FAIR OPENS

Large Attendance at First Afternoon of the Exhibition.

Exhibits Getting In Place—Horse Races Great Attraction.

The annual fair of the St. Louis County Agricultural and Driving association was formally opened to the public this morning. Few people other than those having exhibits were on hand this forenoon, but shortly after 1 o'clock the crowds began coming, and when the time set for the races arrived there was a very good attendance.

The fair shows up better in all departments than it did last year. There is a more extensive display of vegetables than in 1903, and the grain and fruit exhibit is a satisfactory one. Very fine specimens of oats, barley, grasses and clover are on exhibition, and there is quite a display of small fruits. Many people express surprise at the apples and crab apples, products of the county, which are to be seen.

Although all the available space allotted for mercantile exhibits had been contracted for, the merchants were slow in getting in their displays, and at the opening this morning there were several which were not in place. They arrived later in the day, however, and were ready for inspection this afternoon. Some of the mercantile booths are very attractive ones, and all are artistically arranged, and in a manner to best show the merits of the articles in them. There are a few exhibits of implements to be used on the farm.

The live stock exhibit, while not very large, contains some choice animals, and adds much to the general attractiveness of the fair.

The upper floor of the main building devoted to the display of the work of women and to the art department. A number of paintings and drawings of genuine merit are to be found among the art selections. The women's department is one which has been given a good deal of attention, with gratifying results, for the exhibits here are numerous. Everything from the products of the kitchen to ladies' fancy work may be seen. The collection of potted plants and cut flowers on the lower floor, is sure to draw exclamations of surprise from the fairgoers. A large collection, with a great variety of plants and flowers displayed.

But the real center of interest. There are nearly seventy of the animals, the pick of the Northwest. Most of the best training at the track for several days past, and all are in fine condition, and ready to take part in the races which have ever been pulled off in the county. The races this afternoon were the 2:15 pace or trot for a purse of $400, the 2:45 pace or trot for a purse of $200, and the running race for a purse of $100.

But the races every afternoon during the week, with some sort of attractions between the heats to amuse the people in the grand stand. Tomorrow afternoon will occur the St. Louis county pace or trot, for a purse of $400, the 2:45 pace or trot for a purse of $200, and a running race for $100. Horses to compete in the first race must be in the record and owned within the county.

EGAN RECORDS GOLF

Former Western Champion H. Chandler Egan furnished the sensation of the first half of the qualifying round by breaking all records of the course with a marvelous score of 70.

Fay Ingalls, of Cincinnati, the Harvard golf champion, who was repaired with Chandler Egan, totaled 73 for 18 holes.

ROOSEVELT'S LETTER

Principal Subject of Discussion By Cabinet.

Washington, Aug. 16.—The principal feature of the cabinet meeting, was a thorough discussion of the letter of acceptance of the Republican nomination by the president. This letter has been in course of construction for the past three weeks and has been submitted individually to members of the cabinet for their criticism. At the meeting today the document which is supposed to be necessary correspondence, was read with a view to eliciting suggestions from certain cabinet members who had not yet had an opportunity to read it. It is said to be about the same as the speech with which President Roosevelt received the notification committee at the White House. It is believed that it will be ready for publication in about two weeks time.

There was a general exchange of congratulations on the successful outcome of the Turkish negotiations.

About $70,000 is paid out every two weeks and the miners have a big time when the pay car comes in.

WOMEN'S OUTFITTERS

laid the foundation of his vast fortune with a pick. He came to Danville a poor Irishman, unable to write his own name. Today he lives in a fine home on one of the best streets of the city, and is perhaps the richest man in Danville.

It was long known that rich coal deposits underlay the soil of Vermilion county, but Kelly was the first man to make use of the knowledge. He purchased ten acres of poor land soon after he arrived in the county, and opened up a "strip bank." He worked at night uncovering the thick layers of coal, and hired a few men and teams to haul it to market. From week to week he added more teams and hired more men, and soon had built up quite a business. Later he decided to go into the mining business in earnest. He sunk a shaft near what is now known as Kellyville, and was soon a full-fledged operator.

"Mike" Kelly, as he is known far and wide, refused $250,000 for his holdings in Westville and Kellyville recently. He has six big mines, a big general store, and supplies a vast amount of coal to big Chicago firms each year.

Westville gave a big street fair this year, the first in the history of the town, and it was a very famous affair. One brewery alone shipped in and sold ten carloads of beer during the week of the fair. After the street fair was over the managers donated $50 to the New Christian church and Y. M. C. A.—that is being built on the main street.

The miners as a class are free with their money. They spend it like water when they have it, and on pay day night the town is wide open. About $70,000 is paid out every two weeks and the miners have a big time when the pay car comes in.

It is a town of small houses, but each house wears a big sign. Families are crowded into little cottages and take eight or ten boarders. Some rooms contain four and five beds.

Lithuanians predominate, and they are fond of show, dress and religious processions. They make much over weddings and funerals and are very faithful in attendance upon all church services. The men get from $20 to $45 every two weeks, and the money is spent freely. A good many miners live in Danville and go out each morning on what is called the "grounding" train. This consists of eleven box cars lited up to carry passengers.

Mr. Kelly is the whole thing in Westville. He owns all the mines, and the men work for him. He recently put up a brick school, which is called the Kelly Institute, and is interested in everything that builds up the town.

"Kelly's Patch," as it is called, is a small town of about 1000 people, and it was here that Kelly began operations there, and still it grew until Kellyville took shape and name, and shaft No. 1 was added to it in shafts Nos. 2, 3 and 4, and the village of Westville, a half mile south of the original "patch," touched lines with Kellyville, until today the two are identical on the map, with the postoffice at Westville serving the two places under one name.

REPORT OF BLACK

To the G. A. R. Makes Several Pension Recommendations.

Four Allied Conventions Are In Session at Boston.

Boston, Aug. 17.—The G. A. R. and the affiliated organizations went into convention today to transact the business arising as one of the most important features of the national encampment week. The meetings of the various bodies gave promise of unusual interest, because of the existing spirit, though friendly, contests for the different offices. The accredited delegates to the G. A. R. convention, numbering between 1200 and 1400, assembled in Symphony hall.

Four conventions were called to order today in the Tremont Temple building. Most important of these was the convention of the National Veterans' Relief corps. The other meetings were those of the Ladies of the G. A. R., the National Daughters of Veterans, and the Ladies' Aid society, auxiliary to the Sons of Veterans. Still another convention to be opened today was that of the National Order of the Sons of Veterans, at Boston university.

Prayer by the chaplain-in-chief, Winfield Scott, of Scottsdale, Ariz., opened the proceedings of the G. A. R. encampment, following which Commander-in-Chief John C. Black delivered his annual address.

On the subject of pensions, the commander-in-chief urged that further attempts be made to crystallize into statute law the provisions of the executive order promulgated by the commissioner of pensions in March of this year, which calls for the pensioning of veterans who have passed the age of 62, who shall be considered dead one, half in ability to perform manual labor and shall be entitled to a pension from $12 to $14 a month. He pointed out that the names of 47,323 new pensioners were dropped from the year while 49,195 were dropped from various causes. The entire cost of maintaining the pension system for the year was $14,942,607. In the year previous it was $14,552,550. The general fund decreased from 96,545 pensioners in 1903 to 94,702 in 1904. The number of civil war widows pensioners made a net gain of 650, reaching 23,900.

Commander Black urged departments to take necessary steps for the sub-organization of posts and outposts in order that scattered members might come together for fraternal greetings. Speaking of Memorial day, he recommended that overtures to the secretaries and all the people of the republic to help make the annual day the "grand American Sabbath of time."

A letter from President Roosevelt to Commander Blackman, of the Massachusetts department, was then read, which in part is as follows:

"It is no disrespect to any other body of our citizens to say that the men who fought for the Union in the great civil war have a claim upon all Americans such as no other men in the country can have. It is to you we owe the fact that we have a country at all and every American today is under a debt of personal obligation to you and your comrades, who, in their youth and early manhood, in the supreme hour of the nation's need, rallied to the call of Abraham Lincoln, and after four weary years saw the triumph of the armies commanded by Ulysses S. Grant.

As the representative of all our people, I bid you Godspeed and send you this expression of the honor and esteem in which the nation holds the members of the encampment and their comrades throughout the country."

Boston, Aug. 17.—The first session of the twenty-second national convention of the Women's Relief corps was called to order today by the national president, Mrs. Sarah D. Winsor, of Troy, N. Y.

The annual report of National Secretary Jenny S. Wright showed the total number of members in good standing to be 12,385; net gain in membership, 2340; total amount expended for relief for the year, $173,749.

According to the report of Sarah E. Phillips, national treasurer, the total receipts were $36,120; total expenditures, $23,762, leaving a balance of $12,358.

William Heskill, the negro who was arrested by Detective Irving yesterday afternoon, on the complaint of two young women who are spending the summer on Park Point, was arraigned this morning before Judge Windom on the charge of disorderly conduct.

The hearing was held behind closed doors in Judge Gearhart's court room in order to spare the complaining witnesses the embarrassment of testifying in open court.

Heskill, when placed upon the witness stand in his own defense, stated that he was a waiter on the steamer Feeless. He claimed that the car had started out Monday afternoon to see the city, having no work to do, and had wanted to reach Park Point. He claimed that he had boarded a car in front of the home of the girls, and in reaching for his pocketbook had drawn out the note which fluttered to the ground with some other papers. He stated that he had left the car to recover them, and got them all but the note, which, he asserted, was addressed to a friend of his in Chicago, who was just leaving for the South and wanted to know his address. He deated that he had made any improper proposals to the young ladies, or taken notice of them in any manner. The testimony of the two complaining witnesses, however, was sufficient to convict him, however, and Judge Windom sentenced him to pay a fine of $50 and costs or spend sixty days in the county jail.

"If they had caught you down there that night," said Judge Windom, "it would have gone hard with you. You have told a very plausible story in your own defense, but I am convinced of the truth of the evidence of the two girls, and have no doubt in my own mind but that you committed some act down there that was sufficient to frighten and horrify them."

John Cameron, a seventeen-year-old lad from Two Harbors, was arraigned in the municipal court this morning on the charge of grand larceny.

Cameron was arrested last evening in Superior and brought to Duluth on the charge of having stolen a new chainless bicycle belonging to J. E. Watt, of the Duluth & Iron Range railroad company's office force, from in front of the Lonsdale building yesterday afternoon. Mr. Watt had left the wheel standing on the side of the building on Third avenue, while he went to be shaved. When he came out the wheel was still there and he then stepped into the American Exchange bank on some business. When he returned the wheel was gone. The police were immediately notified.

Numerous complaints of a similar nature have been reported to the police during the past two or three weeks, and the description of the thief in each case has been the same. They have been waiting to secure enough evidence against Cameron, whom they believed to be the man, and as soon as the report of Mr. Watt's loss was received they suspected Cameron.

A telephone message from headquarters sent the nearest officer to the interstate bridge to intercept the man if he attempted to reach Superior, but he had probably passed before the officer reached there, as he was not seen by him. The Superior police were also notified, however, and Detective Dill caught the young man riding the wheel on Tower avenue a few minutes later.

The wheel had been stripped of its trimmings including a tool bag, a lamp and a bell, but they were found in his pocket, with the exception of the bell.

Cameron claimed that he had bought the wheel from another man. During the past two weeks several wheels have been stolen in Duluth and recovered in Superior pawnshops, and in each case the description of the thief tallied with that of Cameron. The police have never been able to secure a clear case against him, however, and did not feel warranted in arresting him until yesterday.

In the municipal court this morning he was given a preliminary examination, and was bound over to the grand jury by Judge Windom. His bail was fixed at $200.

Cameron was sent to Red Wing last winter for raising a check, but was released on parole.

GOLF CONTESTS ARE EXCITING

Some Excellent Playing That Port Arthur Fortress Has Fallen Reaches St. Petersburg.

Chicago, Aug. 17.—Competition in the first round of match play of the Western golf championship, at Exmoor Links, was not begun until late today, to permit the golfers who had failed in yesterday's 36-hole qualifying round to play for qualifying places in the north shore cup, a subordinate trophy. Weather conditions, however, again having made the greens ready for this morning's early tramping.

By nightfall the contestants will have been eliminated to the sixteen-mark. Some interesting matches are being played, and if the first round passes without important upsets, it seems likely that Former National Champion Louis N. James, the Glenview-Princeton golfer, who is again in high-class form, H. Chandler Egan, the gold medalist of yesterday, with the unprecedented total of 144 for the double round; Champion W. E. Egan, Fay Ingalls, Harvard champion; Warren K. Wood, Western inter-scholastic champion; Ralph Hoagland, suburban champion; J. S. Demoss, former Wisconsin champion; D. E. Sawyer, of Wheaton, may become great factors in tomorrow's match play.

James today has H. F. Cummins, the president of the home club, as well as the Western Golf association, for his rival. The veteran never classed himself with James as a golfer, and the latter seems likely to be a winner. Walter Egan is pitted against C. G. Spitzer, a formidable player of River Forest. Chandler Egan has the careful blackmailing plot. He previously said he was forced into the scheme by masked strangers, who held him up.

WERE ALL NAKED.

Survivors of Rurik Were Prepared to Swim.

Tokio, Aug. 17.—Six hundred and one of the crew of the Russian armored cruiser Rurik, sunk in the engagement Sunday with the Japanese squadron, commanded by Admiral Kamimura, have been landed at Sasebo. One man died and 177 of the survivors are wounded, many of them seriously and a number mortally. The number of officers rescued has not been determined, as all the survivors were naked when captured, having stripped off their clothing before the cruiser sank. Thus it is impossible to distinguish the officers from the other men as the former are concealing their rank.

A supplementary report of Admiral Togo's casualties on Aug. 10, increases the total of killed and wounded to 225.

JAPAN'S VIEWS

On Neutral Ports Received at Washington Embassy.

Washington, Aug. 17.—Mr. Takahira, the Japanese minister, today received a long communication from his home government setting forth its views as to the right of Russian ships to take refuge in Chinese ports. It is believed to be identical with other notes submitted to the European chancelleries and is evidently an indication of the Japanese purpose to make a defense in advance of drastic action which it purposes to take regarding these Russian ships. The officials here freely admit that the problem presented in the Japanese demand that Russian ships shall not be harbored by China is a most intricate and perplexing one and there are precedents on all sides of the case. As late as the Sino-Japanese war the American scouts and gunboats made frequent use of neutral ports in the West Indies, notably Danish and British ports to communicate by cable with the home government and with sections of the American fleet, yet there was no charge that neutrality had been violated.

THE DAILY RUMOR

That Port Arthur Fortress Has Fallen Reaches St. Petersburg.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 17.—A rumor is again in circulation here that Port Arthur has fallen, but the source is not traceable and it seems to have no more foundation than the previous rumors to the same effect.

As called to the Associated Press from Tokyo today, the answer of the commander of Port Arthur to the Japanese demand for the surrender of the fortress is only expected today. Consequently it is not possible that the news of the fall of Port Arthur can have reached St. Petersburg.

WILL MODIFY RULING.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 17.—The American and British representations relative to foodstuffs have been received without resentment by the Russian authorities and the Associated Press learns that they are being considered. The probabilities are that some modifications will be made in meeting the demands of the two governments.

SUPERIOR OFFICERS LOST.

Tokio, Aug. 17.—The captain and all the superior officers of the Russian cruiser Rurik, which was sunk by Admiral Kamimura, Aug. 14, were lost. Twenty-three of her officers were saved. Forty-four of the wounded men from the Rurik have been taken to the naval hospital at Sasebo.

CIVILIANS JOIN RANKS.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 17.—A semi-official dispatch from Mukden, dated today, says: Ninety-two civilians with their families have arrived here from Port Arthur. The spirit of the garrison is wonderful. Civilians are joining in the ranks with the soldiers.

DINNER OF BEANS

Visiting Congressmen To Get One of Good Old Kind.

Will Be Tendered at Bena En Route to Winnebeshish Dam.

A bean dinner at Bena, Minn., is likely to be one of the novelties introduced into the trip of the congressional rivers and harbors committee, the members of which will arrive in Duluth next Tuesday evening on the steamship North West to visit several northwestern points, where appropriations of government funds have been asked for.

The request that such a dinner be arranged for was forwarded from Congressman Stevens to Secretary Egan of the Commercial club, whose guests the congressional visitors will be while here in Duluth. Secretary Egan is now corresponding with Bena parties with the prospect that the pork and beans repast for the distinguished visitors will be an assured thing.

The committee is a very important one and, as it has, practically the spending of about $65,000,000 per year on river and harbor improvement the Duluth interests will do everything in their power to show why the local harbor should get some more funds. Wednesday morning the congressional party, which is comprised of thirteen members, will be taken around the harbor on the government steam launch, which is here at the disposal of Captain Charles L. Potter, government engineer for the Lake Superior district. On their return, if the weather is fair it is planned that the Commercial club will give the congressmen a boulevard drive, getting back to the club for lunch at noon.

At 1 o'clock in the afternoon a special train will probably convey the visitors to Grand Rapids, Minn., where they will inspect the Pokegama dam and its accessories, when the trip will be resumed to Bena. A drive of nine miles will be made from that point across the county to the Winnebeshish dam.

Afterward the congressional committee will go to St. Paul, from which point it must leave for a trip down the Mississippi river not later than Friday morning.

Besides the congressmen there will be their wives, children and several stenographers so that the whole party will very likely number in the neighborhood of 25 persons.

RODIE IN CHARGE

Of the Democratic Bureau of Organization.

Esopms, N. Y., Aug. 17.—A good deal of interest was exhibited here today in the selection of William S. Rodie to have charge of the newly created bureau of organization in connection with the Democratic state committee. Mr. Rodie has not been an active political leader, but he is noted for his talent for organization and detail.

Edward W. Shephard, of Brooklyn, who ran for mayor of greater New York against Seth Low in 1901 and whose name has been in connection with the Democratic nomination for governor, arrived from Lake George today and took luncheon at Rosemount. Several other important visitors were expected today.

FLOHISTS' BOWLING CONTESTS.

St. Louis, Aug. 17.—Today's session of the Society of American Florists and Ornamental Horticulturists convention was devoted to the bowling contests for both men and women, which form a unique feature of each annual gathering. In addition to the tournament, other amusement features were provided. Tomorrow the florists will resume their business sessions, officers being elected at 1 o'clock morning session.

Proclamation!

In view of the fact that our county fair, under capable management, is fast growing in importance and interest each year, it has been thought best by the management and a number of the business men to have what may be called a Duluth day, and the management has designated Thursday, August 18th, as such a day.

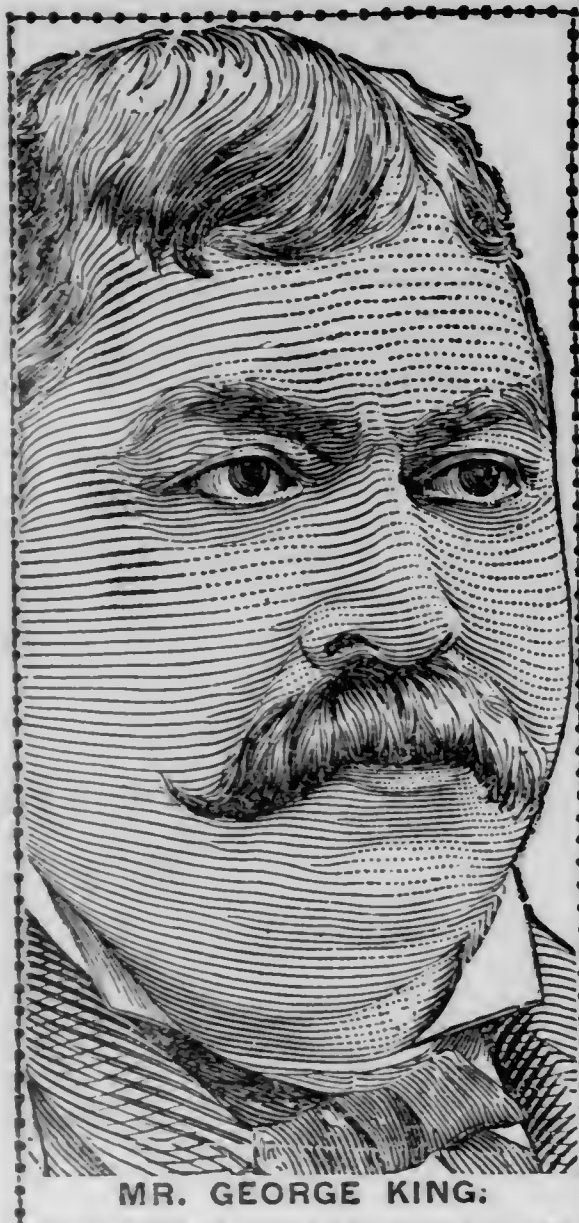

A number of the large retail firms have expressed their willingness to close their stores Thursday afternoon and give everybody a chance to attend the fair. I therefore suggest and urge that as many others as possible do likewise.

The management has promised to have an especially interesting program for that afternoon, and the liberal patronage of the public would encourage them in developing our county fair into something more than the ordinary, so that it may be attractive to the visitor and a source of pride to the city and county.

CATARRH DESTROYS THE KIDNEYS

Was Miserable—Was Threatened With Bright's Disease—Pe-ru-na Cured Him.

Many Persons Have Backache and Kidney Trouble and Don't Know It.

Mr. George King, Deputy Sheriff of Rensselaer Co., N. Y., for years was a well-known merchant of Troy. In a letter from No. 45 King St., Troy, N. Y., he writes:

"Peruna cured me from what the doctors were afraid would turn into Bright's Disease, and after you have gone through the suffering that I have with catarrh of the bladder and kidney trouble, and have been cured, you are pretty apt to remember the medicine that did the work."

"Peruna is a blessing to a sick man. Eight bottles made me a well man and worth more than a thousand dollars to me. I cannot speak too highly of it. It is now four years since I was troubled, and I have enjoyed perfect health since. Every spring and fall I take a bottle of it and it keeps me well. I freely recommend Peruna."—George King.

More people suffer from kidney trouble than any other ailment. Backache is generally the first symptom of diseased kidneys. Half of all cases of kidney trouble are due to catarrh of the kidneys. At first appearance of such symptoms Peruna should be taken. It strikes the root of the disease. It relieves the catarrhal kidneys of the stagnant blood, excreting the serum from the blood. Peruna stimulates the kidneys to excrete from the blood the accumulated poison, and thus prevent the grave results which are sure to follow if poisons are allowed to remain. Peruna cures kidney disease in its early stages, and wherever located. Peruna stands before the nation as a thoroughly tested, accurately scientific internal remedy for catarrh. There are practically no medicinal poisons in the field.

DANGEROUS ASSAULT

Matt Hikkala Accused of Cutting Oscar Ranta at Tower.

Deputy Sheriff Levy came back from Tower last evening bringing with him Matt Hikkala, a Finlander, who is bound over to the grand jury. Hikkala is charged with assault with a dangerous weapon with intent to do great bodily harm upon the person of one Oscar Ranta.

It is alleged that Hikkala attacked Ranta with a knife and cut him four or five times in the breast, seriously injuring him. The crime took place on July 25. Hikkala had just returned from a party in the evening and was in a saloon in the city when he met Ranta. Upon leaving the saloon he waited for Ranta, who was with a friend, and when he reached the place where Hikkala was, the cutting affair took place.

When brought before the municipal court at Tower Hikkala admitted cutting Ranta, but could give no excuse for doing so except that he was drunk.

HAD CLOSE CALL

Joseph G. Williams and Young Woman Narrowly Escape Drowning.

Wading In Bay and Walked Into Hole—Nearly Drowned.

Wading out in the bay to a depression caused by dredging, Joseph G. Williams, of the News Tribune composing department and a young woman, who was visiting at his home on Park Point, came near drowning shortly after 7 o'clock last evening.

A probable tragedy was averted only by the presence of mind and prompt action of Charles E. Wachtel, secretary to President House, of the Iron Range road, A. W. Loud, local sales manager for the Tower Lumber company, and A. B. Loud, federal court stenographer. Mr. Wachtel, in his boat, and the Loud brothers in the water, without time to even throw off their coats, reached Mr. Williams and the young lady in the nick of time.

The young people had been wading in the bay near Thirty-fifth street, in the view of Mrs. Williams and other friends on the dock, and forgot that they were in proximity to a spot where a recent tragedy had occurred. A few months ago to take sand from the bottom of the bay and fill in some of its property back of a dock.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Loud and the former's brother were spending the evening at the Wachtel cottage. Mr. Wachtel having taken Mrs. Loud out for a boat ride, while the others stood on the dock.

Mr. Wachtel was the first to observe that Mr. Williams and the young lady were wading near a dangerous spot and, reaching the boat in their direction, he began pulling. Before he had gone far, a scream from Mrs. Loud, who witnessed the first disappearance of the young people, warned him that what he feared had taken place.

The Messrs. Loud on the dock heard the scream and, without waiting to disrobe, sprang into the bay and made all the speed they could toward the drowning pair.

Mr. Wachtel ran his boat up between Mr. Williams and the young lady about the time A. W. Loud arrived on the scene, and seized Mr. Williams as he was going under for the third time, while Mr. Loud dived after the young lady, she having gone down for apparently the last time.

With the help of his brother, Mr. Loud and Mr. Wachtel finally succeeded in getting both Mr. Williams and the young lady into the boat, and they were taken to the Williams cottage, where they were given attention by relatives and friends.

Mrs. Williams, who witnessed the whole affair from the dock, was greatly relieved to find that the young people were safe. WEST DULUTH

Mrs. William Gritzmaker, of 608 North Fifty-seventh avenue west, in destitute circumstances, with four small children to care for, and nearly crazed over the mysterious disappearance of her husband, who, over two weeks ago, left for Dakota in search of employment, appealed to A. P. Cook, superintendent of county poor, for aid yesterday. The relief asked for was granted, and the needy family was given sufficient money to tide them over present difficulties. There will be no further action in the case.

The woman fears that her husband, on his way to Dakota, met with some fatal accident, and is endeavoring to locate him over his misfortunes, committed suicide. Until recently the man was employed at the Minnesota ore docks. Since losing his position there a short time ago he has been out of employment, although he has secured a position for work so that he might earn the wherewithal to keep starvation from the door. He is a native of Minnesota, and a resident of West Duluth.

With a few dollars, five or six, in his pocket, he departed for Dakota, promising faithfully to write his wife and children. He had no money with him, and with but few provisions in the house. She confidently expected to see him again in a few days, but when this did not come, and no word came to the foreman, she began to worry about him.

Finally, driven almost frantic as a result of worrying over the possible fate of her husband, and over the destitute circumstances of herself and children, she called on the county for aid. To make matters worse she owes rent for the upstairs rooms which she occupies, and is said to threaten to make her leave the premises unless the money is paid at once.

The furniture of the family as payment for the rent.

IMPROVE COAL DOCK.

Boston Company to Make Large Extension.

Extensive improvements are to be made at the Boston coal dock, at the foot of Thirty-seventh avenue west. The contracts for a $300,000 extension of the dock have been let, and work will be started as soon as the necessary permits are procured.

Facilities for handling coal at the dock have grown inadequate recently, and the present structure is said to be unsafe. The present structure is 500 feet long and 350 feet wide. It is proposed to extend the dock to a length of 1,500 feet, making the full size of the completed structure 2,500 feet long by 350 feet wide. The extension will be 1,000 feet long and 350 feet wide. The contract price being over $100,000.

The contract for the necessary dredging has been let to the Superior Contracting and Dredging company. It calls for the removal of from 50,000 to 60,000 yards of earth. The work is entirely completed at the opening of navigation next spring.

SEES LITTLE DAMAGE.

John Winness, who returned from North Dakota, where he went to purchase a carload of beef cattle for the local market. He traveled over a large portion of the state and everywhere he went he found the wheat and other crops very promising. The rust blight has not been very severe, and if the frost does not come the farmers expect more than an average crop of wheat.

FOREST FIRE

In Western Silesia Does Great Damage.

Berlin, Aug. 17.—A spark from a locomotive falling on dry leaves set a forest on fire in Western Silesia and the flames spread to the parched country, destroying a timber district of nearly 150 square acres belonging chiefly to Duke Ernest Guenther, of Schleswig-Holstein, brother of the emperor, and to Count Von Dohna-Kotze.

The village of Neuvillers, on the duke's estate, was burned in ten minutes. The forest was well stocked with deer, which mostly perished. Large detachments of troops called out from the neighboring garrisons succeeded in preventing the fire from spreading any further.

PAVEMENT IS FINISHED

East Superior Street Work Ready For Final Inspection.

The work on the new East Superior street pavement is practically completed, and about all that remains to be done is to clear away the rubbish and the contractor's tools.

Contractor McConnell will probably submit his final estimate for the work at the council meeting next Monday evening.

"The work is about as fine a piece of macadam paving as we have in the city," said Assessor Charles E. Gilley, this morning, in speaking of the work.

"More than the ordinary amount of tar was put in it, and it is in all respects a first-class job."

The work has been subjected to a rigid inspection by the property owners along the street, and there have been no complaints of the quality of the work. It is understood that Contractor McConnell made excellent efforts on the job, in order to use this strip of pavement as a sample in bidding for future contracts in outside towns and cities.

ONLY CHICKEN HAWK.

Thomas Thut's "Eagle" a Very Ordinary Bird.

The "eagle" claimed to have been caught by Thomas Thut, the painter, on East Superior street, has turned out to be nothing but a chicken hawk. The bird became entangled in a wire fence in the rear of Mr. Thut's place Monday afternoon, and Mr. Thut captured it. He was displaying it to his friends as a young eagle, when some amateur naturalist disillusioned him by stating that the bird was only a stray chicken hawk.

SCHEME TO RAISE LAKES

Old Project at Brainerd Revived on a Smaller Scale.

Brainerd, Minn., Aug. 17.—Interest has been revived in a project which found root in this vicinity some ten years ago, and which had to do with raising the waters in Gull and other lakes in this vicinity.

The water in all the lakes is low and the scheme is to have congress do something to keep the lakes up so that they will be navigable from one to another. The same project which came before congress years ago is being seriously considered, only on a smaller scale.

About ten years ago two surveys were taken, one being for a 5-foot raise and the other for an 8-foot, which would affect the following bodies of water: Gull, Round, Long, Gladstone, Upper Gull, Wilson, Upper Fish Trap, Lower Fish Trap, Edney, Gilpatrick and Sylvan lakes.

The idea in the first place was to cut a canal from the Crow Wing river to Sylvan lake and then build a dam across the Crow Wing, thus turning the water from the Crow Wing into the canal for the purpose of raising the lakes.

The projectors secured an appropriation from congress of $30,000, and this was the beginning of a gigantic scheme to put in a complete system of dunes and canals, so that the water in the lakes and rivers could be controlled and manipulated to the convenience and profit of the lumbermen.

The total cost at that time was figured out at $1,500,000. Persons along the proposed route became scared and a signed protest was sent to congress.

E. Lynch, of St. Paul, has some property in the vicinity of Gull lake and has interested Congressman Stevens, and it is expected something will be done at the coming session of congress.

It is understood that the scheme is also promoted by the fact that many undesirable have settled on the land which was condemned years ago. Not all of these settlers are in this category, but there is a gang which, it is understood, rules with a high hand. They do not till the soil, but fish and hunt to suit their own convenience in many instances defying the law.

BANISHED FAVORITE

Asserts the Czar Is an English Devotee.

Berlin, Aug. 17.—Many interesting details of the daily life of the czar are becoming known through the talking propensities of a fair lady who for a long time stood high in court favor at St. Petersburg, but who was recently "requested" to take up her residence in some other clime.

According to this fair one, the czar rises at 6 o'clock and breakfasts after the purely English fashion on bacon and eggs, buttered toast, tea and marmalade, prepared by an English cook. The czar favors everything English, including the British style of living and bringing up children.

At 7 o'clock he takes up the duties of the day, some days examining as many as 500 documents. At midday an English luncheon is served, and only English is spoken at this meal, so that the servants are not understood when it is discussed.

The czar's favorite game is the Russian "wint," at which his time is said to waste large sums of money. The evenings are often spent by the czar reading the English novel or the London Times.

MEN ARE IN DEMAND

Employment Agents Have Difficulty In Keeping Orders Filled.

Harvest Fields, Railroad and Logging Work Calling Them.

"Never before this season have we been crowded for men as at the present time," said G. S. Richards, of the National Employment company, today.

"The demand for men for all kinds of work has increased tremendously during the past few weeks, and it is about all the local offices can do to keep their heads above the orders. Men are in demand for everything from working in logging camps to railroad work and the harvest fields. It would be difficult to say just where the demand is the greatest for all the orders seem to denote emergencies.

"The demand for men westward to the wheat country continues steadily, but the reports about the crops have scared some, and they prefer to take jobs nearer home. We are not having much trouble to fill the orders at the present time.

"Wages for the woods are running about $3.00 per month and timberers are getting from $2.50 to $3.00 per day, but these are mostly from districts where help seems to be scarce.

"The range railroad contractors are calling for men right along at $1.00 per day. Large number of men have been sent out in the past few weeks to the Hines immigration on a ferry boat in Wisconsin, and to the Rust-Owen lumber company's camps at Drummond, Wis. The latter company have been taking men also for mill and yard work.

"We are not having much trouble to fill the orders at the present time. A man should beg for work at this time of the year."

HAPPENINGS IN DAKOTAS

South Dakota Woman Disappears After Quarrel With Husband.

SOUTH DAKOTA. Clear Lake—There is much excitement in this county regarding the disappearance of Mrs. Frank Heebner, of Hildwood township. Heebner went to Est on Aug. 6, with his hired man, and he and his wife quarreled and came to blows, but were finally separated by the hired man who shortly afterwards retired for the night. Since that time Mrs. Heebner has not been seen by anyone. Relatives assert she has been murdered, and yesterday the premises were searched, and the creek dredged for a distance of three miles, but no trace of her body was recovered. Heebner admits the row, but says that his wife stole away and hid in the granary and the hired man saw her going through a cornfield, and he thought to a neighbor. The excitement is increasing every day.

TOLD A TALE OF ROBBERY

To Hasten Arrival of Funds and Came to Grief.

Denver, Colo., Aug. 17.—Having exhausted his ready supply of cash, R. T. Blakeslee, nephew of J. R. Blakeslee, a millionaire of Cleveland, O., decided to play a little game Monday night, but he came to grief yesterday at the hands of Capt. Connor and Detectives Arnett and White.

The millionaire's nephew is 17 years of age and came to Denver a few days ago. He has a penchant for automobile driving, and much of his money he has been spending in the purchase of a new car. He is now in the custody of the police.

Late Monday night he appeared at police headquarters and told a long story of how he had been stopped in Berkeley by two masked highwaymen and robbed of all his money, $150. He was careful to give an accurate description of the clothing and general appearance of the crooks. He was told to point out the exact spot where the robbers approached him. This he did yesterday morning to Detectives White and Arnett. A few yards distant from where the robbery was alleged to have taken place is a house. The detectives interviewed the occupants and discovered that a husband and wife had sat upon the porch from 9 until 11 o'clock. They said that they surely would have witnessed a hold-up had it occurred.

Then it was shown that nearly 100 people were within a very short distance of the spot pointed out by young Blakeslee at the time he says he was framed by the crooks. He was told that the crooks were not there. Blakeslee admitted finally that he was telling an untruth. He said he was out of money and suddenly had conceived the idea of claiming that he had been robbed, in order that his relatives might take pity on him and hasten his remittance.

REMARKABLE CASE Of Tetanus Is Reported From Illinois.

Mattoon, Ill., Aug. 17.—Philip Graves, a fireman on the Peoria division of the Illinois Central, died in this city recently, sixty hours after he sustained a fractured leg, his death being due to acute tetanus. The case attracted the attention of the medical fraternity of this city and is being widely discussed because of its unusual and remarkable features.

Mrs. Graves, in stepping on to his engine at Bethany, in some way fell and fractured the two bones of his left leg just above the ankle. It was only an ordinary fracture, and a Bethany physician gave it immediate attention. He was brought to his home in this city the next day.

The Illinois Central called in the injured man being in more pain than is usual with such cases. A Bethany physician gave him a grain and a quarter of morphine was administered between 7 p. m. and 1 a. m. the next morning, but the drug had no effect. No chloroform or morphine had been administered previously to the patient. The next morning his injured leg was taken out of the fracture box in which it had

NOT MUCH DOING

Land Business Quiet In the Duluth District This Month.

Great Land Lotteries to the West Attracting Land Seekers.

This is a rather quiet month at the Duluth United States land office. There is enough routine work to keep the clerks busy, but no features out of the ordinary bob up to relieve the monotony or add to the labors of the working force. There is an occasional land contest, but this comes in the routine, and even these are of less importance, no tracts of very great worth being involved.

The best of the available agricultural and timber land in the Duluth district has been taken up. There yet remains some fairly choice selections scattered over the district, however, which are open to homestead entry, besides a large area of unsurveyed and reservation lands, which will probably be opened to settlement at some time in the future. Surveyors are now working on one or two townships, getting them ready for settlement, and they will probably have the land ready for opening before the close of the year. The great land lotteries recently conducted by the government in the states to the west of Minnesota have temporarily diverted the attention of the land-seeking public from this state to the others.

Four records at the local land office show that there is still a total of over 1,542,000 acres surveyed and unsurveyed within the Duluth district, not taken up by filings or reservations, and 440,000 acres in Indian forest and other reserves which may some time be opened for entry, making a total of more than 2,000,000 acres, not including the acreage sought to be transferred to the Cass Lake office within the Duluth district, which has not been filed upon.

There are six counties, Aitkin, Carlton, Cook, Itasca, Lake and St. Louis in the district. Of these St. Louis has the largest area, with 1,000,000 acres of unsurveyed lands, with 400,000 acres, and also the largest area of appropriated land, aggregating 3,000,000 acres. This county has only 45,000 acres reserved, while Lake has 235,000 and Cook 18,000 acres reserved.

From these figures it will be seen that there remains a possible chance for new families to locate their homes on unclaimed government land in St. Louis county, each family taking a 160-acre tract, or for about 10,000 families to make their homes on unclaimed government land in the whole district, each family to take the regulation 160-acre tract.

ABOUT BABY ELEPHANTS

Only Three Known to Have Been Born In Captivity.

A careful search among all existing records discloses the surprising fact that but three elephants were ever born in captivity, and a still more surprising truth remains, that the entire three first saw the light of day under the canvas pavilion of the circus. The first of these was born in the city of Philadelphia in 1831. The second, a little one, was born in the city of New York in 1850. The third, a little one, was born in the city of New York in 1850. Eczema

How it reddens the skin, itches, oozes, and scabs. Some people call it itchy, milk crust or salt rheum. The suffering from it is sometimes intense, local applications are resorted to, but cannot cure. It proceeds from heat, to that effect had been acquired, and persists until these have been removed.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

positively removes them, has radically and permanently cured the worst cases, and is without an equal for all cutaneous eruptions.

FIGHT FOR HIS LIFE

Is Being Made By Boss Murphy In New York.

Feud With McCarren of Brooklyn Endangers Democratic Success.

FROM THE HERALD WASHINGTON BUREAU.

Washington, Aug. 17.—(Special to The Herald).—"This talk about New York being a Democratic state in the coming election," said a well known Washington correspondent of a New York paper with Democratic leanings, "is all in your eye. The wish is father to the thought. I have just come from New York city and after two weeks spent among the Democratic leaders at the Hoffman house I want to tell you that the Democrats have no chance in New York. The feud between Boss Murphy, of Tammany, and McCarren, of Brooklyn, is going to grow in intensity rather than die out as the campaign goes on. Charles F. Murphy, the grand sachem of Tammany, is fighting for his life and he does not propose to see his power usurped by another. Strange as it may seem the light between these two factions of New York Democracy is a fight between kings and queens, for they are the men of the counties now embraced in greater New York.

"I want to say," continued the Democratic newspaper man, "that Murphy don't care a rap about who is president just so long as Tammany controls Greater New York through a Democratic mayor. What do the street leaders care who the chief magistrate is just so long as Tammany controls the city. I tell you that Murphy will not submit to McCarren's dictation and one of the most desperate fights in the history of Tammany is on right this minute for it is Mr. Murphy's intention to drive McCarren out of the political life of Gotham, if such a thing can be done.

Democratic politics in New York is an anomaly. In conjunction with Pat McCarren, of Brooklyn, David B. Hill has been able to control the politics of the state for a number of years and yet the city which is expected to give a majority for the Democratic ticket to offset up-state Republican majorities, has not had a Republican mayor for years. McCarren has always been in a position to hold the balance of power between the Hill forces on the one side and the Tammany wing on the other and as McCarren is not in politics for the money but he has entered into deals with anybody to beat Tammany and in consequence the anti-Tammany wing of the party has been generally successful. Not that he loves Roosevelt less, but that he loves Odell more, and you can bet your life that if Murphy can't beat McCarren he will back him in the coming election."

The government is getting mighty tired of putting up thousands of dollars annually for telephone service throughout the country and a scheme has been started to have the government own its own telephone plant. At a recent meeting of the cabinet, Secretary Morton, of the navy department, who is probably the most practical officer in the present official line of the United States, has been talking about making an investigation as to the advisability of the government erecting its own telephone system connecting all of the cabinet officers and the rest of the federal government. It has been suggested that the project, if carried through, may ultimately extend the proposed service to the citizens of the district. The agitation now going on throughout the country as to the advisability of cities controlling public utilities has unquestionably made a deep impression upon some of the cabinet officers. It is notorious that the service furnished by the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone company is abominable. In fact, there is nothing like it in any city, so far as can be ascertained, the size of Washington in the country. Thousands of complaints are lodged every day with the officers of the company protesting against the inadequate service. But the company's feeling that it has a monopoly of the streets of Washington and that it could defeat any legislation giving a rival company the right to open up the streets and lay down conduits, goes on care free without any thought whatsoever as to what may be in store for it.

The talk of a government telephone plant grows out of the proposed new schedule of rates submitted by the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone company for the coming year. Some of the rates of proportion to the service. The controller of the city has expressed an opinion holding that the act of congress of April 27 last relating to telephone rates applies only to individuals and it is alleged that the telephone company following this decision prepared to raise its rates to the government, whence the talk of a government system. Thousands of dollars are expended every year by the government for telephone service. The company owns many miles of wires that would have to be removed in the event of the scheme of a government plant becoming effective. Congress is in an angry mood over the way the telephone company has been treating the people of the district, their refusal to make charges the same as in other cities for both limited and unlimited phones being largely responsible for the suggestion of a governmental plant. Should Secretary Morton report favorably upon the project it is believed that congress would readily appropriate the necessary funds to install lines connecting all of the departments of the government.

One of the most picturesque figures in the hotel world is dead, T. E. Roosevelt, of the Arlington hotel, this city. For nearly thirty-five years Mr. Roosevelt has been connected with that famous hostelry, from which has come to its inauguration every president but two in half a century. It has been the abiding place of prince and potentate, statesman and politician, and the hobnobbing place for the world's culture and refinement. The hotel was a strikingly handsome man, but pompous to a degree. He came to Washington from Albany, New York, immediately after the close of the Civil war to enter upon the management of the Arlington. It is related that the late W. W. Corcoran was not greatly impressed with Roosevelt and every morning Mr. Corcoran would appear in the lobby of the hotel for the daily rent. That continued for a number of years. Before coming to Washington Roosevelt and his father were managers of the old Delaware House at the New York canal and was there he began to know the men who afterwards became a power in the councils of the nation. Roosevelt was probably the only man who ever took a complete fall out of Roosevelt. Shortly after Conkling's election to the senate, Roosevelt all swelled up with pride announced in his most pompous tone that Conkling would make the Arlington his Washington home. That he had known Conkling for years and that Conkling called him Theodore and he called Conkling Conkling. Eventually the lordly Conkling put in an appearance. There was hustling to and fro about the lobby when the imperious senator from New York placed his hand bag on the clerk's desk. Conkling had not yet affixed his name to the register when Roosevelt rushed out from his room behind the counter and said in the most enthusiastic way, "Roosevelt, my dear boy, I am delighted to see you. It is a great pleasure to see you as one of the great men of the nation marching up to the capital of the United States."

Conkling pulled himself up to his most superb height and then, with a withering scorn, he said to Roosevelt, "I am a senator to you, sir." Then he motioned to the ladies to take up his baggage and he went over to Wornley's, never setting foot inside the Arlington from that day.

Speaking of Conkling the death of Senator George Graham Vest recalls the fact that Vest never permitted Senator Conkling to come voluntarily within the range of his vision. The two men never spoke but once to each other while they were in the senate. The fact is explained by the impious temper of Conkling and the sturdy independence of Vest. Soon after the Missouri senator came to Washington he in company with three or four new senators was introduced to Conkling at the capitol. Among the number was a jovial, choleric senator from the southwest somewhat advanced in years. The day after they met Conkling, the senator sat in the senate lobby when the door opened and in strode Senator Conkling. As he entered the Southwest senator rose and extending his hand said: "Good morning, Senator Conkling. How are you?"

Senator Conkling slightly nodded his head, pressed his thin bloodless lips tightly together and passed the senator by without further recognition. Senator Vest observed Conkling's manner and keenly resented it. From that day on, the senator from New York and the senator from Missouri never spoke to each other except as "the senator from New York." He took the position that he could not permit himself to be exposed to the rebuff he had seen administered by Conkling to his friend from the Southwest.

LARGE CROWD ON THE OPENING DAY

County Fair Largely Attended and Many Attractions Please.

Fine Races Interest Lovers of Horseflesh—Guideless Wonder.

The first day of the county fair was a complete success. By noon yesterday all of the exhibits were in place and shortly after this time the crowds began to flock to the grounds. The agricultural exhibits were excellent, and to one who has not seen what this county can produce in the way of farm and garden products, a complete surprise.

Many exclamations of wonder were heard around the fruit display. Most people have an idea that it is impossible to raise fruit to any extent in this vicinity, but if they will take a look at the display at the fair they will quickly change their opinions. The feature of the afternoon was the horse races, which opened very auspiciously. The weather was all that could be desired and the track was in the finest condition. One very pleasant feature was the large number of ladies in the grand stand, and they all seemed to take as much interest in the races as did the men.

Between heats the Third Regiment band entertained the spectators with a number of selections. They were assisted in the entertaining by the Moore, two trapeze performers, who gave several very entertaining exhibitions of their work. These two were formerly with Ringling Bros. for a number of years and their work was of the highest order.

Three races were pulled off yesterday, the 2:18 trot or pace, the 2:45 trot or pace and the half-mile running race. All of these races were good and furnished some close finishes, but after the first heat in each race there was very little doubt as to the result of the other heats.

The first race was the 2:18 pace or trot, which furnished some very good sport to the crowd. There were six starters in the first heat, Alice, Col. Williams, Tony Boy, Dan E. Richard S and Novice, but Col. Williams went lame and was drawn after the first, while Richard S was distanced. The race was won by Tony Boy, in straight heats, with Dan E second every time. The first heat was the fastest and the finish was close, Dan E making a good bid for the money as the bunch came down the stretch. The time for this heat was 2:38.4. The other heats were a little slower, but in every case the finish was close enough to be interesting.

Summary:
Tony Boy 1 1 1
Dan E 2 2 2
Time: 2:18.4, 2:24.4, 2:31.4.

The 2:45 trot or pace was next. This started out with six starters, but by the time the last heat was run there were only three left. The original starters in this race were Peggy G., Ange S., May Willow, Lady Option, Alexander C. and Jim Sheldon. This also went in straight heats, Lady Option pulling down first money in rather easy style, second money going to Jim Sheldon and third to Ange S.

Summary:
Lady Option 1 1 1
Jim Sheldon 2 2 2
Ange S. 3 3 3
Time: 2:35.4, 2:40.4.

The last race was the half mile running race, two heats out of three. There were three starters in this, Baby Chesty, Sundelmyer and Dora Blackburn, but it was evident after the start of the first heat that the race lay between Sundelmyer and Dora Blackburn. The sorrel mare took two straight heats, but was pushed back at the finish of the last one, while in both Baby Chesty was far in the rear.

Summary:
Dora Blackburn 1 1 1
Sundelmyer 2 2 2
Baby Chesty 3 3 3
Time: 5:12, 5:1.

One of the features of the afternoon was the lone pacer, Our Boy, who made two trips around the track between heats of the other races. The "guideless wonder" was accompanied by a runner, but the mate was not fast enough, so the pacer did not make the time he is capable of. He made the two half miles in 1:22.4 and 1:22. The feature of this afternoon was the St. Louis county trot or pace, for which a purse of $400 is being offered. This is of special interest because all the horses entered must be owned in, and be in this county, and be horse without a record. The entries for this are as follows:

Black Babe, bay gelding, pacer, John McKay.
Ornella, bay mare, pacer, R. P. Dowse.
Dick, bay gelding, pacer, J. W. Glazier.
Alexander C. A. A. Mendenhall.
Black Chief, black gelding, trotter, G. Gambel and W. Randall.
In addition to this race there is a 2:30 pace or trot and a half mile running race. The entries for the 2:30 race are:
Kitty Roan, sorrel mare, Mike Maxwell.
Marguerite, sorrel mare, pacer, W.

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

COMING ATTRACTIONS.
LYCEUM—Thursday, Otis B. Thayer in "Sweet Clover."

"Sweet Clover" will be presented. It is full of heart interest, has pleasing comedy and strong dramatic scenes. Otis B. Thayer, as the old farmer, Jerome Holcomb, makes a very picturesque figure, and his rendition of the role is a powerful and clear cut impersonation, while Gertrude Bondell as Lois, is a splendid foil to him.

"IN OLD KENTUCKY."
Friday and Saturday, the Lyceum will serve up an attraction, "In Old Kentucky." This piece has attained its twelfth season of continuous prosperity in this country, and bids fair to go on forever. The play going public, season after season, look forward to the coming of "In Old Kentucky," with the same feeling of elation that they experience at the annual return of the circus. Last season the Lyceum company played a grand party than at any time since its original production. It is one of the landmarks in theatrical history.

Insurance Officials.
The steamer North West arrived from Duluth at 8 o'clock last evening with 26 passengers. The outgoing list was about as large.

Prominent among the passengers arriving in Duluth was a party of the head office of the Hartford, for which O. C. Hartman and Co. are the local agents. They were S. C. Farnham, president, J. B. Langger, vice president, J. L. Way, second vice president and Mr. Preston, general manager of agencies. The insurance men were on their way to St. Paul to attend the annual meeting of the company. They were accompanied in Duluth by O. C. Hartman and C. J. O'Donnell.

VOTER'S PARTY AFFILIATIONS

Assistant Attorney General Ewert Interprets Primary Law.

St. Paul, Aug. 17.—The state legal department takes the view that the state and congressional ticket is more representative of party principles than a county or city ticket.

The state ticket, Assistant Attorney General Ewert declares, in a primary election opinion just handed down, is the only one upon which a conclusion can be based when a voter's party affiliations are in doubt.

The attorney general's office is being deluged with requests for an interpretation of the primary law, chiefly for advice on the section relating to party affiliations.

Many voters contend that their judgment alone should prevail in the selection of ballots, and, for their guidance, the parties and party affiliations since the coming primaries, Mr. Ewert has laid down some rules, with an interpretation of the law, which he believes will be of help to voters.

"If a voter," says Mr. Ewert, "who is otherwise duly qualified, has changed his party affiliation since the last general election, he is not entitled to receive a ballot at the last general election. It is sufficient if he generally supported his candidates. The question as to whether a voter generally supported the candidates of the political party with which he claims to be affiliated should be determined by his own declarations as to his general support of the principles advocated by that party at the last general election."

"Party affiliation should not be determined solely by the number of candidates of each party for which the voter cast his ballot at the last general election, but rather by the support given to those candidates whose candidacy was based upon party principles. To arbitrarily set off a vote for a candidate of one political party on a county ticket against a vote for a candidate of another political party on a state, congressional or national ticket would be manifestly unjust, and would not be in harmony with the spirit of the law."

"A voter who, at the last general election, generally supported the candidates of the state and congressional ticket of that party which he declares himself to be affiliated, and whose candidates he proposes to support at the coming election, is entitled to receive a ballot of that party at the September primary. A voter who cast his ballot for the Republican candidate for governor at the last general election and voted the Democratic ticket for the other state officers, would not be entitled to receive a Republican ballot at the coming primary election, although he then declares that he proposes to affiliate with the Republican party in the coming campaign and generally support its candidates."

MANY SERVANTS WANTED.

Places Open For One Hundred Thousand Domestic.

New York, Aug. 17.—It has developed that places readily could be found for nearly 100,000 servant girls, if the latter could be secured.

The demand comes not only from this city, but from the West as well, whence the clamor for domestic help is as insistent as in this city and vicinity. Chicago is on the list of applicants, and inquiries from there indicate that the scarcity of help in that city is as bad as in New York.

This remarkable shortage in the supply of household maids was developed by the inquiries of an industrial organization into the proportion of female immigrants arriving here within the last six months.

The authorities on Ellis island could place about 40,000 domestic servants in positions within a radius of twenty miles of the metropolis within three hours after their arrival. More than as many more could be placed in the West.

The only trouble is we have not the 40,000, said an official of the immigration bureau. A few years ago Great Britain was doing all in her power to encourage emigration.

"My estimate of 40,000 homes wanting servants is a low one, but it is based on actual knowledge and first-class information."

SAWMILL BURNED
At Ada Causing a Loss of $20,000.

TO MAKE THE STATE SAFE

Republicans Plan to Nullify Danger of Wisconsin Strife.

Chicago, Aug. 17.—A possible way of avoiding confusion in the Republican electoral ticket in Wisconsin, thereby making the state "safe," in the estimation of Republican managers, is being considered by party leaders. It is proposed to have the Wisconsin supreme court pass on the question of having the same electors at the head of both the La Follette and "stalwart" tickets.

Senator Charles and other "stalwart" leaders believe that the law will permit this, and have outlined the proposition to party leaders. It is proposed to have the Wisconsin supreme court pass on the question of having the same electors at the head of both the La Follette and "stalwart" tickets.

Of course if the court should hold that the La Follette ticket is the regular ticket on both tickets, the question would be settled. The question in another phase. This was where a candidate of one party had been indicted by the other and it was planned to have his name in both tickets.

"With regard to the La Follette and 'stalwart' tickets, it is held that they are not tickets of two different parties, but of one and the same party with two factions."

OLD FEUD REVIVED.

Senator Stone, of Missouri, Bitterly Attacks Folk.

St. Louis, Aug. 17.—The old feud between Senator W. J. Stone and J. W. Folk has broken out with renewed bitterness, and charges of double dealing are rife. The senator recently accused Mr. Folk of having offered to make peace with the state machine, and Monday the nominee for governor replied in a bitter statement, in which he declared he meant to run the war between Mr. Folk and the machine.

SCANDAL ON THE SHERIDAN

Passengers Had Good Time Without Regard to Proprieties.

San Francisco, Aug. 17.—The big army transport Sheridan, which arrived from Manila yesterday, came in loaded with scandal. Not only did officers forget their manners and breeding, but women made most unseemly gossip by their conduct. A regular army sergeant, officers of the ship of accepting bribes for accommodations.

GIRL UNDER ARREST

At Mankato Said to Be Forger Queen.

Mankato, Minn., Aug. 17.—Lizzie Pfeiffer, alias Lizzie King, alias Anna Lee, the forger queen, is at present in the county jail in this city awaiting the action of the grand jury, which meets in November.

She is a Dubuque, Iowa, girl and she claims to be 18 years old, but appearances seem to indicate that she is somewhat older than the age she gives out. She is said to be one of the smoothest forgers in the country, and her arrest is a most fortunate occurrence.

She was a partner of the famous Frank Fox, alias C. H. Wilson, who is under arrest at Sioux Falls, charged with passing forged checks there. Miss Pfeiffer, or Lee, is the party who visited S. S. Smith, claiming to be Mrs. Frank Fox, and who passed a forged check for $75, which she had induced him to endorse. She also passed a forged check upon the National Bank of Commerce, of this city, for the sum of $58.

The girl above referred to claims she came from Chicago, but denied ever having been in Minneapolis, Sioux City or Savannah, Ill.

The officers of this county are very sure that the fair forger is Annabelle Lee, the famous forger queen, who was recently sentenced in Minneapolis to six months in prison. Miss Pfeiffer claims that Wilson, alias Fox, compelled her to sign these forged checks.

OLD COMMITTEE

Madison, Wis., Aug. 17.—The La Follette men have called a meeting of the old state central committee for next Friday at Madison to certify to the regularity of the La Follette convention. Such a certification, it is declared, is legally sufficient to insure the technical regularity of the ticket. Governor La Follette will begin his campaign on Thursday with a speech in Eau Claire.

NOVA SCOTIANS ARE FOR A TARIFF WALL

But they are not asking for it. They are believing and hoping that England will adopt and enforce a tariff against foreign nations as high and as steep as that which other nations enforce against her. An English tariff with a preferential clause for the imperial dependencies—that is what Nova Scotia wants now, but always with the proviso that it shall benefit by the preferential scheme, as proposed by Chamberlain. Nova Scotia's naturally loyal tendency is now stepping hand in hand with such essentially commercial advantages as the high tariff of the United States has left to the Halifax harbor. The question of a trade treaty with the United States is out of the question. But Halifax wants such a treaty.

"We want reciprocity with the United States," said J. E. DeWolf, one of the biggest shipping factors of Halifax, "but we're not going on our knees again to get it. We have had enough ships in the face. If the United States makes any kind of a fair proposition, Nova Scotia, and I believe, all Canada, will meet her half way. The question is either accept or deal now because we have lost faith in your country's willingness to do what is mutually fair."

WANT RECIPROCITY; WON'T ASK IT.
Mr. DeWolf is more frankly outspoken than many of his contemporaries here, but his opinion is representative of the sentiment of the Halifax board of trade. These men do not gossip with the swagbells nor play coquet with the subalterns of his majesty's army. They are from Canada and his business, and they want reciprocity with the United States because they believe it would be "good business." I talked to half a dozen of the leading manufacturers and exporters of this city today, and they all said in effect:

"What does it matter what we want? Surely we have given the United States ample proof of our desire for some treaty favorable to a greater trade exchange. We want reciprocity, certainly, but we can't get it from you. We don't need it as badly as we did once, and so we're willing to forget it until the United States makes a move. We've done our share and more."

NOVA SCOTIA'S GROWING TRADE.
The increase of Nova Scotia's purchases in the United States is maintained year by year, and the proportion of its purchases in England and in British possessions is growing much more rapidly. Of the total of last year, Canada took 2,100, and most of it was handled through Halifax.

The trade with British West Indies is increasing by leaps and bounds. The shipments of poultry, canned meats, vegetables, fruit and farm products go largely to England, and there is no end to the demand. But the profits are less than they would be if the same commodities could be marketed in New England. The bulk of the wood pulp, lumber, plaster, coal and iron trade of Nova Scotia goes now to England or the imperial colonies, and the ships of Halifax come loaded with the products of imperial factories, farms and mines. The long water hauls to and from these remote markets are costly, but the Nova Scotian is doing his best, and as he asserts, his best is getting better and he is in the opinion that the American market is a necessary life.

READY TO MEET ADVANCES.
There is no doubt that if the United States made advances towards Canada in the matter of a fair and equitable reciprocity treaty, the Liberal party, now in power at Ottawa and dominating Nova Scotia and most of the provincial parliaments, would make that issue its political battle cry and win another victory on the strength of the popularity of commercial unity with the states. But the most enthusiastic Liberal in the Dominion parliament and Nova Scotia's representation in the House of Commons, Mr. J. A. A. Macdonald, Liberal by 11 to 8, would not otherwise make a speech or frame a bill looking to an international commercial arrangement that is believed to be as hopeless as it is known to be popular in the maritime provinces.

Aside from the detrimental effects worked upon the commercial interests of Nova Scotia by the Dunlop tariff, a great damage was done to the shipping industries of Halifax by the United States' acquisition of Porto Rico. The ports of this island became counting points of the United States when that country gained possession of the

TERRIBLE HOLES

Roadbed Swallows Up Carriage With Woman Occupying It.

Earth Bottoms Dropping Out Occasionally Occur In Florida.

Tallahassee, Fla., Aug. 17.—An unusual catastrophe of a roadbed giving way under a carriage, sinking out of sight and swallowing up the carriage with a woman occupying it, happened a short time ago near the village of Newberry in South Florida.

The woman, who was a traveling drug seller, having finished her work at Newberry, concluded to visit the nearby phosphate mines in the interests of her business, and to convey her to the mines pursued a two-horse livery carriage with a two-horse driver, which was a pleasant one, had continued without incident several miles when, in passing through a sink locality, the roadbed suddenly became shaky and then sank into water, the woman, carriage, horses and driver sinking with it. The driver, however, heading the first warnings of the danger to which he had been so unexpectedly exposed, sprang from his seat and cut the traces of the horses struggling up the sinking bank and both he and the horses were saved. About an hour after the submergence the carriage was pulled out of the hole with its lifeless occupant upon the seat.

This is the first human life that has been lost in this way in Florida. Cows and other domestic animals, however, are frequently swallowed up by the earth sinking under them in the Newberry region.

But close approaches to fatal results from earth bottom dropping out are of occasional occurrence in this state. Doubtless the most remarkable one of these on record was the falling in of a section of railroad bed near Gainesville in August, 1894. The sinking occurred while a freight train was passing over the place, and the locomotive was forty feet deep. The locomotive had crossed the place before the ground gave way, but four of the cars went tumbling into the pit. That none of the train men were hurt or killed seemed almost miraculous.

The sinking of the earth, as occurring at Newberry and Gainesville, forms what are known as sink holes, and they are caused by the falling in of caves in limestone rock. The bedrock of the Florida peninsula is Eocene limestone. This rock was formed at a late period of geological time, and is softer and much more porous than that of the older limestone formations. It is quite pervious to water, is cracked and fissured, and in many places honeycombed with cavities, caverns, water courses and other evidences of eroding action. The rock wears constantly going on within innumerable doses of it so greatly weaken the roof that it can no longer support the weight of the rock and earth upon it, and it will fall in, forming a sink hole.

Some sinks contain water and some are dry. These containing water usually carry away water that may run into the holes from springs in their banks, and from rain water. In some cases, considerable size flowing from lakes.

The "Bottomless Pit," a sink in range county nearly 300 feet deep, whose water level is thirty feet below the water level of a large nearby lake, is one of the most striking sink holes in the same county, near Orlando, a large stream of water discharges, the overfalls from the sink, and the outlet to this sink became plugged about two months ago, and all efforts to remove the obstruction failed. The water has, therefore, taken overland routes and has spread over several hundred acres of the surrounding country, covering fruitful fields and caking under houses. The "colored" suburb of Jacksonville, near the sink, seems likely to become engulfed, and the stable inhabitants, frightened and mystified at the coming of such a prodigy, are looking for a sign of God's rainbow promise, are leaving the place for higher and drier habitations.

In the Newberry region sinks serve incidentally a valuable purpose. Phosphate mining is carried on very extensively here, and the sink holes, which are usually from 10 to 20 feet deep, are used to pump the water into the phosphate washers where the rock is cleaned for market. The neighboring sinks carry away the dirty water from the washers, and these overflow into the sinks, and these overflow into the sinks, and so on. It is only a few feet, and the mouth is widened at the top, forming a cone of earth, and in some cases there is a drop of from eighty to fifty feet, leaving a hole like a deep well. The water of such sinks usually become clear shortly after falling in occurs, indicating that the falling ground fell into flowing water. The original settlers of the Newberry region built their houses near these natural wells to save the expense of digging for water.

UNDERGROUND WALL IN TEXAS

The Geologists Assert That It Is of Volcanic Origin.

Dallas, Tex., Aug. 16.—Near Rockwall is one of the most curious formations in Texas. This town and county was named after it, and many contended that in spite of the opinion of scientists to the contrary, the formation is the product of the toll of a prehistoric race of people. The rock, which is a soft, silty, clayey material, extends along three sides of the town, but generally at some distance from it, although in some places it is to be found within 20 or 30 yards of the corporation line. No one seems to know how it got there, but traces of it have been discovered along the river in Dallas county. It is, in fact, a volcanic upheaval. It is composed of stones which are three or four feet in diameter, and are piled on top of one another, just like brick, and with the same regularity.

A SEVERE BLOW

Struck at the Closed Shop By Illinois Appellate Court.

Incidentally at Anti-Injunction Bill Now Before Congress.

Washington, Aug. 17.—(Special to The Herald).—In a decision handed down a few days ago by the appellate court of Illinois, in case of the Kellogg Switchboard company, the court dealt a severe blow at the closed shop and incidentally at the anti-injunction bill which is before congress. The Kellogg Switchboard case is one of those about which the anti-injunction bill revolves, it being one of the principal sources of complaint of the labor unions against the use of the federal injunction in labor disputes, that by its application in the case of the Switchboard company, the Kellogg Switchboard company, the court dealt a severe blow at the closed shop and incidentally at the anti-injunction bill which is before congress.

HUSBAND SECURED By Placing Name on Stick of Dynamite.

Terre Haute, Ind., Aug. 17.—When Miss Madia Dunn, of Hidalgo, Ill., received a letter from a member of the Army Medical corps, stationed at Proviso, R. I., as a result of her father's jokingly writing her name on an egg in a shipment, and the letter led to a correspondence which is to be followed amendments of the constitution of the United States. The agreement in question would, if executed, tend to create a monopoly in favor of the members of the different unions, and in this respect unlawful. Contracts tending to create a monopoly are void.

The significance of this decision should be upheld by the supreme court, is one which appeals to every employer and every workman. In the United States, union or non-union, it is in effect, that where agreements are entered into by employers and labor unions to the effect that none but union workmen shall be employed a monopoly of labor in that particular industry is thus created, which is unlawful, and contracts tending to this end are void. Thousands of businesses are now conducted on this plan. The most strike was prolonged simply for the reason that the packers would not discharge the non-union men, who had taken the places of the strikers and take back their old employees. In almost every labor dispute the same question is involved, as it has been for years the constant aim of the labor leaders to enforce the closed shop. Yet it is scarcely likely that either the unions or the employers would care to execute contracts of a character which the supreme court of the United States has declared unconstitutional, and consequently a final decision on this point by the highest court of the land is of the greatest importance and will be awaited with unusual interest.

SCENE IN A CHURCH.
Young Woman Appears Gladly Only in Undergarments.
Philadelphia, Aug. 17.—Clad only in undergarments, Miss Mary Black, a pretty young woman and a distant relative of ex-Governor Black of New York walked up the aisle of the Episcopal church, interrupting the evening service, and announcing in solemn tones: "I am with a message to you from Christ. By the apparition, the congregation, numbering upward of 300, sat speechless. None knew what to do, help before them, women veiled and prayed. The girl finally was persuaded to go to her home in Pine street. She appeared to be rational upon all subjects other than religion. Later she did not recall going to the church, in which she is an active worker. Miss Black is twenty-five years old. She has been an orphan since she was nine years old, and though dependent upon herself she has acquired a good education."

SKIN DISEASES

The Outcropping of Bad Blood.

While not always painful these are aggravating beyond expression. With few exceptions they are worse in spring and summer, when the system begins to thaw out and the skin is reacting and making extra efforts to throw off the poisons that have accumulated during the winter months.

Ten boils and pimples, rashes and eruptions of every conceivable kind make their appearance, and Eczema and Tetter—the twin terrors of skin diseases—Nettle Rash, Poison Oak and Ivy, and such other skin troubles as usually remain quiet during the cold weather, break out afresh to torment and distract by their fearful burning, itching and stinging. A course of S. S. S. now will purify and enrich the blood, reinforce and tone up the general system, and carry off the bodily impurities through the proper channels. The skin, with good blood to nourish it, remains smooth and free of all disfiguring eruptions. Send for our book on diseases of the skin, and write us if you desire medical advice or any special information. This will cost you nothing.

Sometimes in sink forming the drop is only a few feet, and the mouth is widened at the top, forming a conical hole. In some cases there is a clear drop of from eighty to fifty feet, leaving a hole like a deep well. The water of such sinks usually becomes clear shortly after falling in occurs, indicating that the falling ground fell into flowing water. The Newberry region built their houses near these natural wells to save the expense of digging for water.

The Beverage of Health

Pure beer—Schlitz beer—is the best drink in the world for you.

The malt is a food; the hops a tonic. The alcohol only 3 1/2 per cent—is an aid to digestion; a healthful stimulant.

The most healthy nations in the world—the most hardy, most energetic—drink the most of it.

But the beer must be pure. Impurity means harmful germs. That is why we brew Schlitz in absolute cleanliness—why we filter even the air that touches it and sterilize every bottle.

And the beer must be aged. Green beer causes biliousness. That's why we age Schlitz for months before we market it.

A SEVERE BLOW

Struck at the Closed Shop By Illinois Appellate Court.

Incidentally at Anti-Injunction Bill Now Before Congress.

Washington, Aug. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—In a decision handed down a few days ago by the appellate court of Illinois, in case of the Kellogg Switchboard company, the court dealt with a severe blow at the closed shop and incidentally at the anti-injunction bill now before Congress.

The Kellogg Switchboard case is one of those about which the anti-injunction bill revolves, it being one of the principal sources of complaint of the labor unions against the use of the federal injunction in labor disputes, that by its application in the case of the Switchboard company's strike they were prevented from winning the strike.

The American Anti-Boycott association took up the case of the Kellogg company, which was one of its members, when the non-union employees of the company were being beaten almost to death and harassed in every possible manner by the strikers and their sympathizers.

The case has now been brought upon by the demand of the unions that the company should execute an agreement that none but regular members of the union should be employed in the exercise by the unions of authority to enforce the agreement. The Kellogg company refused to sign, a strike was declared and the factory was picketed. Although a large number of men seeking work at the Kellogg company's factory were seriously beaten, so that the casualties in this connection almost equalled those of a strike, particularly in the lower court the unions appealed, and the appellate court has not sustained the injunction unanimously. In fact the court takes occasion to note that the unions sought to compel the company to execute a contract in defiance of the law, and that "duress exists when a person is induced to perform an act to avoid a threatened and impending calamity."

Not only that, but the court vigorously points out that "especially in the purpose to compel complainant to execute the agreement in question, an unlawful purpose. Article one of the agreement strikes at the right of contract and provides that complainant shall employ none but persons of the several unions, thus discriminating in favor of one class of men and excluding all others." The court holds that an employer whose workmen have left him and gone on a strike, particularly when they have done so without justifiable cause, "is entitled to contract with other laborers or workmen to fill the places of those who have left him. Any workman seeking work has a right to make a contract with such a player to work for him in the place of any one of the men who have left him to go out on a strike."

The opinion holds that it has been well said that the privilege of contracting is both a liberty and a property right, and that the right to acquire property. Liberty is property, and to deprive the laborer of this right to contract is a violation of the constitution of the state of Illinois.

It is further held that it is equally a violation of the fifth and fourteenth amendments of the constitution of the United States. "The agreement in question, if executed, tend to create a monopoly in favor of the members of the different unions, and is in this respect unlawful. Contracts tending to create a monopoly are void."

The significance of this decision, should it be upheld by the supreme court, is one which appeals to every employer and every workman in the United States, union or non-union. It is in effect, that where agreements are entered into by employers and labor unions to the effect that none but union workmen shall be employed a monopoly of labor in that particular instance is thus created, which is unlawful, and contracts tending to this end are void. Thousands of businesses are now conducted on this plan. The meat strike was prolonged simply for the reason that the packers would not discharge the non-union men. The coal strike was prolonged simply for the reason that the coal miners would not take back their old employees. In almost every labor dispute the same question is involved, as it has been for years the constant aim of the labor leaders to enforce the closed shop. Yet it is scarcely necessary to say that the unions or the employers would care to execute contracts of a character which the supreme court has declared to be unconstitutional, and consequently a final decision on this point by the highest court in the land would be of the greatest importance and will be awaited with unusual interest.

HUSBAND SECURED By Placing Name on Stick of Dynamite.

Terre Haute, Ind., Aug. 17.—When Miss Madia Dunn, of Hidalgo, Ill., received a letter from a member of the Army Medical corps, stationed at Providence, R. I., as a result of her father jokingly writing her name on an egg in a shipment, and the letter led to a correspondence which is to be followed by a visit from the army man, her cousin, Lulu Dunn, tied a slip of paper bearing her address to a stick of dynamite at the powder mill, near her home. The explosive brought a dynamite from a man in Mississippi, whose name is kept secret, but it is likely that about the time the army man comes from the Atlantic coast the other man will come from the gulf to make a visit to Hidalgo.

SCENE IN A CHURCH. Young Woman Appears Clad Only in Undergarments.

Philadelphia, Aug. 17.—Clad only in undergarments, Miss Mary Black, a pretty young woman and a distant relative of ex-Governor Black of New York walked up the aisle of the Fortieth street Methodist Episcopal church, interrupting the evening service, and announcing in solemn tones: "I am with a message to you from the congregation, numbering upward of 300, sat speechless. None knew what to do, except to go to her home in Pine street. She appeared to be rational upon all subjects other than religion. Later she did not recall going to the church in which she is an active worker. Miss Black is twenty-five years old. She has been an orphan since she was nine years old, and though dependent upon herself she has acquired a good education.

SKIN DISEASES

The Outcropping of Bad Blood.

While not always painful these are aggravating beyond expression. With few exceptions they are worse in spring and summer, when the system begins to thaw out and the skin is reacting and making extra efforts to throw off the poisons that have accumulated during the winter months.

Then boils and pimples, rashes and eruptions of every conceivable kind make their appearance, and Eczema and Tetter—the twin terrors of skin diseases—Nettle Rash, Poison Oak and Ivy, and such other skin troubles as usually remain quiet during the cold weather, break out afresh to torment and distract by their fearful burning, itching and stinging.

A course of S. S. S. now will purify and enrich the blood, reinforce and tone up the general system, and carry off the bodily impurities through the proper channels. The skin, with good blood to nourish it, remains smooth and free of all disfiguring eruptions. Send for our book on diseases of the skin, and write us if you desire medical advice or any special information. This will cost you nothing.

UNDERGROUND WALL IN TEXAS

The Geologists Assert That It Is of Volcanic Origin.

Dallas, Tex., Aug. 16.—Near Rockwall is one of the most curious formations in Texas. This town and county was named after it, and many contended that in spite of the opinion of geologists to the contrary, the formation is the product of the tool of a prehistoric race of people.

The rock wall, as it is called, extends along three sides of the town, but generally at some distance from it, although in some cases it is to be found within 20 or 30 yards of the corporation line. No one knows just how it was formed, but traces of it have been discovered across the river in Dallas county.

Geologists say that the rock owes its origin to a volcanic upheaval. It is composed of stones which three miles in length. They are piled on top of one another.

OBJECT TO GRADES

Street Railway Officials and West End People Confer.

Officials Say Grades Are Too Stiff For Their Lines.

The committee of West End citizens which was appointed to meet with Manager Warren and Resident Director Luther Mendenhall, of the Duluth-Superior Traction company, held its conference this afternoon in the office of Mr. Mendenhall. The purpose of this meeting was to get the committee's views on the proposed extension of the street car line up Piedmont avenue to the Miller creek bridge.

Alderman E. Olson was chairman of the committee and he presented the citizens' side of the matter to the street car representatives. Mr. Olson stated the wishes of the citizens in regard to the matter and said that he thought a street car line as proposed would be a paying proposition as there is quite a large population in that part of the city. He further stated that if the proposed extension of the street car line up Piedmont avenue to the Miller creek bridge, the population would increase rapidly and the line would become very profitable.

Mr. Olson presented a petition signed by 500 persons, which being the head of a family. Mr. Olson said that if necessary 100 more names could be easily secured.

After hearing what the committee had to say, Mr. Mendenhall and Mr. Warren gave their views of the matter. They objected to the extension as things stand now, the line and steep grade. Mr. Warren stated that the proposed extension of the street car line up Piedmont avenue to the Miller creek bridge, the population would increase rapidly and the line would become very profitable.

Mr. Olson said that if necessary 100 more names could be easily secured. After discussing the matter at some length the committee asked how steep a grade the company would attempt to climb, if there were no other objections. Manager Warren said that an 8 per cent grade was the steepest they could climb.

It was then decided by the committee to consult the city engineer and see if anything could be done to lower the grades and then submit his report to the street railway company.

The citizens had an estimate from the city engineer as to the cost of building the proposed extension, his estimate being $200,000, which Mr. Warren said was about right. The members of the committee seemed to think that this was a reasonable estimate of the cost of the proposed extension. Another conference will be held after the city engineer is consulted in regard to lowering the grades.

BOARD WILL MEET.

Grades For New Crop Year to Be Fixed.

E. H. Pugh, chairman of the Duluth board of grain appeals, announces a joint meeting of the state board to be held at Minneapolis, Wednesday, Aug. 31, for the purpose of adopting rules for the grading of grain for the crop of 1904, and known as Minnesota grades.

Mr. Pugh says it seems to be the opinion of grain men, that as Minnesota grades are well known and standard, they desire to have as few changes made as possible. In Macdonald's wheat there will be no change in the rules for grading, but what they will be will not be fully decided until the meeting. At present the rules provide that any spring wheat containing an admixture of Macdonald's wheat, shall grade rejected, but owing to the immense increase in acreage of this variety of wheat, and its milling qualities, this ruling will in all probability be changed.

AN ATTEMPT TO KIDNAP

Italian at Pittsburg Has Narrow Escape From Lynching.

Pittsburg, Aug. 17.—An unknown Italian, who, it is alleged, attempted to kidnap Helen White, a child 5 years old, narrowly escaped lynching in a leg-iron this afternoon when he was taken from serious injury by the arrival of the police. The Italian first gave the child a severe beating and then was starting away with her in his arms when he was seen by a neighbor, who pulled the child from him. The report quickly spread that it was the work of the Italian society of the "Black Hand," and a crowd of nearly 1000 soon surrounded a tenement house on Robinson street, in which the Italian had taken refuge. Cries of "Lynch him" were numerous and efforts were being made to capture him when the police arrived. The Italian was well known to the police and was taken to the Central station followed by a large crowd. After he had been locked up the mob dispersed. As the prisoner was unable to speak English, the police gave him the name of James Flesch. He will be given a hearing tomorrow.

RAILROAD NEWS

Special Rates Made For Opening of Reservation Lands.

Railroad President Here But Not Much In Evidence.

The Great Northern and Northern Pacific roads announced today special rates which will go into effect from Duluth and all points along their respective lines to Devils Lake and Grand Forks, in case of the opening of the Indian reservation lands.

Both companies have made a $10 round trip from the head of the lakes, going Thursday or Friday and with a return limit fixed as Aug. 23.

A half fare round trip will be made from local points along the respective lines, outside of the Twin Cities, to either Devils Lake or Grand Forks, in case the fare does not fall below $2.

It is expected that there will be a number of persons from this section of the country who will take advantage of the low railroad fare to go out to the opening of the reservation and secure homesteads, but, in all probability there will be no such rush as at Bonesteel.

Many inquiries have been had by the local ticket offices as to whether any special rates would go into effect and what rates.

It is expected that some persons who will take advantage of the special rates will go out to see the country and visit friends rather than to do any land seeking.

VISITING PRESIDENT.

A. F. Banks of Chicago, president of the Elgin, Joliet & Eastern road, and the Chicago, Lake Shore & Eastern road, lines which form a complete belt line for the city of Chicago, came up the lakes on the steamer Cornell, last evening, with a party of friends. It was expected that the steamer office that he would be a visitor about the city today, but as far as could be learned up to this afternoon, none of the party left the Cornell, which was tied up at the Northwestern No. 3 dock to unload coal. The belt lines, of which Mr. Banks is president, are right through the South Chicago district and the stock yards, where the packers are now having their troubles.

Rates Go Off.

Tomorrow night will expire the sale of the special excursion tickets over the South Shore road to the Sault for the Northern Michigan Firemen's tournament. Last evening the South Shore company's train took a large list of passengers bound for the Sault, and the advance ticket sale indicates another crowd out this evening.

Makes Quick Trip.

Northern Passenger Agent A. Brostedt of the Great Northern road, returned last evening on the steamship North West from a flying trip to Detroit where Mrs. Brostedt has been visiting. He left Duluth last Friday and arrived by train in Detroit in time to catch the boat. Mrs. Brostedt says he did not have time to sit up and nod things much, but so far as he had the opportunity of observing things had, in general, a prosperous air.

WORSE THAN ORIGINALLY PERSONAL.

Mrs. A. Baldwin and Michael F. Chalk again inspected the steamer Mary Mann yesterday afternoon. They found that the steamer was in a worse condition than when first examined. You are hereby informed that a certificate of inspection cannot be issued to the steamer until the repairs, which you were formerly advised were necessary, are fully completed.

It was also found that the lifeboat attached to the vessel has been broken since our last examination. This must be properly repaired, or a new one procured. The stairway leading to the upper deck, which was taken away, must be replaced. The red and green lights must be fitted with inward screens, projecting at least three feet forward of the lifeboat.

"It was found that the hose connections to the fire pumps were not properly fitted, neither was the fuel-cup to the back combustion chamber of boiler covered as you were verbally informed it should be. When these repairs are completed, advance us and the boat will be examined again."

Company Answers.

The answer to the personal injury suit of Alden Anderson, by his guardian, against the Drake & Stratton company, was filed today with the clerk of federal court. Anderson, a boy, was injured July 3, 1902, while in the employ of the mining company at Duluth. The answer admits the injury, but expressly denies that the injury was due to any fault, carelessness or negligence of the defendant, further stating that it was due to the negligence of the boy himself. The case was first started in the United States circuit court at Duluth, and was removed to the state district court. Attorneys for the defendant are coming to get the case into the federal court.

TO KEEP BUSINESS

It is better to know a few things about advertising than to be a great many things that are not true. Here is one thing that is true and worth remembering: Store advertising should be as full of prices as a society news column is full of names.

The merchant whose store is interesting to himself can make it interesting to others. The merchant whose store bores him will not make his ads very spirited or alluring.

The value of advertising space and the value of an egg are subject to the same rule. A "double" egg, you know, is dear at any price.

A railroad without a time-table or a regular train schedule would attract comment, but would not make much money. But a merchant who advertises only now and then will attract neither comment nor money.

Every merchant who advertises attracts, gradually, a clientele of readers—many of whom have never yet visited his store. When they do visit his store they feel as though they had known him for a long time.

TO IMPROVE HIGH SCHOOLS

Advisability of Change of Courses in Minnesota to Be Discussed.

St. Paul, Aug. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The advisability of changing the course of study in Minnesota high schools so as to lay a better foundation for becoming good merchants, bankers, doctors, lawyers or artists, and to prepare pupils for active participation in social and political affairs, rather than merely preparing them for a college course, will be discussed by a special committee appointed by the Minnesota Educational association, which will meet at the state capital next Tuesday. The state high school board will meet at the same time, and it is expected that the question will also be considered by that board.

The specific measure that will be considered as a means of making the Minnesota high school more "practical" is a resolution introduced before high school board by C. A. Morse of Winona, amending the law regulating the granting of state aid to high schools. The amendment provides that no school shall receive state aid unless it offers a course which prepares for the advanced course of the normal schools, as well as the state university and offers special instruction in reading, writing, spelling, geography, arithmetic, English grammar, United States history and civil government. Under the present law, a high school has to offer a course which prepares for the state university, but not for the normal schools. The amendment offers additional aid of $750 for giving special instruction in the common branches.

DOINGS IN MICHIGAN

Upper Peninsula Association of Firemen Elect Officers.

Sault Ste. Marie.—At the annual convention of the Upper Peninsula firemen's association, the following officers were elected: President, Thomas Murphy, Baraga; first vice president, Charles O'Rourke, Ontonagon; second vice president, E. R. Bayless, Rossmore; secretary, T. J. Flynn, Negaunee; treasurer, G. J. Murray, Michigan City.

On the fifth ballot the delegates decided to hold the next tournament at Ironwood, a mile long yesterday forenoon. The next two days will be given over to races.

Calumet.—A tract of 2000 acres of land, containing 200,000 feet of pine, hemlock, birch, basswood and cedar, has been purchased by prominent lumbermen. The timber is near the holdings of the Turtel Lake Lumber company and the Turtel Lake-Pine-Donnell company, in northern Wisconsin, and it will take about fifteen years to cut it.

A company will be organized this week with a capital of $100,000, practically all of which has been subscribed by capitalists and lumbermen of Grand Rapids, Greenville and Muskegon. The railroad company has agreed to extend its lines through the timber lands and it is believed that active operations may be begun in the winter.

Shipments of lumber from upper peninsula ports continue heavy. Many ships are leaving with cargoes for lower lake ports.

Escanaba.—William Hughson, four-year-old son of J. W. Hughson of 1110 Langley street, Escanaba, was killed unconscious by a motor car. The child was struck by a deep gash in his forehead. The car was driven by a man named James McMillan, who was driving on the highway. The child was killed instantly.

IN WOMAN'S SPHERE

Social, Musical and Art Circles.

Last evening the wedding of Miss Maude Givens and Robert Gaskin Dunlop took place at the parlors of the Young Women's Christian association, and was one of the prettiest ceremonies of the week. The rooms were prettily decorated, sweet peas with ferns and dainty trailing smilax being used entirely. In the reception hall pink and white blossoms were used, and in the parlor, where the ceremony took place, a wealth of the white sweet pea blossoms were arranged most effectively.

At 9 o'clock the bridal chorus from "Lohengrin" was sung by Mrs. Leo Hall, Miss Moody, John Martin and H. G. Gearhart, and Miss Culver and Mr. Dunlop entered the parlor. The service was read by Rev. Alexander Milne, of the Congregational church. The bride wore a dainty gown of white silk and carried sweet peas. After the ceremony an informal reception was held. Mrs. W. A. McGonigle, Mrs. A. L. Agnew, Mrs. W. E. Seidel and Dr. Emilie Maris and the bride couple received.

In the dining room Misses Goodman, Cameron, Scribner, Reeder, Maxwell, Drew and Miss Wilson assisted. During the evening Mrs. and Mr. Dunlop left for a wedding trip and will return to Duluth and be at home after Nov. 1 at 621 East Third street.

SHOW LITTLE INTEREST.

Why Do Not Women Care More For Tennis?

Why is there not more interest displayed by the female portion of Duluth in the tennis tournament now being held at the courts of the Endion Tennis club is a question that has been asked more than once during the past few days. Tennis is not generally played in the city, but most everybody has enough of an understanding of the game to enjoy the brilliant and beautiful chance of wearing chic and picturesque summer garments, sit in the shade and keep cool, with in the meantime a rise in the temperature caused by the exciting play. But save for a few spectators, a dozen women the courts are barren of the spectators who, through curiosity, are said to add to the beauty of the game. It is unexplainable. In the full girls will pack in jammed cars, ride on a bicycle, or on a horse, and will sit to comfortable, cool, calm and collected to see an afternoon of play. The spectators are brilliant, and recently offers small attraction.

To Western Conference.

Mrs. Wesley Peetman, secretary of the local Young Women's Christian association left today for Lake Geneva, Wis., where she will attend the fourteenth western conference for young women which will be held at that place, August 19 to 25. The conference is under the auspices of the American committee and each year its sphere of influence widens and the study and work of the conference is particularly valuable to those in association with it.

The theme of the conference for this year will be "Holding Fast the Word of Life" and special study will be made of the ways of evangelization of the young women in the cities. A fine list of speakers who will be heard during the conference is announced, and management expect a particularly large attendance and successful conference. Mrs. Peetman will return August 31 and during her absence, Miss Emma Reader will be in charge of the work here.

MRS. ADAMS' LUNCHEON.

Handsome Function at Town and County Club.

Mrs. J. B. Adams was hostess at a charming luncheon yesterday at the Town and County club. The affair was in honor of Mrs. Adams' guest, Mrs. R. M. Bennett, of Minneapolis. The guests were seated at three tables, which were decorated beautifully with the season's flowers. At one sweet peas were the blossoms used at another, nasturtiums were the flowers chosen for the decoration, and the third table was brilliant with scarlet geraniums. Covers were laid for:

Mrs. Adams, John H. Upland, Jr., T. Abbott, J. E. Olcott, George L. Chase, F. E. L. Brown, Edward Mendenhall, William Dalrymple, A. M. Marshall, R. E. Knox, H. E. Brown, J. E. Granger, Bert L. Dorian, J. M. Miller, Misses: Crowley, J. d. Autremont, Josephine Peyton, Anna Dickinson, Constance, Nellie, C. E. Crenshaw, Grace Gilbert, Marie Draper.

Burke-Eagle.

A pretty wedding took place yesterday at the Cathedral when Miss Elizabeth Burke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Burke, and William A. Eagle were married. Rev. Father Floyd read the service. The bride was attended by Miss Tillie Eagle and the bridesmaids were Misses: Crowley, J. d. Autremont, Josephine Peyton, Anna Dickinson, Constance, Nellie, C. E. Crenshaw, Grace Gilbert, Marie Draper.

THE EVENING STORY.

AN UNWILLING REFORMER

By J. C. Plummer.

"Cut," snapped Captain Pratt, "Cut, if I see you loafing in that fur furnace the Good Book tells about I wouldn't put 'im out. No, sir; if there was a chunk of wood handy I'd throw it on the fire."

"That's a sound argument," remarked the red-nosed man, swallowing thickly, but the captain's stare and the look of the Good Book told him that he was in a bad way.

No Other Name Likely to Be Presented to Convention.

Oshkosh, Wis., Aug. 18.—A. F. Warden, of Waukesha, chairman of the Democratic state central committee, was an Oshkosh visitor yesterday. He came here to talk over the coming Democratic state convention for the selection of a state ticket, which convenes in Oshkosh on Aug. 31. During his stay he consulted George B. Hilton, who is chairman in charge of arrangements for the big gathering of Democracy, and also met members of the various local committees.

Mr. Warden stated that everything in favor of Mr. Peck has grown proportioned throughout the four corners of the state, and he would not be surprised if Mr. Peck were to be the unanimous choice of the convention. As to the possibilities for the other positions on the ticket, Mr. Warden did not feel free to express an opinion, as he said there were several candidates for several positions, and it would not be fair to say that any particular one stood the best show for nomination.

SAM CAMPBELL HAS NEW ISSUE

Indian Agent Again In Bout With Higher Officials.

Washington, Aug. 18.—Indian Agent Sam Campbell, located at La Pointe, has a new issue with his superior officers. This time the agent refuses to permit some of the Indians in his charge to roam on a tract of land embracing about 1200 acres, just outside of Ashland, Wis. The Indians are reported here to want to use the land for agricultural purposes. Agent Campbell believes that should be converted into a poor farm. He has been called upon by Commissioner Jones to report the facts.

to get in motion. Judging by the noise from Ashland, Commissioner Jones came to the conclusion that Maj. Campbell had assembled the Indians in an old-time war dance.

Not Rodman is still in the service. Some of the officials believe that the agent will have his poor farm, which is his pet hobby.

In Old Kentucky.
Friday, Saturday and special Saturday matinee.

SPECIAL LAND AGENTS
Appointed to Have Charge of Various States.
Washington, Aug. 18.—For the purpose of securing a more efficient administration of the law under which special agents of the general land office are appointed, Secretary Hitchcock has approved a plan of the commissioner of the general land office, arranging the states and territories containing public lands into nine districts. An agent, to be known as a special agent in charge, is to be designated for each of these districts.

The states comprising this class are as follows: First, Washington; second, Oregon; third, District of California, Nevada; fourth, District of Idaho, Montana; fifth, Colorado, Utah, Kansas; sixth, Arizona, New Mexico; seventh, North Dakota, South Dakota, Wyoming, Nebraska; eighth, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Missouri, Alabama, Florida, Louisiana, Mississippi, Arkansas.

Those designated as agents in charge and the states from which they hail are as follows: First, W. W. Dixon, Oregon; second, T. B. Neuhagen, Minnesota; third, E. C. Ryan, New York; fourth, H. H. Schwartz, South Dakota; fifth, M. J. O'Brien, Wyoming; sixth, George F. Wilson, Rhode Island; seventh, Peter H. Wadsworth, Indiana; eighth, Samuel J. Collier, Wisconsin; ninth, Matthew D. McEnery, Ohio.

Headquarters of the special agent in charge will be situated at a United States land office.

WALTER EAGAN LOSES GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP.

Highland Park, Ill., Aug. 18.—The first round of match play in the Western golf championship, at the Exmoor links yesterday, was marked by a surprise—the defeat of the title holder, Walter E. Egan, of the Exmoor club.

by S. C. Spitzer, a player from the River Forest golf club. Spitzer was pressed hard by the champion, but won by one up. Egan's comment was that he had been beaten by a careful and accurate golfer. Spitzer was 13 up at the fifth, but the next three holes were taken by Egan, and the ninth hole was halved, and the match was all square.

Egan won the tenth hole, 4 to 5, but lost the eleventh, 4 to 3 and the match again was squared. Spitzer took the next hole, but Egan won the fourteenth, squaring matters again.

The fifteenth was halved in four, and winning the sixteenth, Spitzer was 1 up. Determined to make a gallant stand, Egan played perfect golf and took the seventeenth in 3 to 4, and the match again was all square.

Egan played badly to the home hole and lost it, 6 to 5, and with it the championship title he gained at Cleveland last year.

HE TAKES A CHANCE

James Bickford Returns From Registering In Government Lottery.

No Rush or Crowding, Precedence Being of No Advantage.

James Bickford, of Twentieth avenue west, conductor on the Northern Pacific railroad, returned this morning from Devils Lake, N. D., where he went to register for the opening of the Indian reservation lands. He succeeded in registering all right yesterday, with little trouble to himself.

"Owing to the fact that there are four or five places through the state where one may register, and that the first name down has no better chance than the last in this big game of chance, the rush at the opening of the registration booths was not as great as might otherwise have been the case, said Mr. Bickford today.

"There were hundreds of people on hand at Devils Lake, however, but the people did not stand in line for a day or two before the opening of the doors, for it was not necessary to take any such action. The militia was on hand to see that order was preserved, but while I was around I did not see any disturbances which would call for action on the part of the soldiers.

"It costs only 25 cents to register, so everybody out there takes a chance. Add these names to those of the thousands of outsiders, and there will probably be something over 100 applicants for each claim."

Superior while out there, all with a similar purpose in view. That of taking a chance in the great lottery. I guess they would stand a chance of getting more for their money if they would take the amount expended in railway fare and play one of the roulette wheels across the bay.

MISS DAHL'S BODY FOUND

Under Brush Pile—Examination of Two Suspects Begun.

Benldi, Minn., Aug. 18.—The body of Miss August Dahl, who, with her father, was last seen alive on April 3, was found yesterday under a brush pile about a mile east of where the body of her father was discovered three weeks ago. N. O. Dahl and his daughter, August, occupied a homestead near Quirine. They disappeared last April, and no trace of them was discovered until the body of the father was found buried at the foot of a tree. Search has continued for the remains of the girl, but without success until yesterday.

The authorities are convinced that the two were murdered and ascribe robbery as a motive for the crime. It having been reported that the Dahl possessed a large sum of money. The state and county offered large rewards for the discovery of the bodies and arrest and conviction of the murderers.

The preliminary examination of Eugene Caldwell and Paul Fournier, who are held as suspects in the Dahl tragedy, was begun today before Judge Reynolds.

The evidence against the men is largely circumstantial, and it doubtful whether they can be held to the full term of district court.

PALMER HOUSE GUESTS APPEAR EN DESHABILLE.

Chicago, Aug. 18.—A fire which did slight damage in the upper story of a building at 16-22 Wabash avenue last night, was the cause of a panic among the guests at the Palmer house, which adjoins the building in which the fire occurred. The smoke from the burning building and the uproar created by the fire engines in the street caused many of the people in the hotel to think they were in danger and they made a rush for the street. Several women ran into State street wearing nothing but a little or nothing else and men in all kinds of undress poured through the doorways. The hotel was not at any time in the slightest danger, but the employees of the establishment had their hands full for half an hour in trying to quiet the people.

TRAINING SHIP LAUNCHED

Boston, Aug. 18.—The new United States steel sailing ship Cumberland, which was built by the government at the Charleston navy yard as a training vessel, was successfully launched yesterday afternoon in the presence of many distinguished people. The ship was named by Miss Pauline Morton, the daughter of the secretary of the navy. She broke a bottle of champagne on the vessel's bows. The launching was attended by a large number of Grand Army veterans with members of their families.

Is an ordeal which women approach with indescribable fear, for nothing compares with the pain and horror of child-birth. The thought of the suffering and danger in store for her, robs the expectant mother of all pleasant anticipations of the coming event, and casts over her a shadow of gloom which cannot be shaken off. Thousands of women have found that the use of Mother's Friend during pregnancy robs confinement of all pain and danger, and insures safety to life of mother and child. This scientific liniment is a god-send to all women at the time of their most critical trial. Not only does Mother's Friend carry women safely through the perils of child-birth, but its use gently prepares the system for the coming event, prevents "morning sickness," and other discomforts of this period. Sold by all druggists at $1.00 per bottle. Book containing valuable information free.
